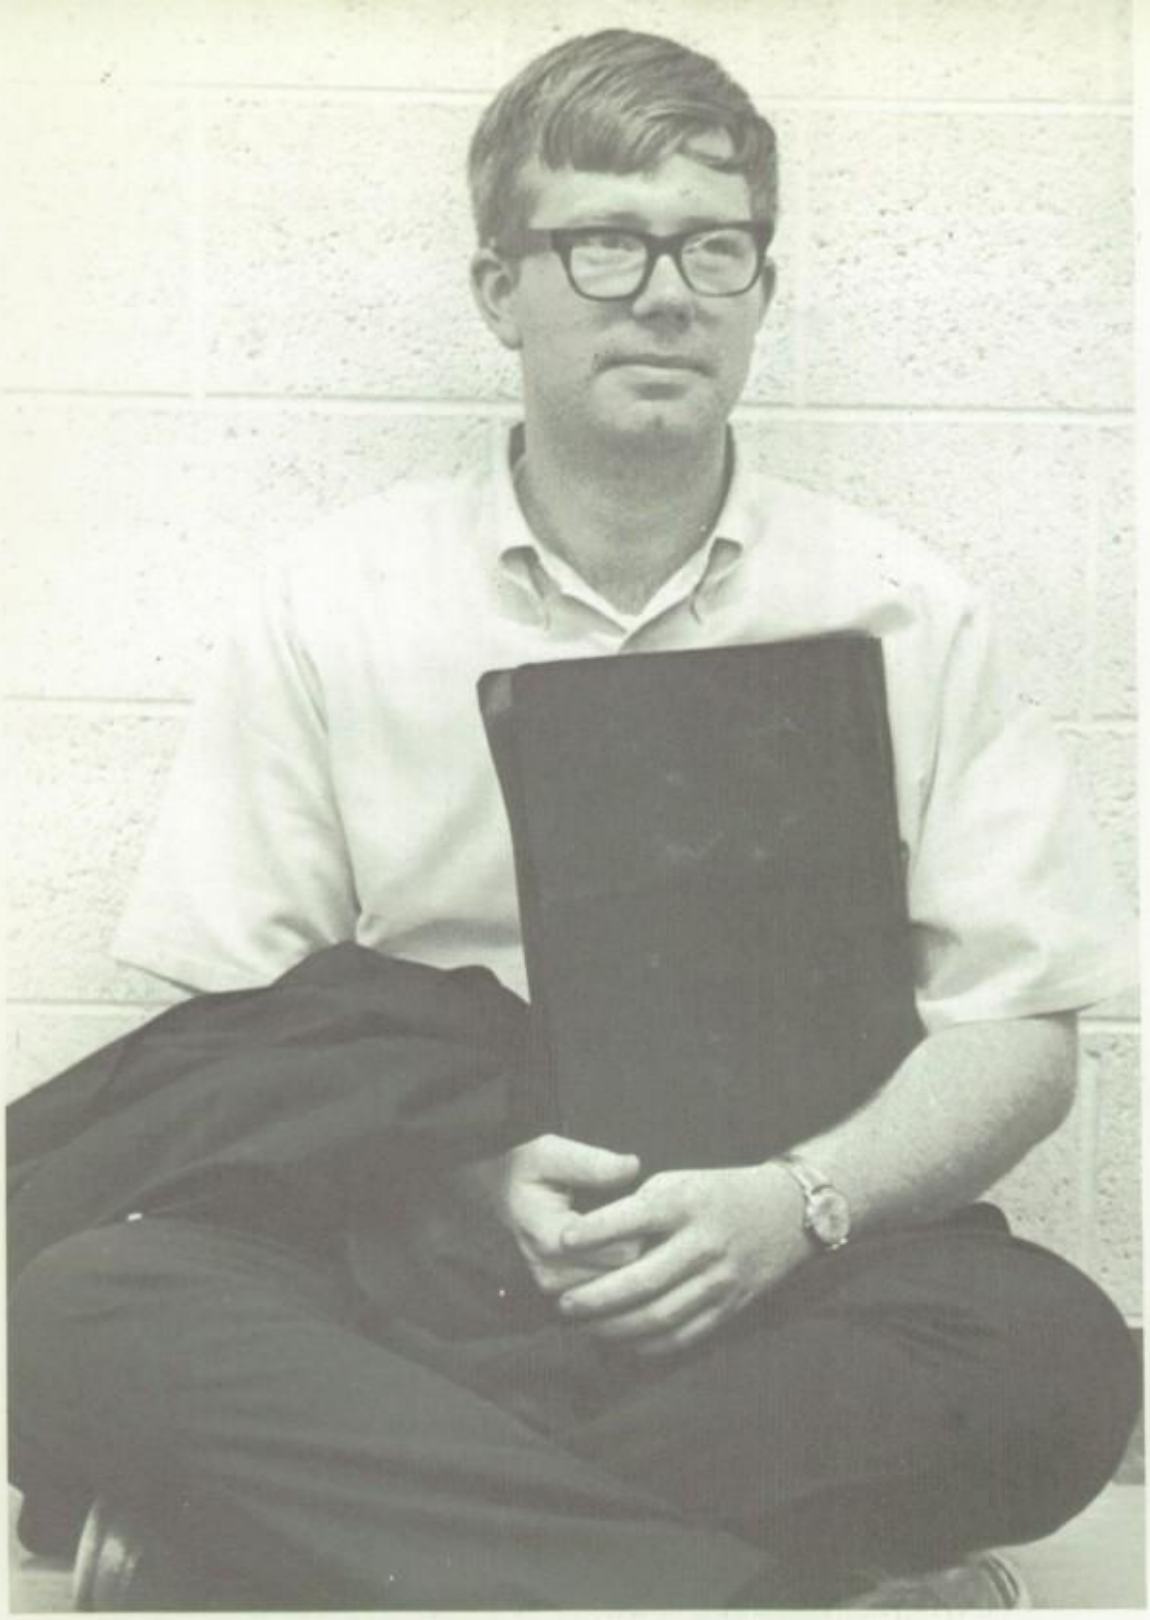
student life

Summer 1968

Students participated in many activities during their summer break from classes. Although some students worked both in and outside the city, others took advantage of the beaches, parks, and other such facilities to literally recreate themselves.

There was action in and around school also. The Summer Student Council met regularly to prepare for the coming year. The Council compiled a student handbook outlining school procedures and policies. In addition to general repairs, plans were finalized concerning school building expansion. Summer school, offering a variety of subjects, was well attended.

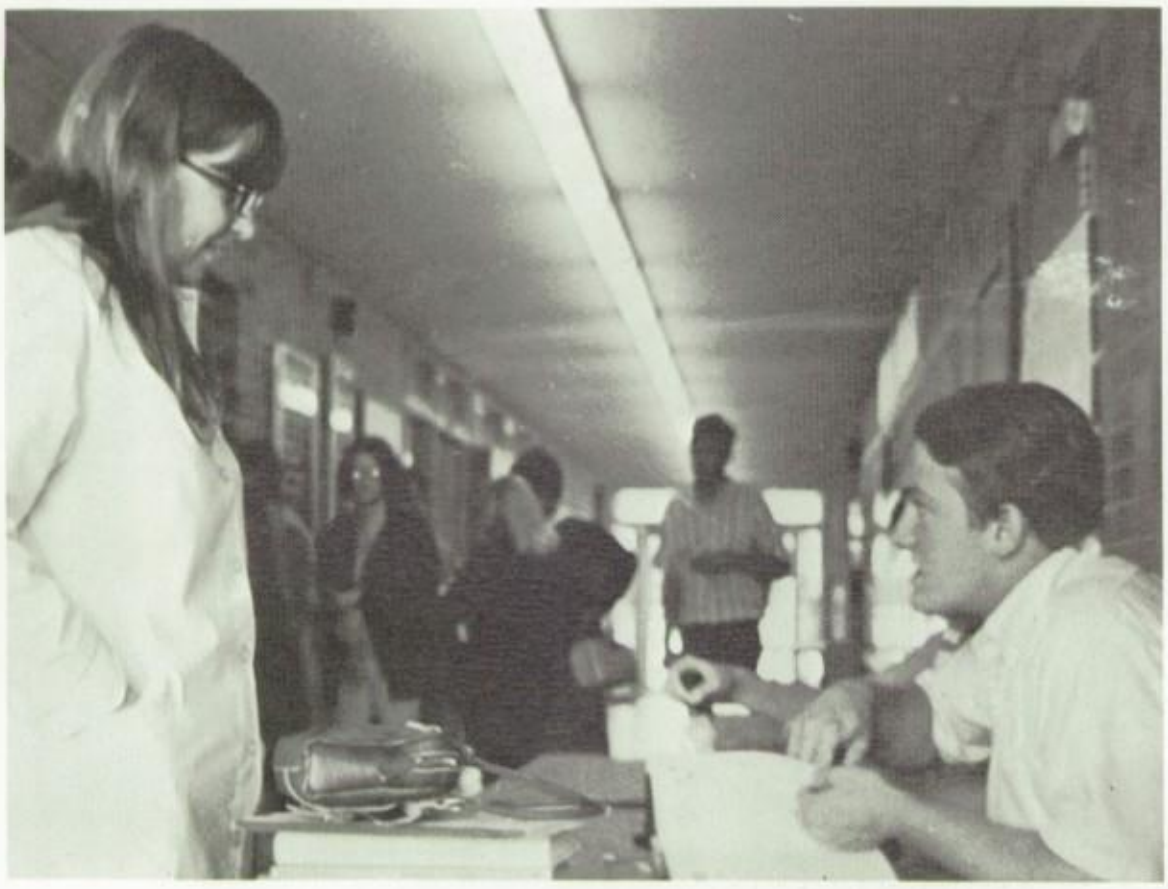
The scope of TCHS is international, as evidenced by the different exchange programs in which the school is involved. Two TCHS students travelled abroad during the summer, and in August four exchange students arrived to spend the year here.



Mr. Thad Hegerberg, TCHS director of bands, rested momentarily during the one week-long band camp held each August to prepare the band for the coming marching season.

The most popular summer school course with students was Driver's Education. In order to fulfill state imposed minimum requirements, students had four weeks of lecture and two weeks of driving both on the range and on the road.

finds TCHS the scene of many activities



As students purchased their textbooks for the coming year during the final week in August, Bob Porter helped stamp books with the correct locker number.

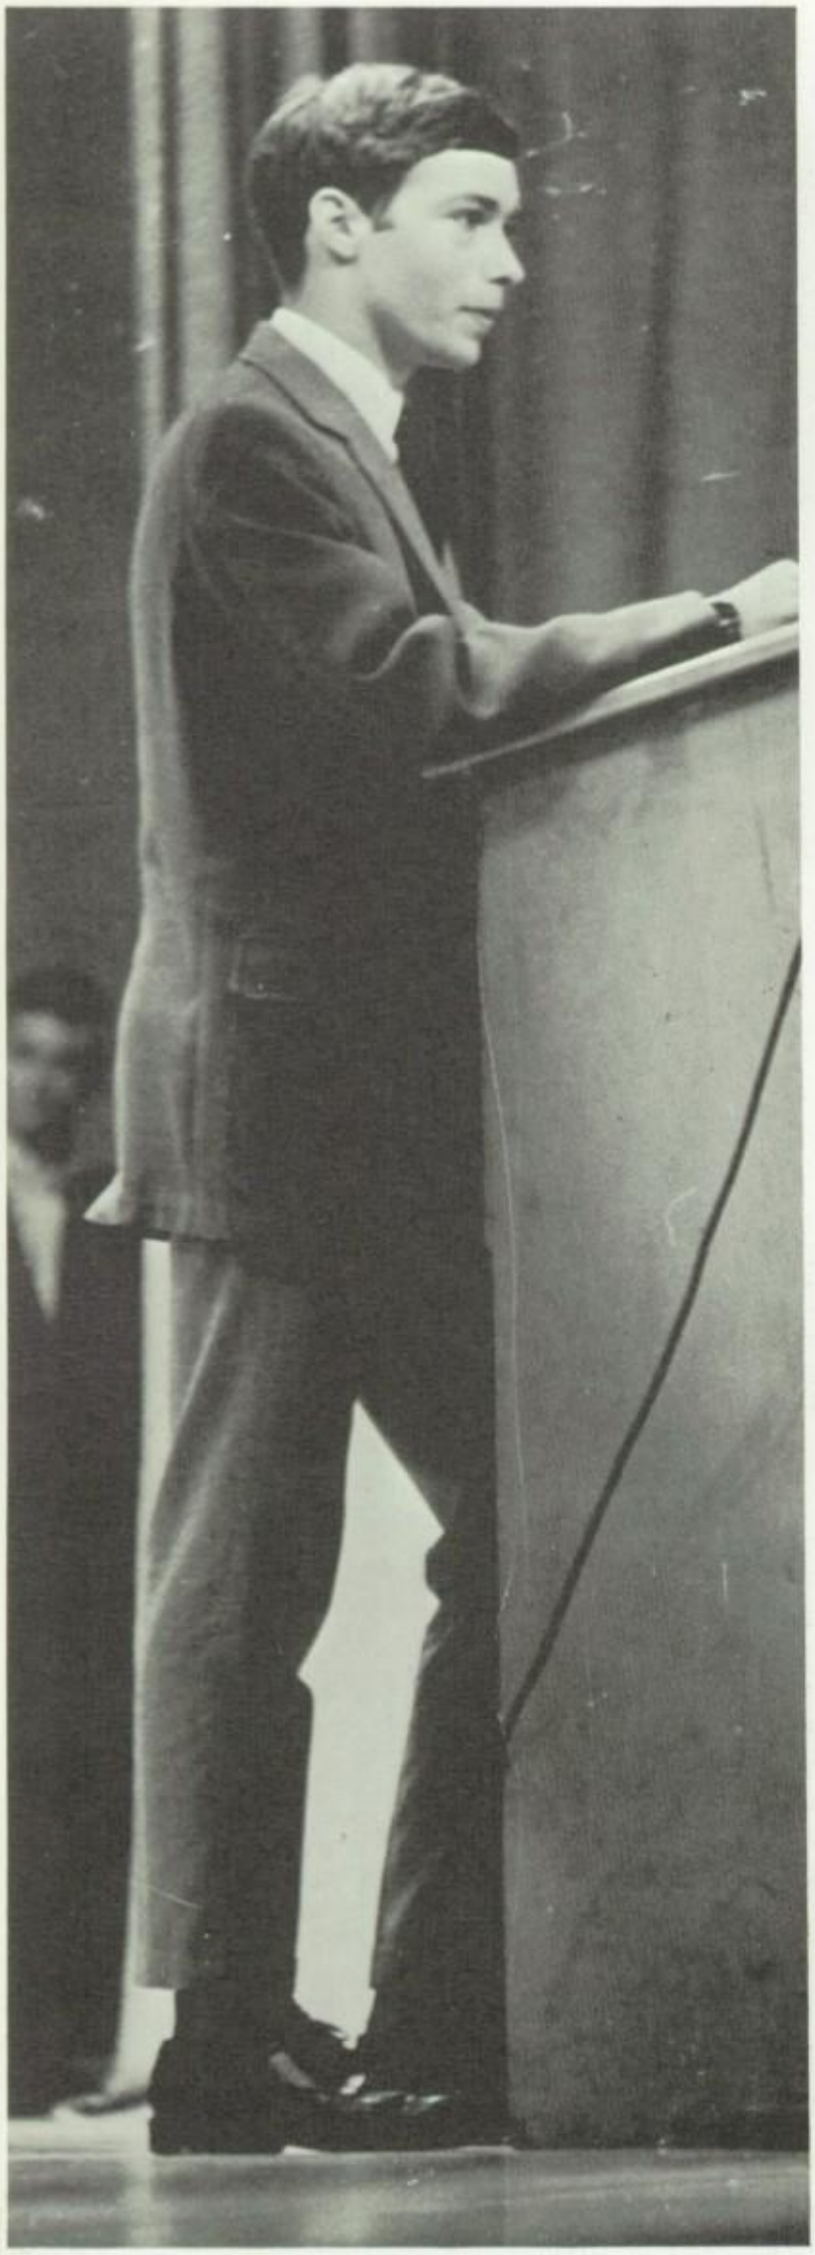
At the August Pines Pen Party, students picked up their yearbooks of the previous school year. The party gave students time to exchange autographs and news, compare tans, and discuss the approaching year.

Extensive campaigns

Campaigns for class offices and Student Council posts featured colorful outdoor posters this year. A greater number of students participated in elections by working on campaign committees.

The senior class council, under the direction of President Ray Sutton, donated money to the Paul Easling Memorial Pool fund. Tom Katana, candidate for junior class president, concluded his campaign speech with a performance by the Jug Band. They sang an original song—"Vote for Tom, He's Our Man". Sophomore class president Rob Irving led his class in the annual magazine sale, nearly reaching the record set by the Class of '70.

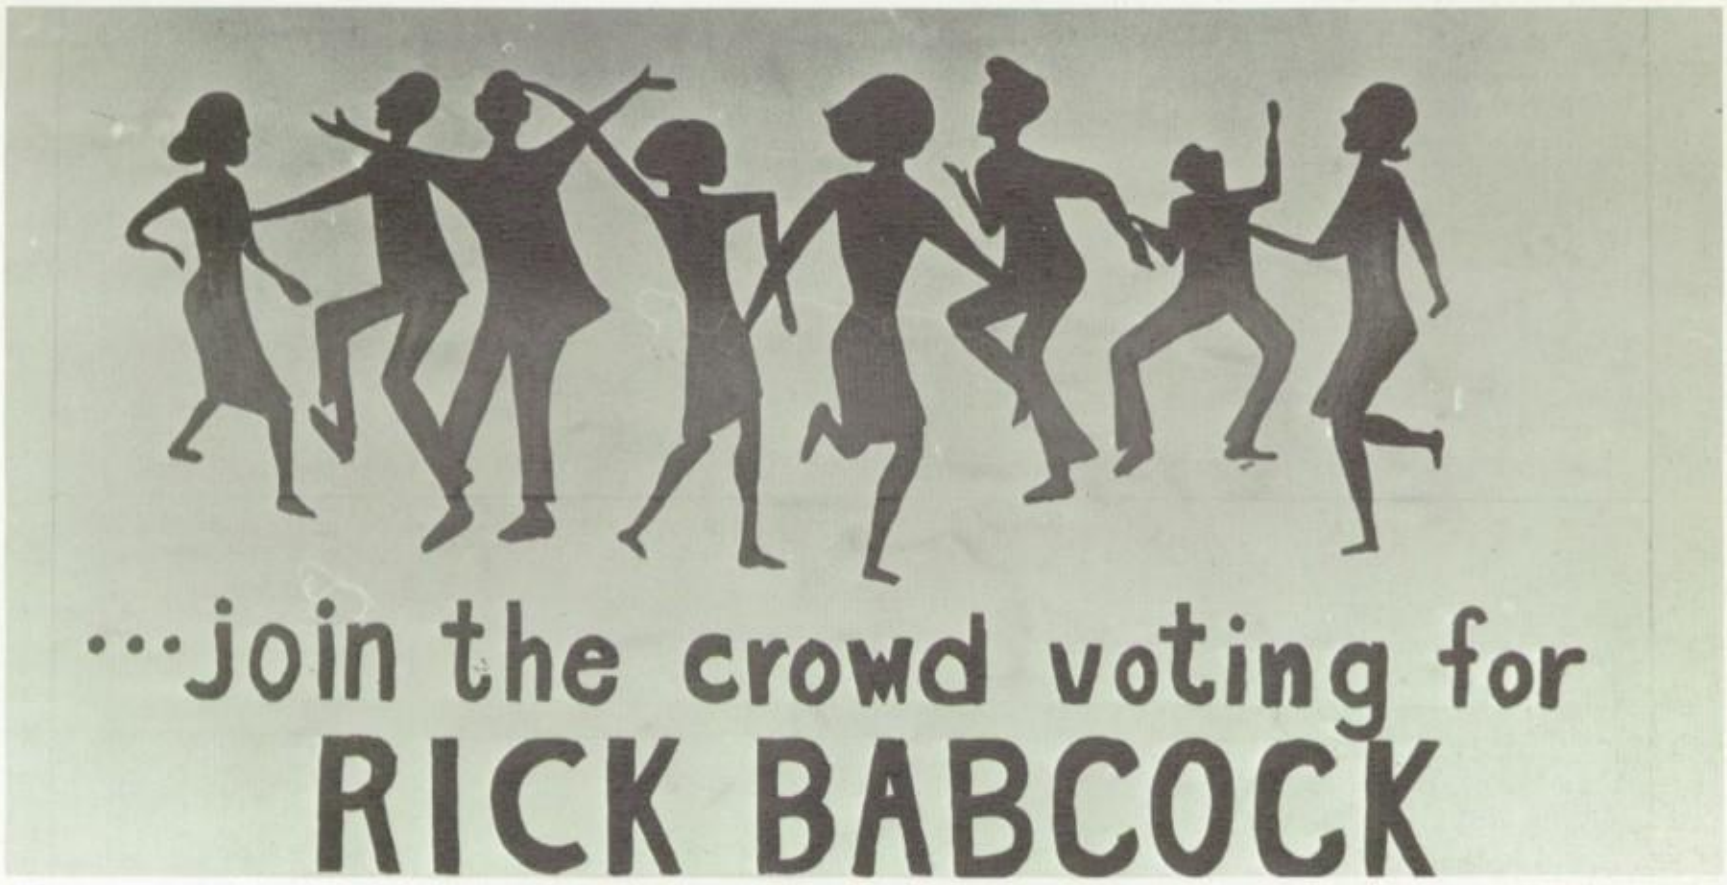
In the spring, Tom Winowiski was elected governor, with Doug Denison as lieutenant governor. Winowiski defeated Tom Katana, John Allen, and Liz Kroupa.



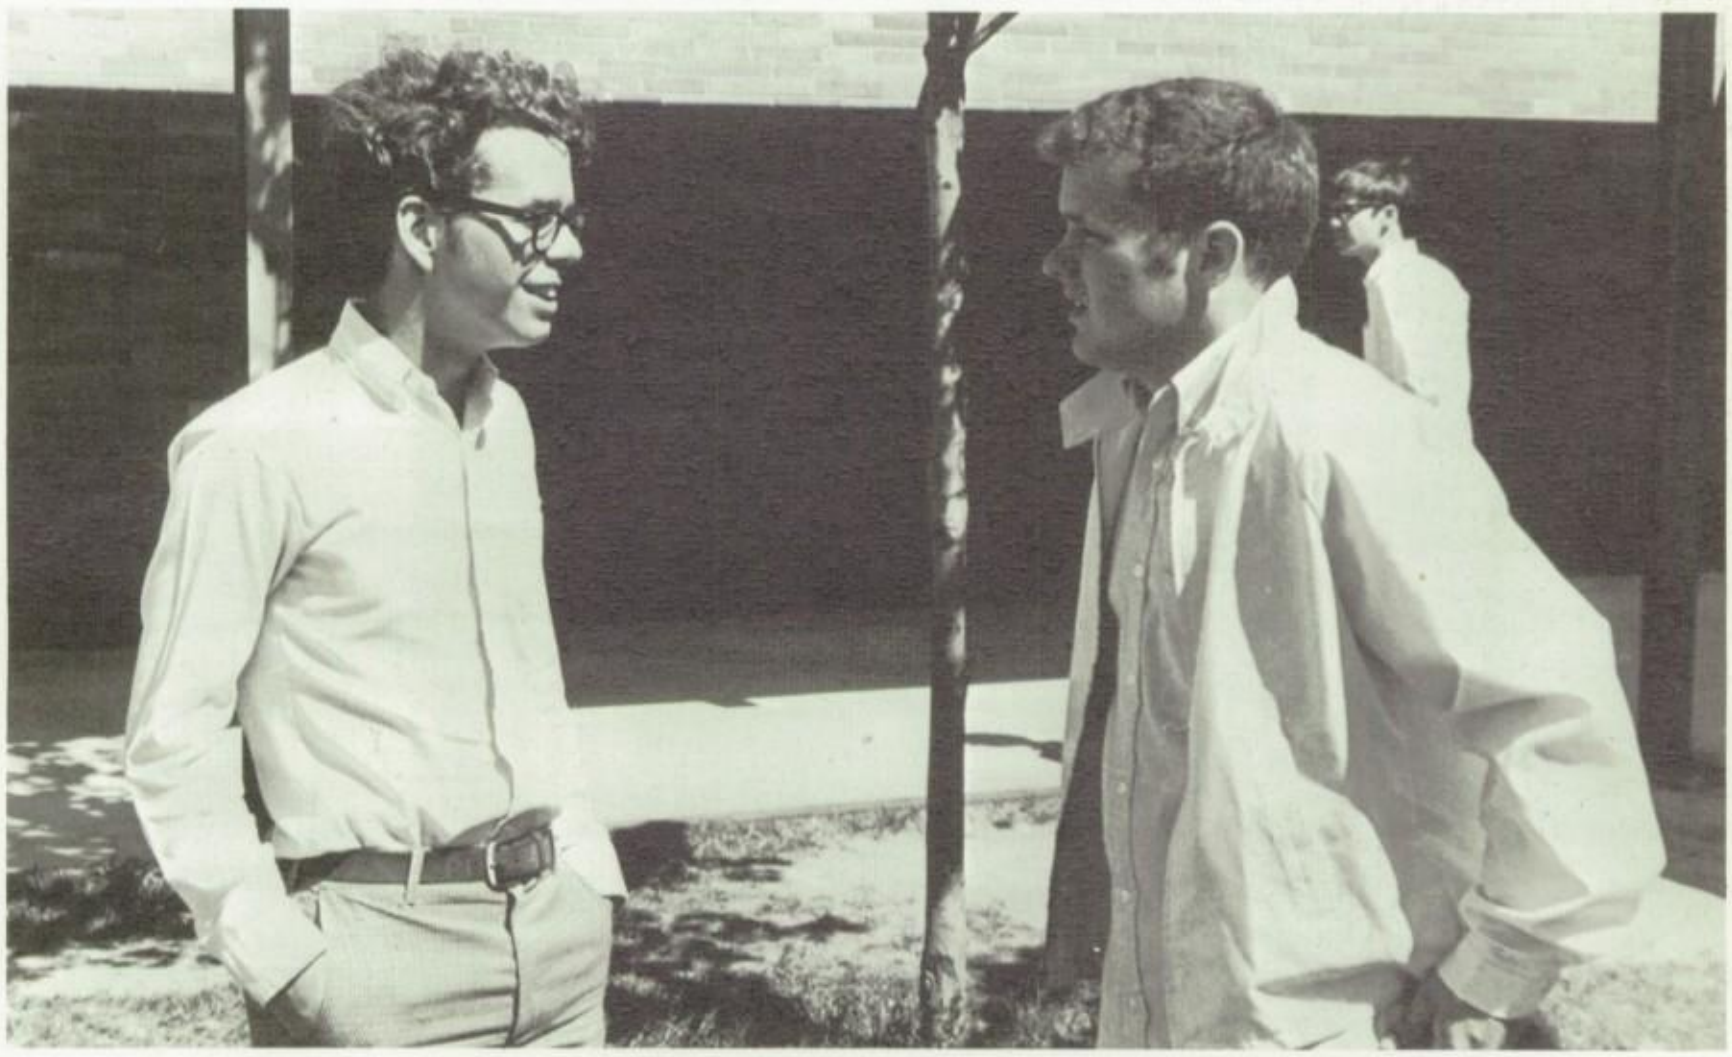
Ray Sutton, candidate for senior class president, delivered his speech in the fall election assembly.

An innovation in outdoor campaigning this year was gubernatorial candidate Tom Katana's Boy Scout.

precede election of student officers



Although he staged an extensive poster campaign, Rick Babcock was defeated for the office of senior class president. The candidates delivered their speeches to the senior class two days before the election.

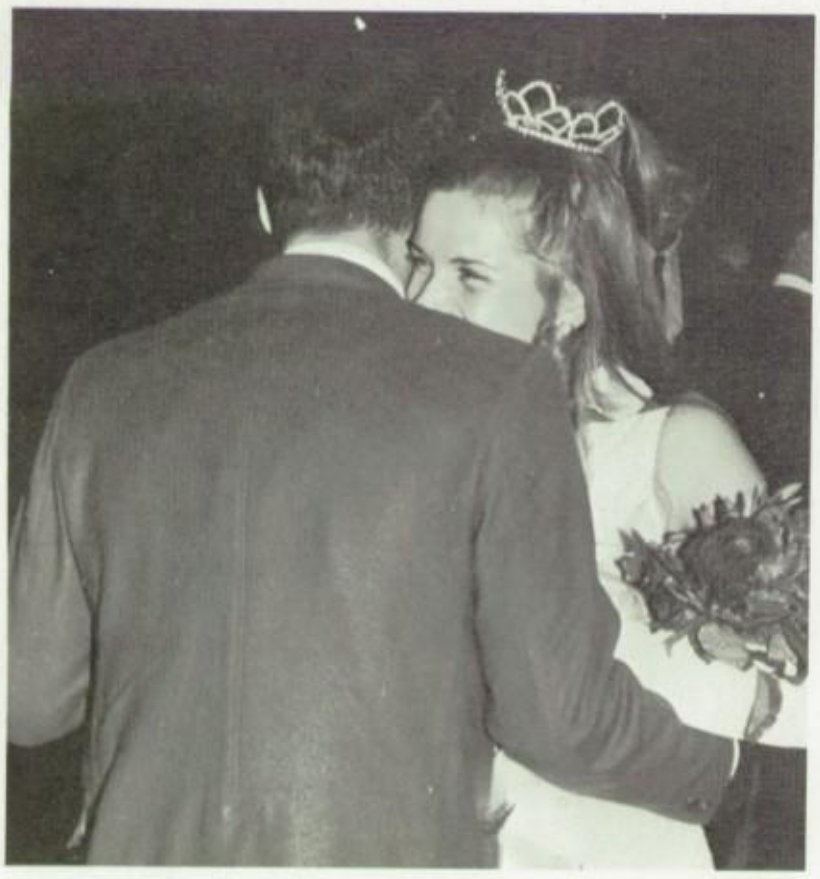


John Allen congratulated the newly-elected governor for the '69-'70 year, Tom Winowiski. John Allen ran for governor also, but withdrew his candidacy in support of Tom Winowiski in his election speech.

The 1968 Homecoming queen Debbie Stevens and her court rode from the Bo-Gi to Thirlby Field where they and the snake dancers participated in rousing pre-game activities.

Many students participated in the annual snake dance through town to Thirlby Field, where they watched the Rams' effigy burn, and cheered for a victory.

Trojan victory tops Homecoming week



After the Trojan victory, Queen Debbie and her escort, Rob Manigold, enjoyed the Homecoming Dance.

The 1968 Homecoming was one of the most successful events of the year. The Trojan triumph over the Grand Rapids Central Rams and the renewed float competition added greatly to this success.

The snake dance to the football field Thursday night added momentum to the Homecoming activities.

During the half-time festivities of the Friday night game, the Homecoming queen was announced. The queen and her court were presented to the crowds, and the queen received her crown.

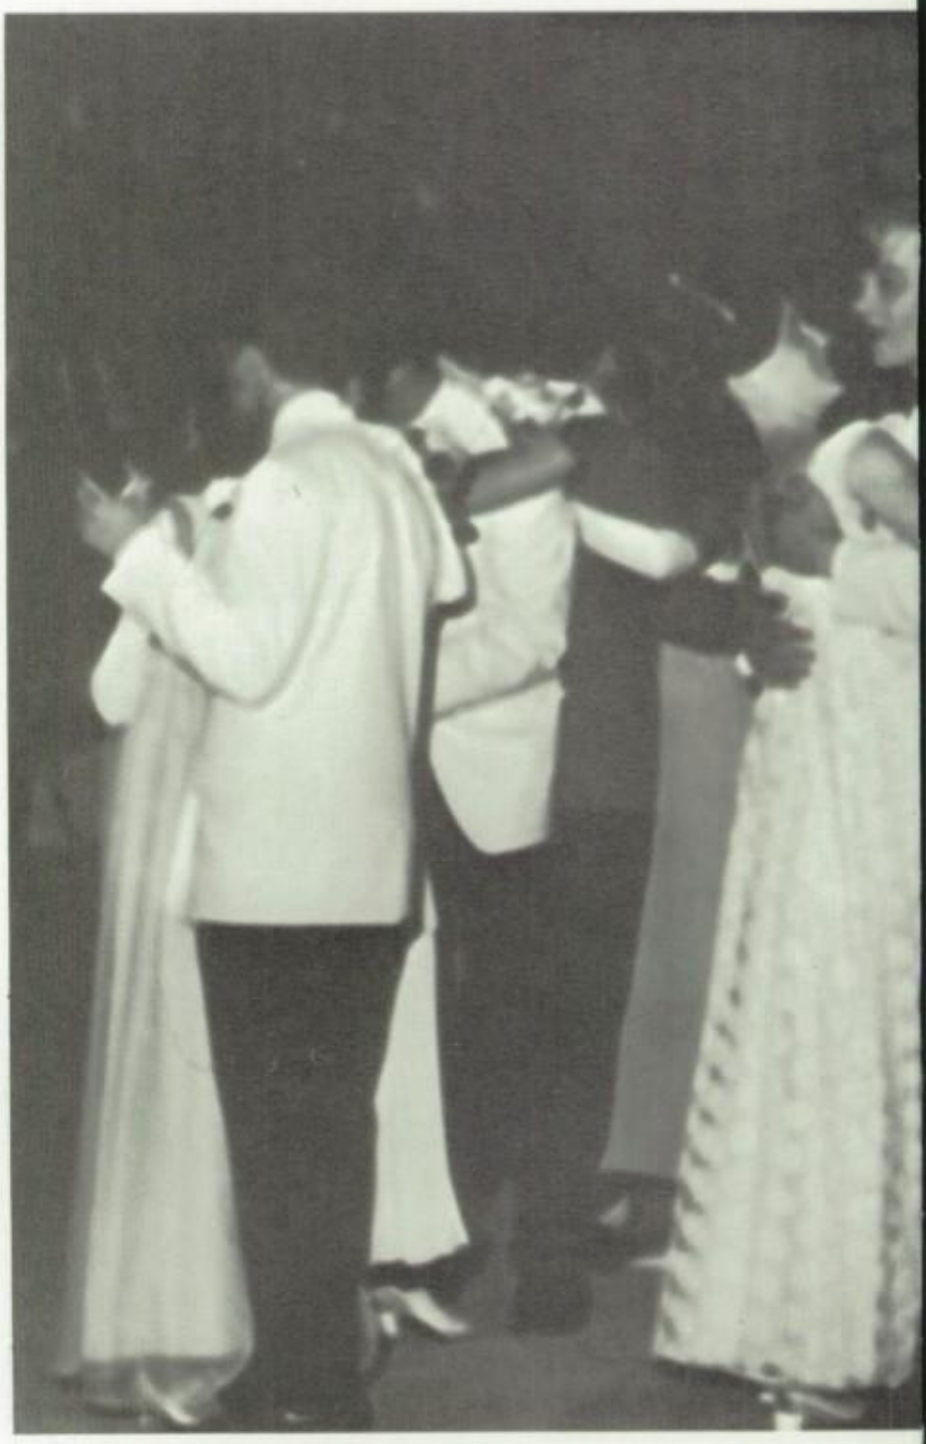
The floats were also shown during the half-time. To the delight of the Juniors, their float won first prize, with the Seniors and sophomores following.

The game ended with a decisive 20—6 Trojan victory. After the game a dance was held at the cafeteria with the 5-AM IDEA playing.

Sue Sherrill, Karen Clark, Sue Hoag, Debbie Christopher, and Debbie Stevens vied for the honor of reigning over the yearly Homecoming events. The queen was determined by the vote of the senior class.

As a prelude to the Homecoming game and Dance, students joined hands to run a course from the Bo-Gi to Thirlby Field in the Snake Dance. Students burned an effigy and held a dance afterwards.

Dressed in hillbilly garb, students danced to the Jug Band at "The Dandy Dogpatch Ball," the Sadie Hawkins Dance.



"Xochimilco", the Junior Prom held May 24 in the cafeteria was fashioned after the Floating Gardens of Mexico. I

Dances brighten TCHS social scene

Homecoming was the first of the many dances which seasoned the social climate at TCHS. The Snake Dance wound through town attracting students from all area schools. The "Dandy Dogpatch Ball" featured a new student group, the Jug Band.

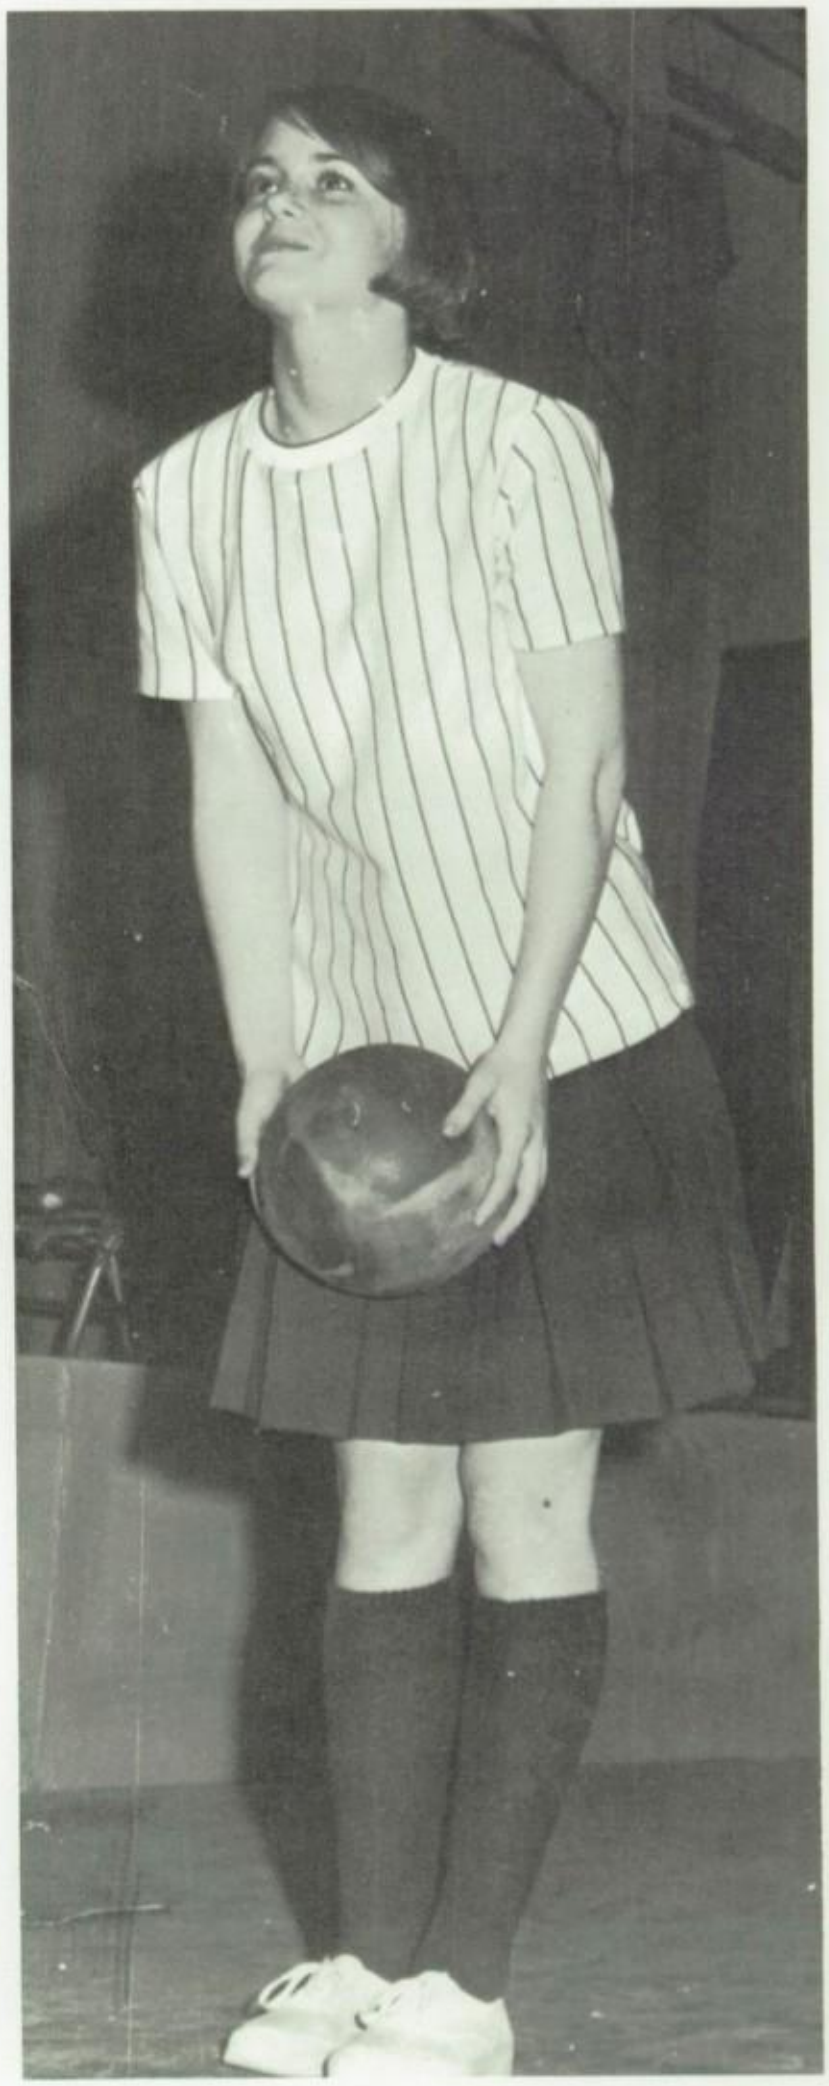
The Senior Prom, "Christmas in the Country", was held at the Park Place Dome. Decorations depicted scenes from the movie Dr. Zhivago.

Juniors spent much time preparing for "Xochimilco", the spring prom held May 24 in the cafeteria. Decorations centered around the Floating Gardens of Mexico.

eatured an entrance bridge over a stream, a waterfall, and ther Mexican decorations.

Before the Junior Prom Mary Zanes prepared paper flowers to depict a Mexican floating garden.

Thespian plays expose student ability



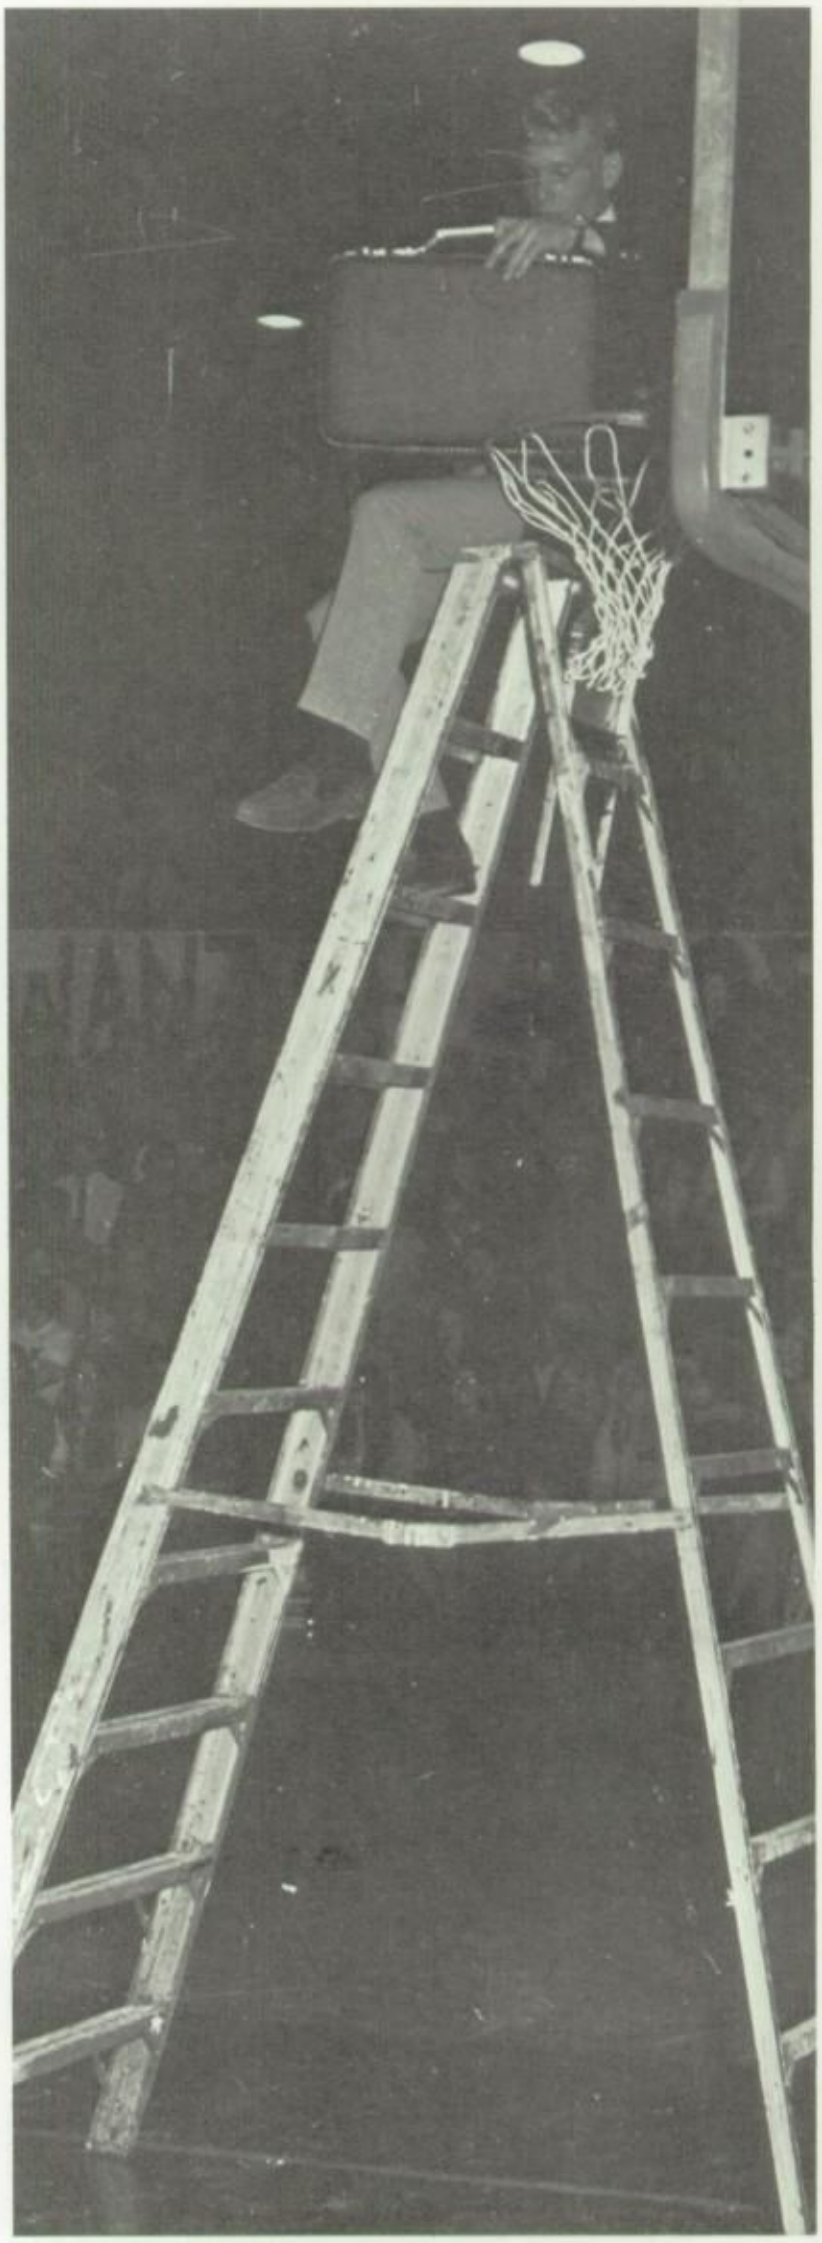
Kevin Harcourt portrayed an instructor at the children's home in David and Lisa. His charge was Sue Weiler, who played Lisa. The play centers around David and Lisa who eventually help each other find their true selves.

Ann Paxton, discovered that her four godmothers' good virtues only partially eliminated the evil spell cast upon her by the wicked fairy. The grade school children responded enthusiastically to the presentation.

Through the work of the local chapter of the national Thespian Club, three types of dramatic performances were presented. Three one act comedies highlighted the fall. This "Trilogy of Comedy" included Ralph Roister Doister, A Marvelous Playbill, and Passion, Poison, and Petrifaction. The evolution of comedy offered enjoyment in three different types. Local grade schoolers visited the Children's Theater in January to view the classic Sleeping Beauty. The spring drama, David and Lisa, under director Mr. John Haskin, owed its success to the casting and staging techniques.

In David and Lisa, Mike Elsenheimer attempted to rid Bob Walton from his fear of being touched. The drama was set in a children's mental institution.

The dedication of Luana Bishop and her committee was rewarded as seniors took first in decorations.



Chip Stulen carried through his Mission: Improbable instructions, becoming the hero of the Junior skit.

Seniors sweep Pep-a-Rama competition

Band member Mark Kaley conducted an ensemble of seniors in their entry for the school song. The new category brought enthusiastic response from participants in the week-long Pep-a-Rama festivities.

Pep-a-Rama '69 prompted some of the most sophisticated displays of spirit yet seen at TCHS. Seniors left little doubt as to whom was the rightful recipient of the traditional brown jug as they swept seven of the eight major categories. Their theme, modelled around Disneyland, lent itself to much creativity in decorations, school song, snow sculpture, and skit.

The efforts of the Juniors in snow sculpture brought them a first in that category.

Surprising all, especially the Juniors, the class of '71 defeated the Juniors in the tug-of-war contest placing them just below the seniors in that part of Pep-a-Rama.

The week-long festivities met with an anti-climatic end, however, as the object of the spirited hostilities, Kalamazoo Hacket, defeated the Trojans in the final home basketball game of the season.

Production of Lerner and Loewe's 'My Fair

Joe Kilpatrick as A. P. Doolittle sang "I'm Getting Married in the Morning" after becoming a wealthy man and being told that respectable men are married.

Freddy (Buck Isaman) expressed his love for Eliza in "On the Street Where You Live."

Higgins (Tom Mathison) decided to test Eliza (Diane Hart) at the Ascot after changing her cockney accent to proper English.

Lady' highlights spring at TCHS

The TCHS 1969 production of Lerner and Loewe's My Fair Lady was considered by many the best musical ever directed by Mr. Mel Larimer and Mr. Woody Hansen. Based on George Bernard Shaw's play Pygmalian, the musical involves a young English cockney flower girl who is made into a proper-speaking gentlewoman by a confirmed bachelor-professor who subsequently falls in love with her.

Christine Raftshol and Diane Hart played Eliza Doolittle, the flower girl made over by Henry Higgins, portrayed by Steve Spencer and Tom Mathison. A. P. Doolittle, Eliza's father was played by Bob Porter and Joe Kilpatrick. Buck Isaman and Mark Williams shared the role of Freddy Eynsford Hill, Eliza's rather effeminate would-be suitor.

Students worked in all facets of the production including make-up, props, scenery, and costumes, as well as singing and acting. The orchestra and cast gave seven performances, including one matinee.

After being thrown out of the Pub, Doolittle and his cohorts expound on life in "With a Little Bit of Luck."

Eliza (Christine Raftshol) rebelled angrily against Higgins' treatment in "Without You."

Construction workers laid the foundations for the new addition to the cafeteria which would include a student commons area.

Construction and

Many special events highlighted the 1968-69 school year at TCHS. Among them were guest speakers and the construction of additions to original buildings on campus.

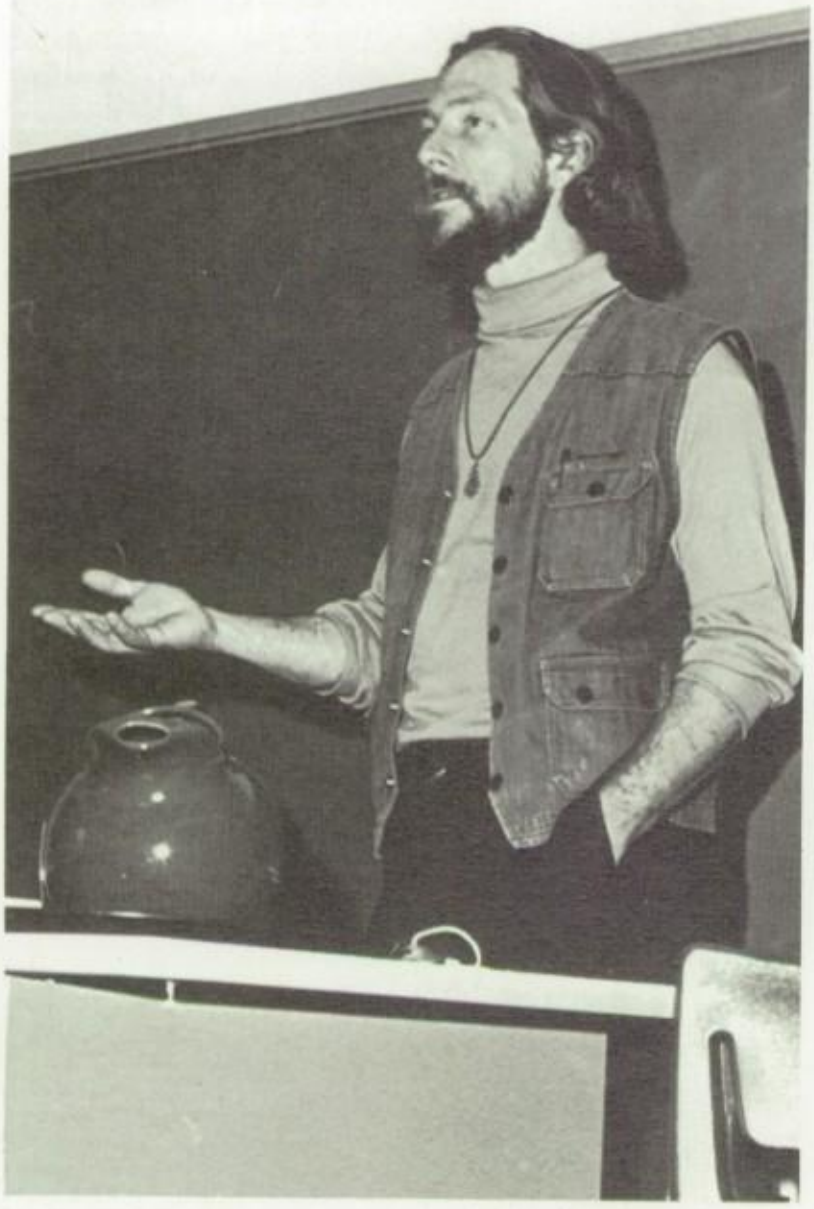
Ann Landers, well-known columnist was sponsored by the Record Eagle in the fall. Poet Max Ellison presented readings to many students. The English department and the Northwestern Michigan College Council brought two renowned poets to Traverse City, Gary Snyder and Jim Harrison.

The annual choir exchange was conducted with the Escanaba Area High School choir, which presented a special concert to the student body.

As part of the public schools construction program, TCHS buildings were enlarged during the school year. Each of the academic wing buildings were enlarged and the library was doubled in size. The gym and "F" building were increased in size to accommodate more physical and special education students. Some of the new classrooms were ready for occupancy before the termination of the 1968-69 school year.

Ann Landers, sponsored by the Record Eagle, gave a special assembly to over 3000 students from TCHS and outlying high schools.

guest speakers add atmosphere for students



Gary Snyder, well-known beat poet presented two readings to TCHS students in the spring.

Expansion plans included a new building specially designated for instrumental music groups.

The Escanaba Area High School choir, conducted by Mr. Conrad Beck, gave a special performance to the TCHS student body.

From rehearsal to the party, seniors

A capacity audience watched 497 seniors celebrate the end of their secondary education at graduation exercises on June 12. Those students who earned academic distintion were recognized on June ninth at a special Honors Convocation.

Mr. Kenneth W. Thompson, a trustee of Michigan State University and commencement speaker, advised the graduates to choose debate over dissent in his address entitled, "A Great Time to Be Alive."

Following the unavoidable confusion immediately after the ceremony, the class of '69 joined St. Francis grads at the Park Place dome for the third annual all-night senior party.

"Happiness is Graduation" included games, swimming, movies, eats, and dancing to the Ones. A postdawn breakfast wound up the event for those seniors and chaperones still at the dome.

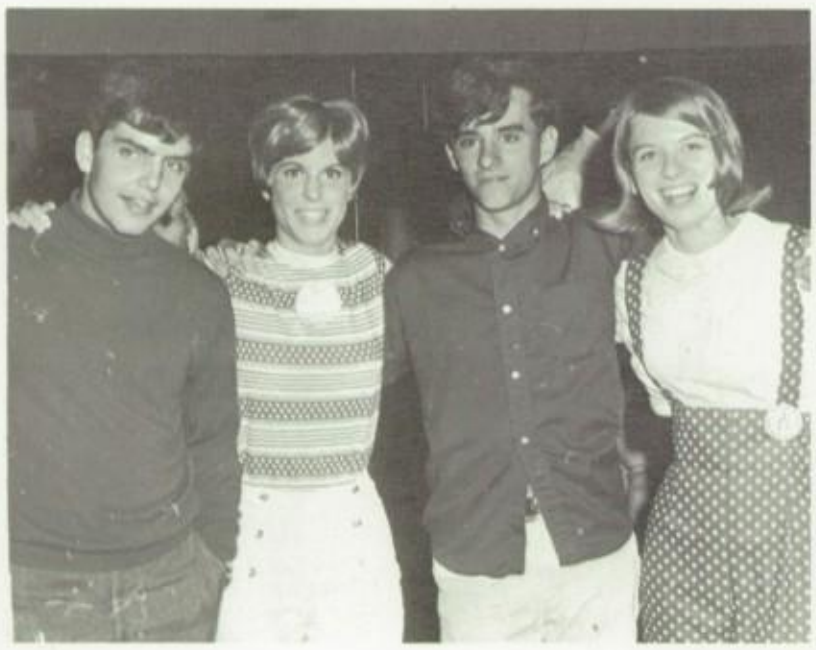
Tafra Petter and the other members of the Europebound Choralaires got their diplomas at the Honors Convocation in lieu of Commencement night.

show that happiness is graduation

Larry Brown and Sharon Runyon joined St. Francis seniors Mary Maxbauer and Mike Kelley in a game of ring toss at the senior party. Parents of the graduates planned all activities for the night-long event.



Even at 4:30 a.m., Tom Zaremba, Roberta Maas, Jim Allen, and Debbie Klotzbach appeared wide-awake.

Barb Bohn accepted her prize, one of many bought by trading stamps and given away at the graduation party.

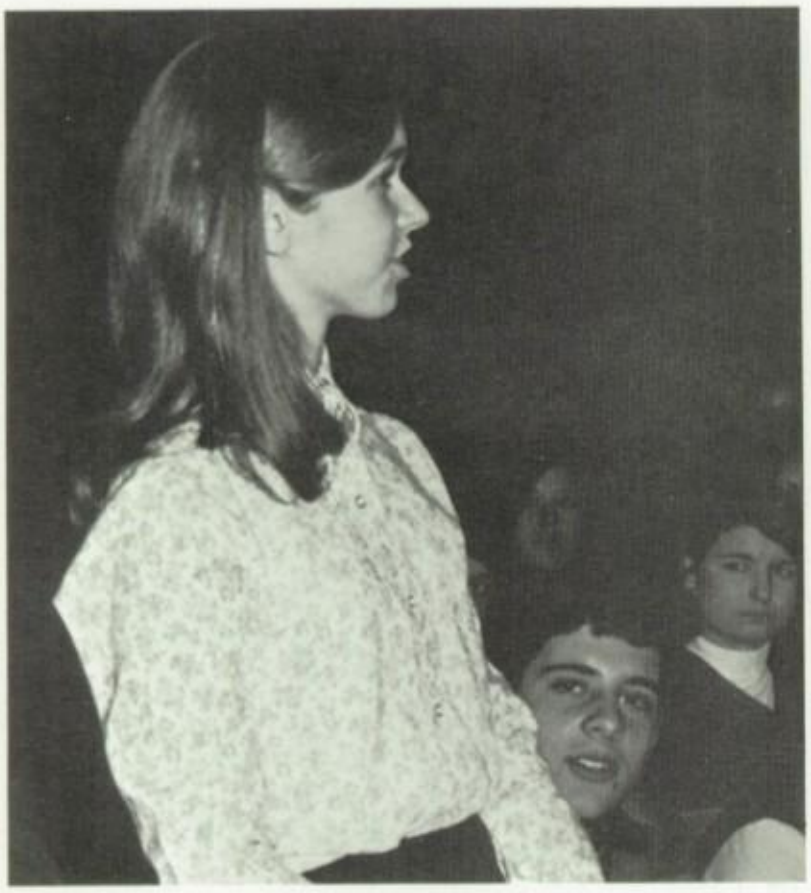
Council engages in varied projects



Student Council member Chris Raftshol voiced an opinion on the proposed adoption of a foreign orphan.

In the early part of the year, Student Council sponsored a sale of zip code books in which many students participated. The profits from this sale financed a long-awaited item, a juke box.

Later, council members formed a committee to investigate the kind and cost of furnishings for the new Student Commons Area, to be built adjacent to the cafeteria. The area will be part of the additions being made to the Senior High campus. The commons will be a general recreation and activity area for all students.

The Student Council sponsored several dances, including the Homecoming Dance. They also reinstated the interclass Homecoming float-building competition between classes. After Christmas, the Council staged a campaign to get and keep the school clean. As a reminder to students, they posted "Stop the Slop" signs throughout the campus.

The installation of the juke box was a first for the Student Council and the school. For a dime, a student could play his favorite record. Wares Brothers Sound Cellar provided the records, with the proceeds going to the Student Council.

Luana Bishop, Bill Heermann, and Bob Smith kept shop at the Student Council Bookstore, where books were available to all students.

Students become active journalists on

Under the pen name of Curley Carburator, David Knowles originated a regular column entitled "Car Talk."

The Black and Gold staff stressed more efficiency than ever before. Editor Victoria Devantier and Copy Editor Marilyn Hagelberg employed the many new journalistic skills they acquired during the summer at the journalism seminar at Michigan State. The staff worked diligently to meet their bi-weekly deadlines.

Several new features highlighted this year's paper. Editorial Editor Barbara Johnson developed a series of editorials presenting the students' view on some of the strengths and weaknesses in the Traverse areas. Three staff members appeared on "Limelight" to discuss the role of TCHS students in the community. The staff gave extensive coverage to the exchange students, thus encouraging the student body to become acquainted with the exchangees.

Journalism students worked many hours in the classroom preparing to meet bi-weekly deadlines for the Black and Gold. The journalists wrote stories, proofread copy, and laid out pages.

paper staff

The Press Club provided experience in journalism to students who could not include a journalism class in their schedules. Members solicited many advertisements for the Black and Gold. Some of the members remained after the Tuesday meetings to lay out pages and write headlines. Press Club also financed full color photographs in the 1969 Pines. The Press Club's main source of finances came through the sale of programs at all home football and basketball games.

In addition to supporting the publications department, Press Club donated money to the Students for International Understanding for the SIU ski weekend. They also supported the athletic department by purchasing new uniforms for the varsity cheerleaders.

Glenn Wolff, Rus Janis, and Marilyn Hagelberg aided other Press Club members in folding football and basketball programs Friday's after school.

Responsibility of Senior Barb Johnson worked with the Pines photographers on improving the picture quality of the '69 book.

Jim Ransom and Gretchen Fischer worked with editor John McCarthy in publishing a quality Challenger.

Sorting, labeling, and alphabetizing underclass pictures was a major task for the Pines staff. During a Saturday workshop, Wendy Richardson and Nancy Beers worked to ready pictures for an approaching deadline.

publishing Pines, Challenger is students'

Editor Joan Rajkovich and advisor Neil Mullally planned several changes in the Pines. The positions of editor and section editors remained, but the staff members changed to a different section after each deadline, giving them experience in several sections. The staff worked to create a Pines that would equal or excell the '68 book, which was given an A+ rating.

The Challenger, the literary magazine of TCHS, strove to publish only the finest essays, poems, and fiction. Editor John McCarthy, Junior Editor Jean Ammons, advisor Eleanor Stocking, and staff members critically reviewed submitted manuscripts and published the magazine in the spring.

The spectre of additional Saturday morning workshops or rapidly approaching deadlines failed to fluster '69 Pines editor Joan Rajkovich.

Shayrrl LaCourse found the student-decorated Black & Gold room conducive to Pines work.

Students honored for achievements in Harry McGee was initiated into the Quill and Scroll Journalism Society for his work with photography.

TCHS students received recognition for outstanding achievements in several areas.

Along with the scholastic recognition of membership in the National Honor Society, ten seniors were recognized for superior work in the National Merit competition. Five advanced to finalist standings while five others received letters of commendation.

Hardworking journalists were initiated into the Quill and Scroll Society for High School Journalists in two initiations during the year.

Jeff Power placed 36 out of 25,000 in state mathematical competition after he and 15 others from TCHS qualified for the second part of the competition.

Chosen from a field of ten senior girls, Kathy Gelston represented TCHS as DAR Good Citizen.

several areas

To honor students who earned a B+ or better scholastic average for the 1967-68 school year, the National Honor Society sponsored the first annual awards presentation in late winter. Mrs. Wynn Bade spoke on integrity, and Principal Arthur Schubert presented scholastic keys to the scholars.

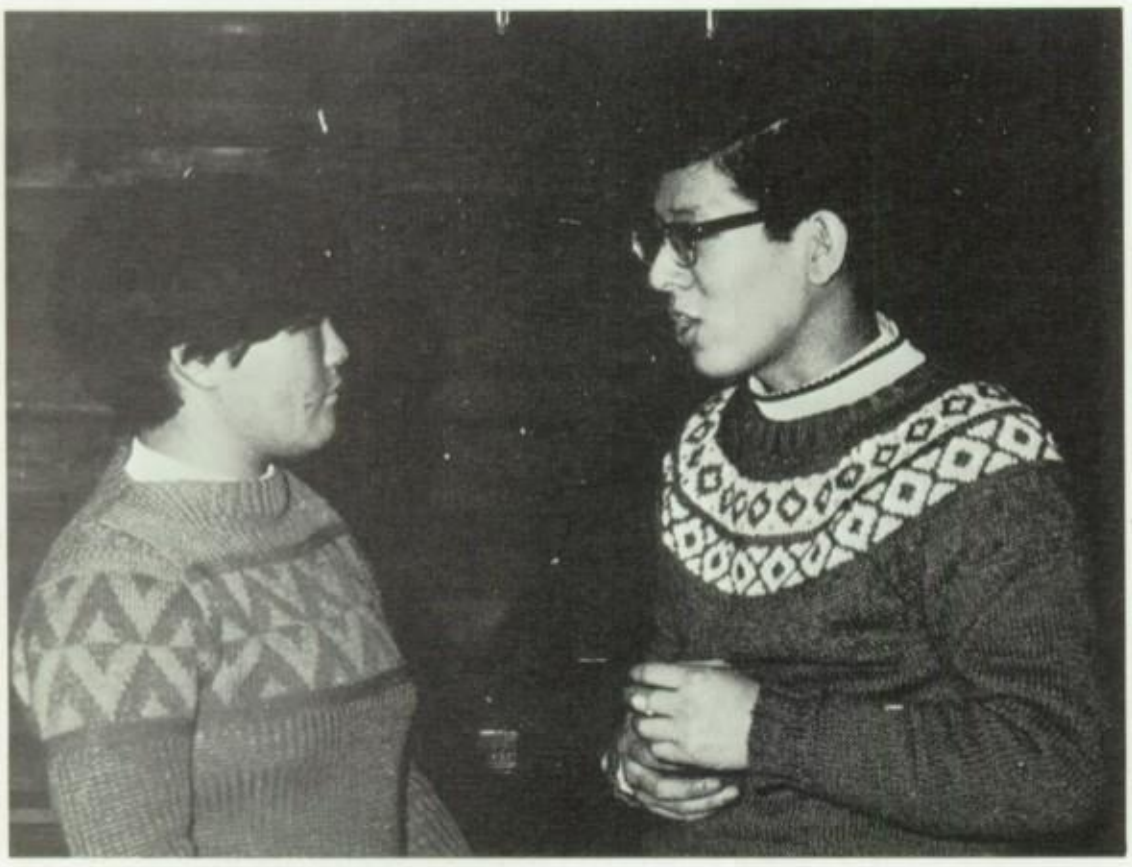
Society members, under President Vicky Devantier, also conducted one initiation each semester to recognize students who excelled in four areas: scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Thirty seniors and 31 juniors became members during the year.

Also on the agenda were two film presentations, "The Flicks" and "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold", and a second semester re-evaluation by faculty members, officers, and advisor Betty Parker.

Barb Johnson worked at the first awards presentation sponsored by the National Honor Society to honor students earning scholastic pins.

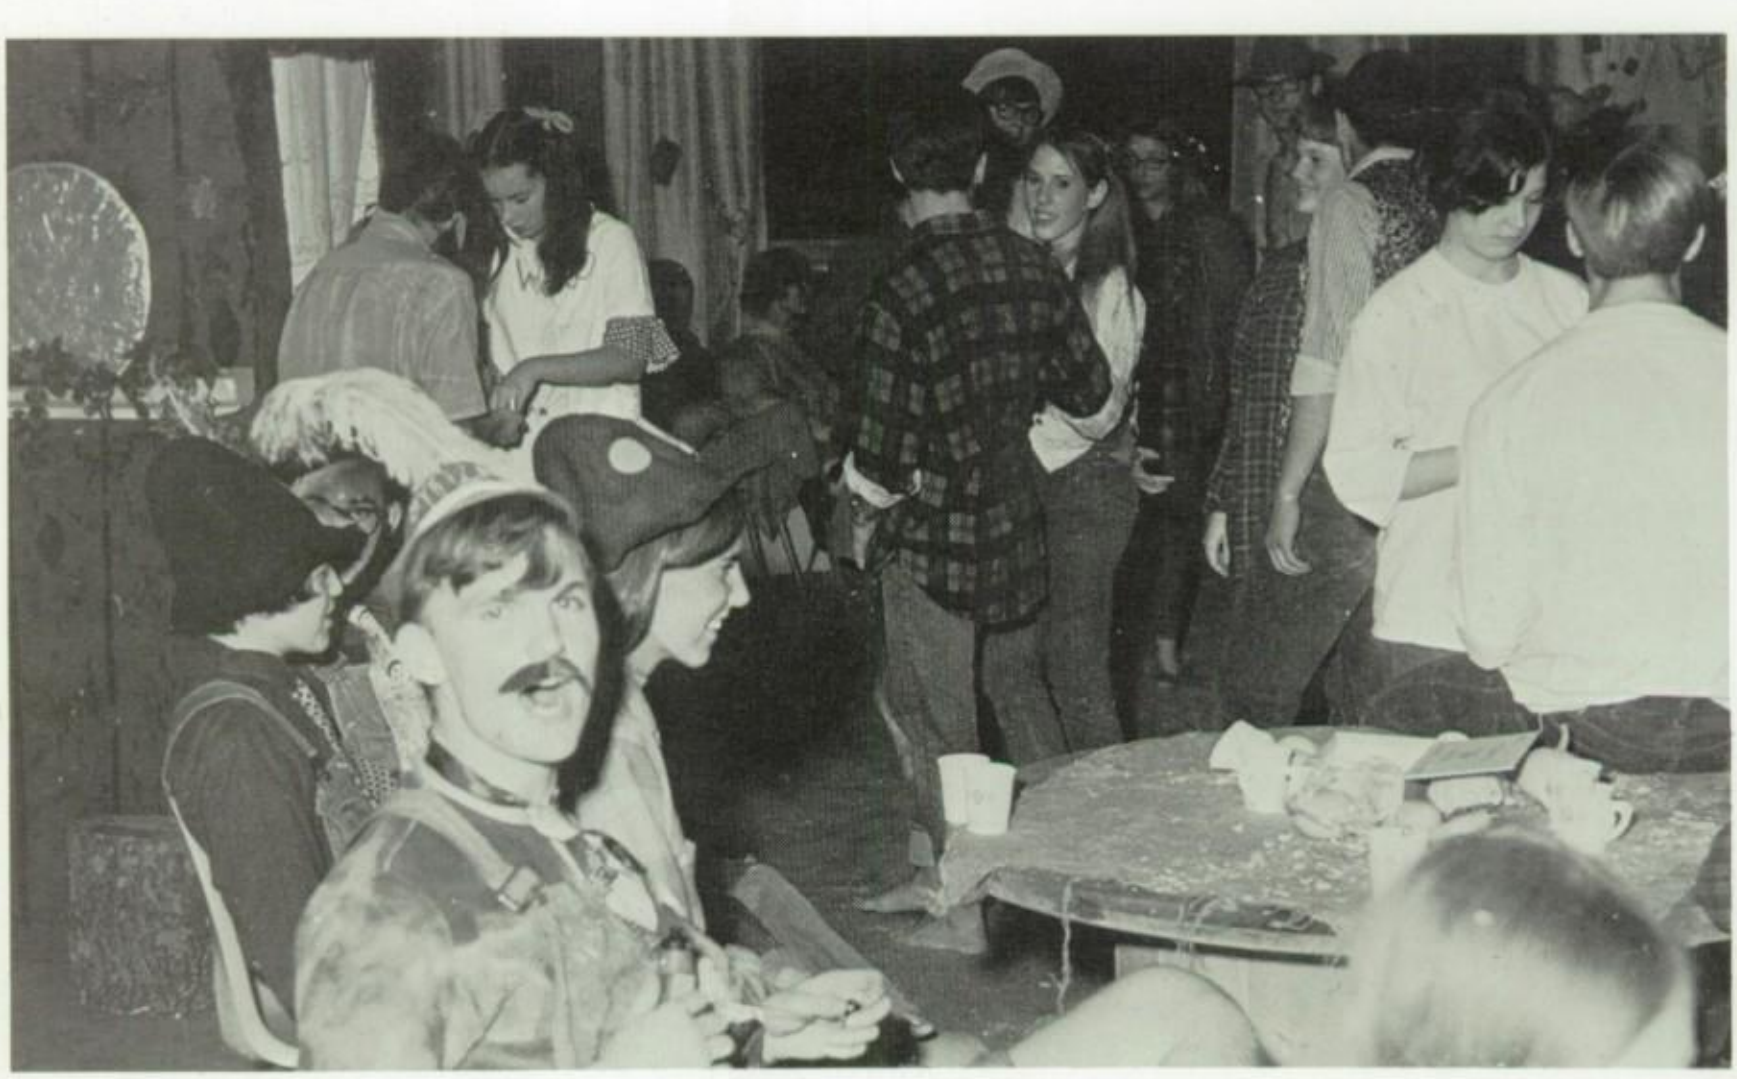
Students became members of the National Honor Society during two initiations conducted by Society officers and present members each semester. Mrs. Eleanor Stocking was speaker for the second semester ceremony.

SIU, Tri-Hi-Y, Key Club work to promote



Yuzo Yokota, exchange student from Japan, talked with a fellow exchange student at the after-ski party during the SIU Ski Weekend.

Students for International Understanding, a new club on campus, worked to create a better relationship between the exchange and American students. The club held slide programs given by exchange students and American students who had travelled abroad. The club sponsored an extremely successful ski weekend in January which seventy exchange students from within a 160 mile radius of Traverse City attended. Included in the event were a skiing night and a luncheon. SIU also held seminars on "The World Population Growth."



Senior Pat Cole and his date, Ann Marie Kruse, enjoyed cider and doughnuts during the "Dandy Dogpatch Ball." The popular event was, as usual, appreciated by girls who needed an excuse to snag their favorite man.

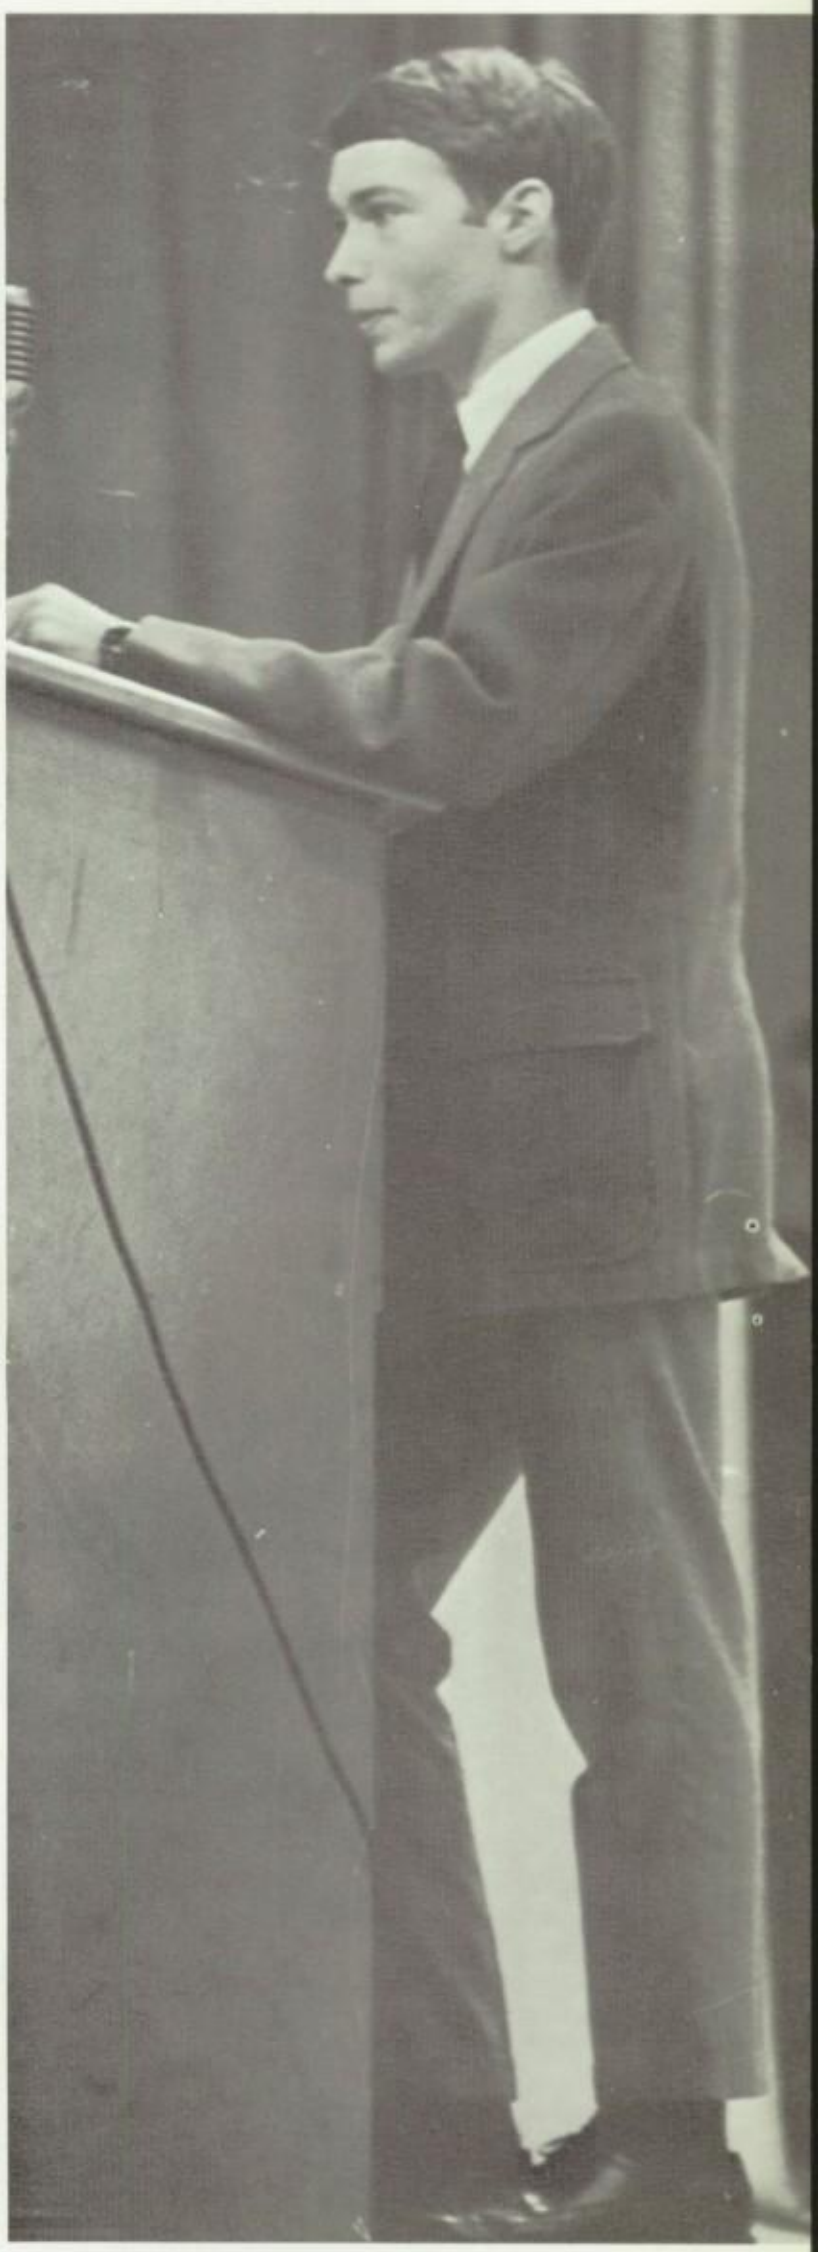
Tri-Hi-Y members and advisors aided president Linda Dean in the many club-sponsored events throughout the year. The first major event for the club was the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, "The Dandy Dogpatch Ball." In December, twenty-one girls represented the club in Lansing at "leg," writing and introducing two bills, one of which was passed. As a service, the club visited the State Hospital adolescent ward. The members sold chocolate candy to raise necessary funds. A spring mother-daughter banquet climaxed the year.

Key Club, under President Ray Sutton's leadership, was reorganized and strengthened to be one of the best organizations on campus. It worked for the community following this year's international theme of "Influence through Example." Key Club cleaned the banks and planted flowers along the Boardman River, worked on the Muscular Dystrophy Drive, and sponsored the movie Tom Sawyer, with the proceeds going to the Children's Aid Society.

In the spring Key Club hosted the Michigan Key Club Convention.

Tri-Hi-Y initiates Debbie Tiberg, Jan Baase, and Mary Zanes, smeared with shaving cream, prepared to invade the Kroger parking lot.



Ray Sutton guided the Key Club in its various functions throughout the year.

Pep Club, Varsity Club join forces

Linda Baesch served punch for the Pep Club tea held at the beginning of the year for new members.

Pep Club officers under President Carol Hadley began work during the summer revising the club's constitution. Class coordinators became an essential part of the club by relieving some duties of the officers and encouraging club participation of fellow class members. JV Cheerleaders also became members of the Pep Club council.

Club members spent most of their time staffing concession booths during football and basketball games. Along with coordinating events of Pep-A-Rama week, they worked on the fall, winter, and spring athletic banquets. Members attended two away games supporting the football team at Grand Rapids Central and the cagers at Alpena. Girls were also treated to a membership tea, Christmas tea, and spring banquet to honor 66 active members.

President Carol Hadley and Secretary Pat Greaige sold refreshments at all home football and basketball games. The proceeds from these sales made possible trips to away games for Pep Club members.

to promote TCHS athletic programs

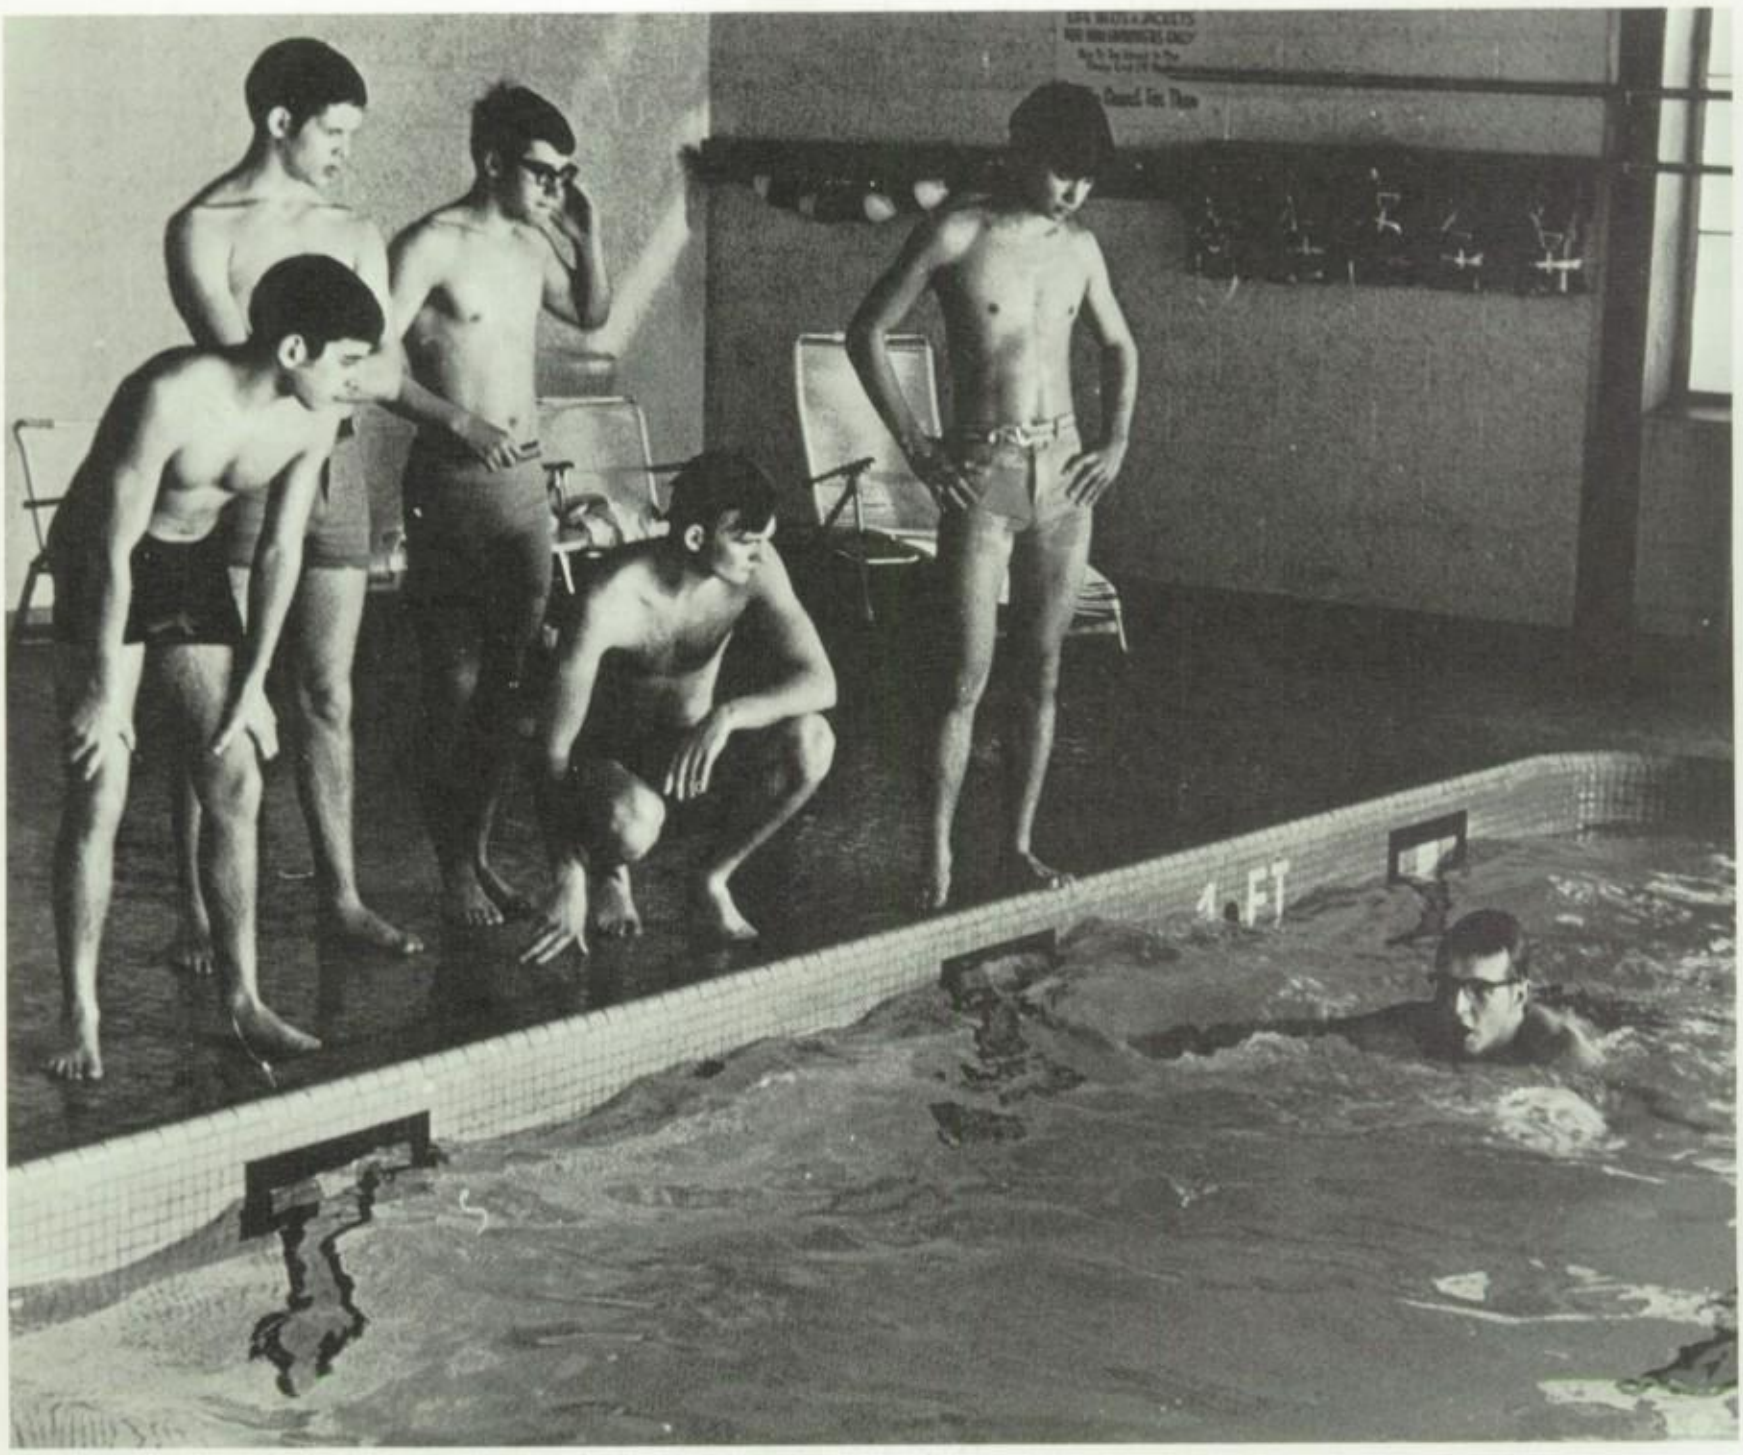
During the first weeks of the fall, interested lettermen organized a new club on campus, the Varsity Club. Varsity lettermen in all TCHS sports were eligible for membership in this club to improve the opinion of athletes held by students, and to instill leadership in its members.

President Bob Smith, aided by fellow officers, conducted fall, winter, and spring initiations. At this time candidates expended their energies by cleaning campus grounds.

Members also purchased a bell for use during football games and opposed the faculty in this fall sport. At Christmas, clubbers joined with Pep Club members to conduct a food drive and caroling session. Working with the Varsity Cheerleaders, five members performed at half-time during basketball season and at school assemblies. During Pep-Rama, Varsity Clubbers challenged the faculty to a game of basketball.

Varsity Club took charge of building the bonfire for the annual Homecoming Snake Dance.

Joel Saffronoff and Ed Haughn rang the Trojan bell for each point scored at every touchdown.



Instructor Cal Husby demonstrated a swim stroke for four members of the Swim Club and its other instructor, senior Pat Cole. The group met three times a week at the Park Place Pool.

Amateur athletes participate in clubs

For three years TCHS students have attempted to organize a swim club. This year was proven the most successful.

Swim Club met at the Park Place Pool each Thursday and Friday evenings for competitive swimming and Saturday morning for spring board diving. Instructors for the group were advisor Cal Husby and senior Pat Cole. After informal lessons, participating members and instructors spent the remainder of their hour-long meetings racing, diving, and just swimming.

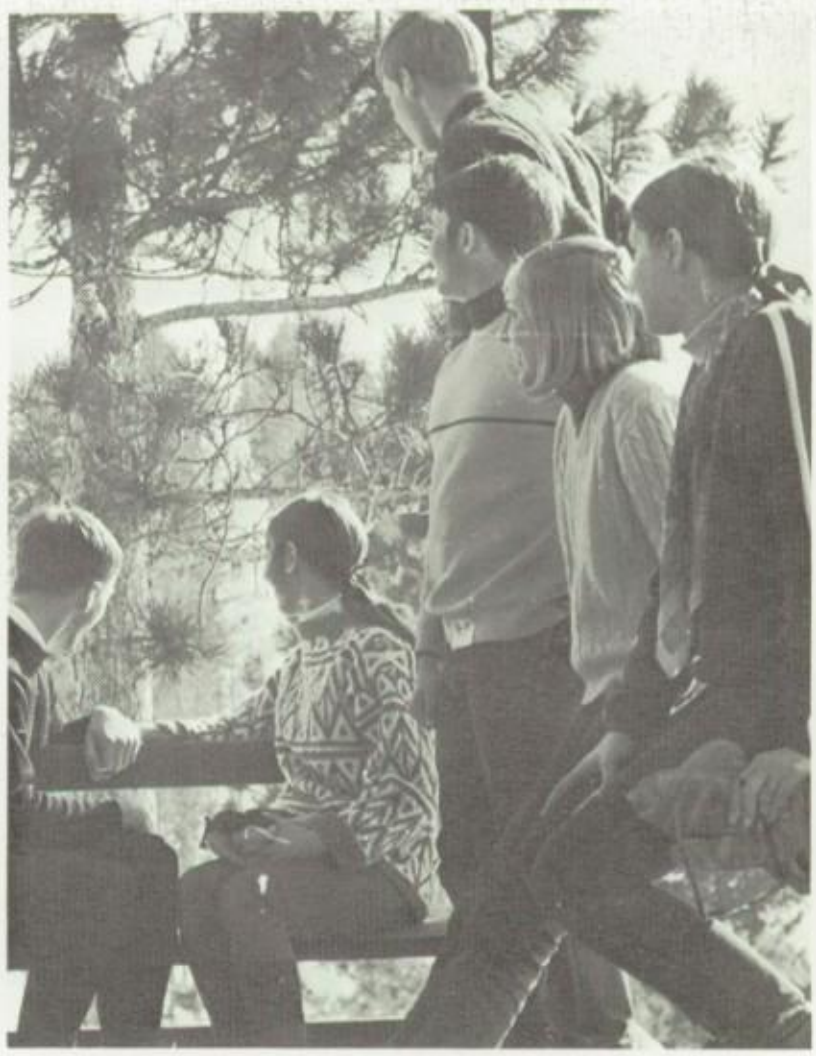
At the beginning of the year, 46 girls and 21 boys belonged to the organization. With the loss of the girls' advisor and instructor Miss Joyce Rosema, girls' membership dwindled. The planned April swim exhibition for female members of the club was not held because of this. The boys' portion of the club, however, continued throughout the school year with approximately ten active members.

Ski Club members spent a one-day holiday between semesters on the slopes at Boyne Mountain. Two busses carried them to the ski area for their one outing of the 1968-69 school year.

As a service to the school, the club donated $100 from their treasury to the Student Council Student Commons Area fund. Members felt that this was a worthwhile project since the Area would be available to all the students. The sum was from a surplus of the previous year's club and from dues collected from members.

Ray Sutton presided over the club of about 100 members. He was assisted by Vice-President Joel Safronoff, Secretary Pat Greaige, and Treasurer Cheryl DeBryun. They met with the Ski Club Council, consisting of two representatives of each class, occasionally during the winter months to plan the Club's meetings and to organize the Boyne Mountain outing.

On Saturday mornings, the Swim Club instructors demonstrated spring board diving techniques.



Ski Club members spent many winter hours enjoying the slopes at local ski areas as well as at Boyne Mountain.

Students explore dramatics and debate

Incorporating a new idea, Thespian Troupe 2202 of TCHS, under President Jim Allen and Advisor Woody Hansen, presented as their fall production three one-act plays, "Ralph Roister Doister", "Passion, Poison, and Petrification", and "The Marvelous Playbill". In the spring the actors presented "David and Lisa" and cooperated with the music department to sponsor "My Fair Lady". They also presented "Sleeping Beauty" to entertain elemenetary students.

Initiations were held in the spring and in the winter to honor students earning membership in the national organization. These students had earned ten or more points by working in the many aspects of theatre, including make-up, scenery, lighting, and costumes, as well as by actual acting.

On the local level, Pat Dorman and Pam Bennett were honored as Best Thespians.

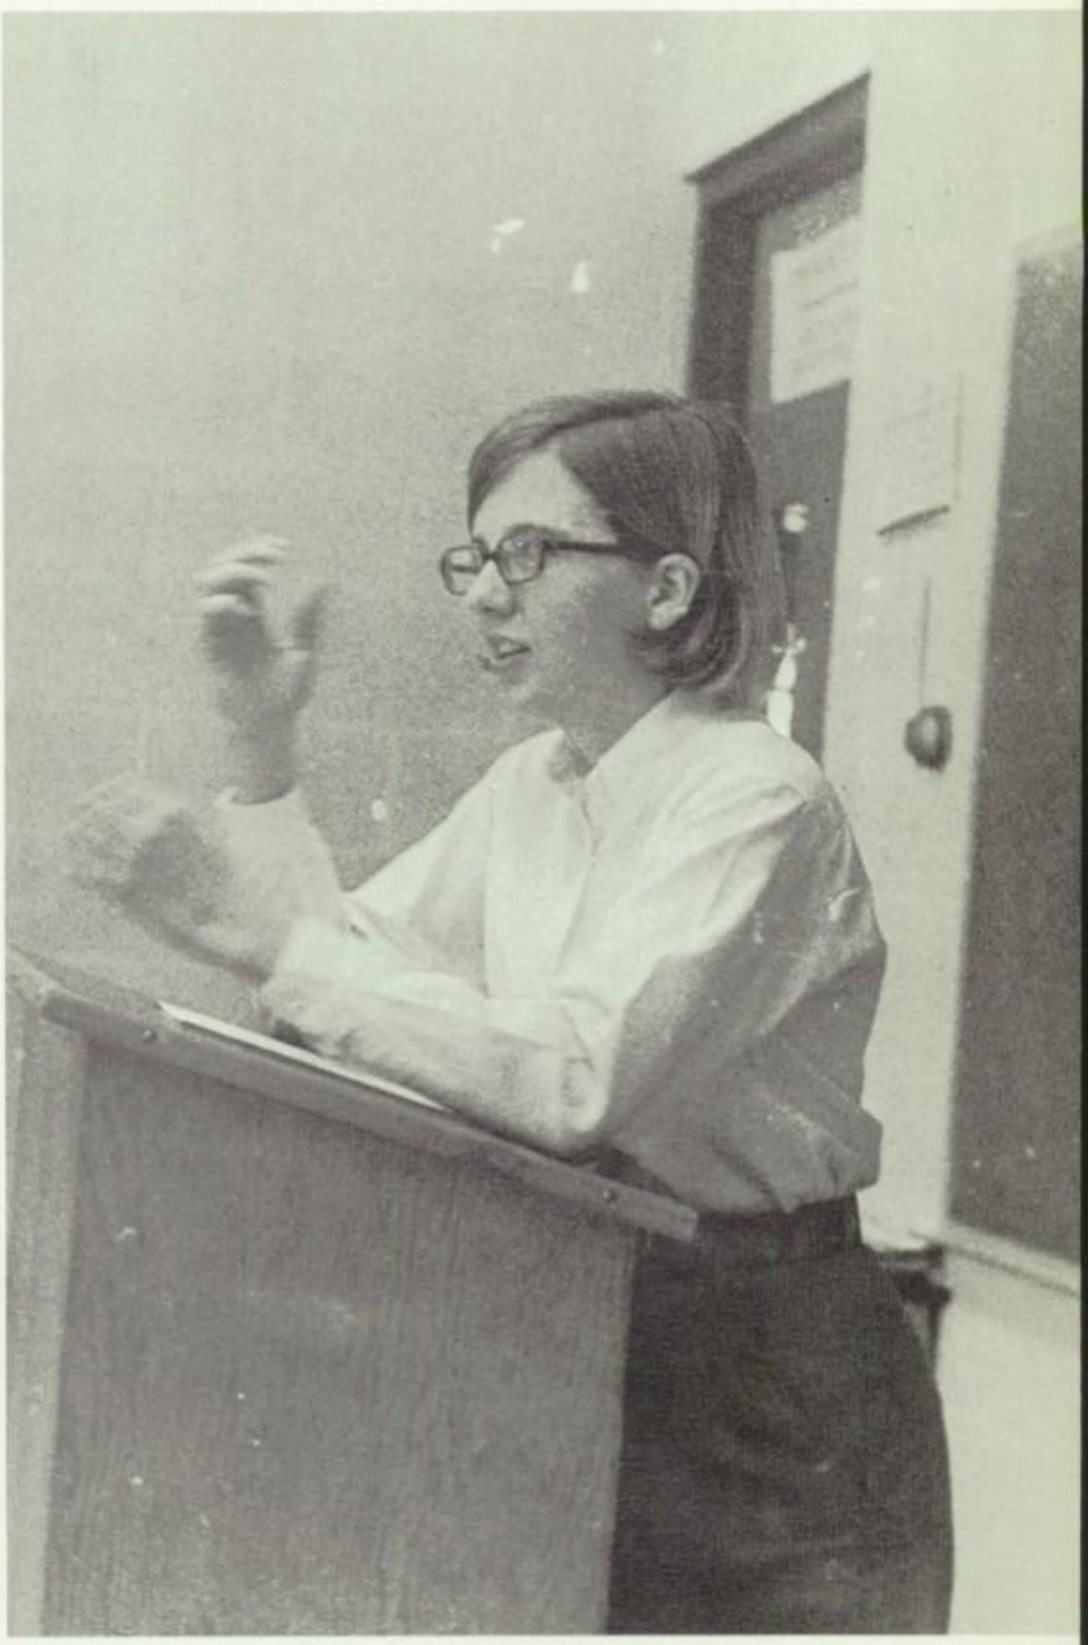
Eight debaters chosen from the first semester debate course and the school-at-large represented TCHS in debate competition with other schools of the area. They participated in eight meets during the first semester debate season, winning 75% of their debates. This year's proposition was "Resolved, that the United States should establish a system of compulsory service for all citizens."

Varsity team members Ray Sutton and John Loveless, negative, and Paula Green and Janice Horton, affirmative, became Tip of the Mit league champions but were eliminated from final North Central League competition. The University of Michigan and the Detroit Free Press recognized the team for its excellent performance. For the second year, Ray Sutton was chosen Debater of the Year.

While preparing for "Sleeping Beauty", Thespians Charlene Abernethy, Sue Carpenter, Karen Voorhees, Pam Bennett, and Mark Tiffany learned how essential rehearsals are in any production.

A backstage crew in charge of scene changes in "David and Lisa" supported Bob Walton and Mike Elsenheimer.

Sue Weiler and Jeanette Bopry appeared in "Sleeping Beauty" before an audience of elementary students.



Janice Horton and other TCHS debaters spent classwork time preparing for competitive debates.

Bo-Gi, Co-op

Mr. Woody Hansen, Mr. Frank Welling, and Mr. Ed Merchant performed in the talent show, singing a song explaining the plight of the teachers.

This year's activities of the Bo-Gi were under the supervision of adviser Bob Lewellan and President of the Bo-Gi Council, Jean Griffin. The Talent Show, "Showboat '69", took place in March, and was directed by Mr. Woody Hansen. It consisted of some 20 acts which featured the student body and the staff of TCHS. Another money-raising feature was the sale of bags by students.

Bo-Gi Council officers this year were President Griffin, Vice President Debbie Stevens, and Secretary Tracey Long. The officers for next year's Council were elected in the spring.

The Jug Band, a popular act in "Showboat '69", consisted of juniors Ted Hoxie, Tom Winowiski, Tim Tilton, Joe Kilpatrick, Roger Easling, and Doug Denison. Several of the group performed in other acts.

provide relaxation, work after school

The co-operative training program, under the direction of Mr. Wilbur McMath, offered students the opportunity both to attend school and to gain experience part-time jobs. The co-op program was aimed primarily at the student who would begin full-time work upon graduation.

A student enrolled in the co-op program spent approximately half his time in school and half his time on the job. His schedule included subjects required for graduation together with those directly related to his job. Upon graduation, the student was prepared to begin a full-time job with a background of training him in following his chosen career.

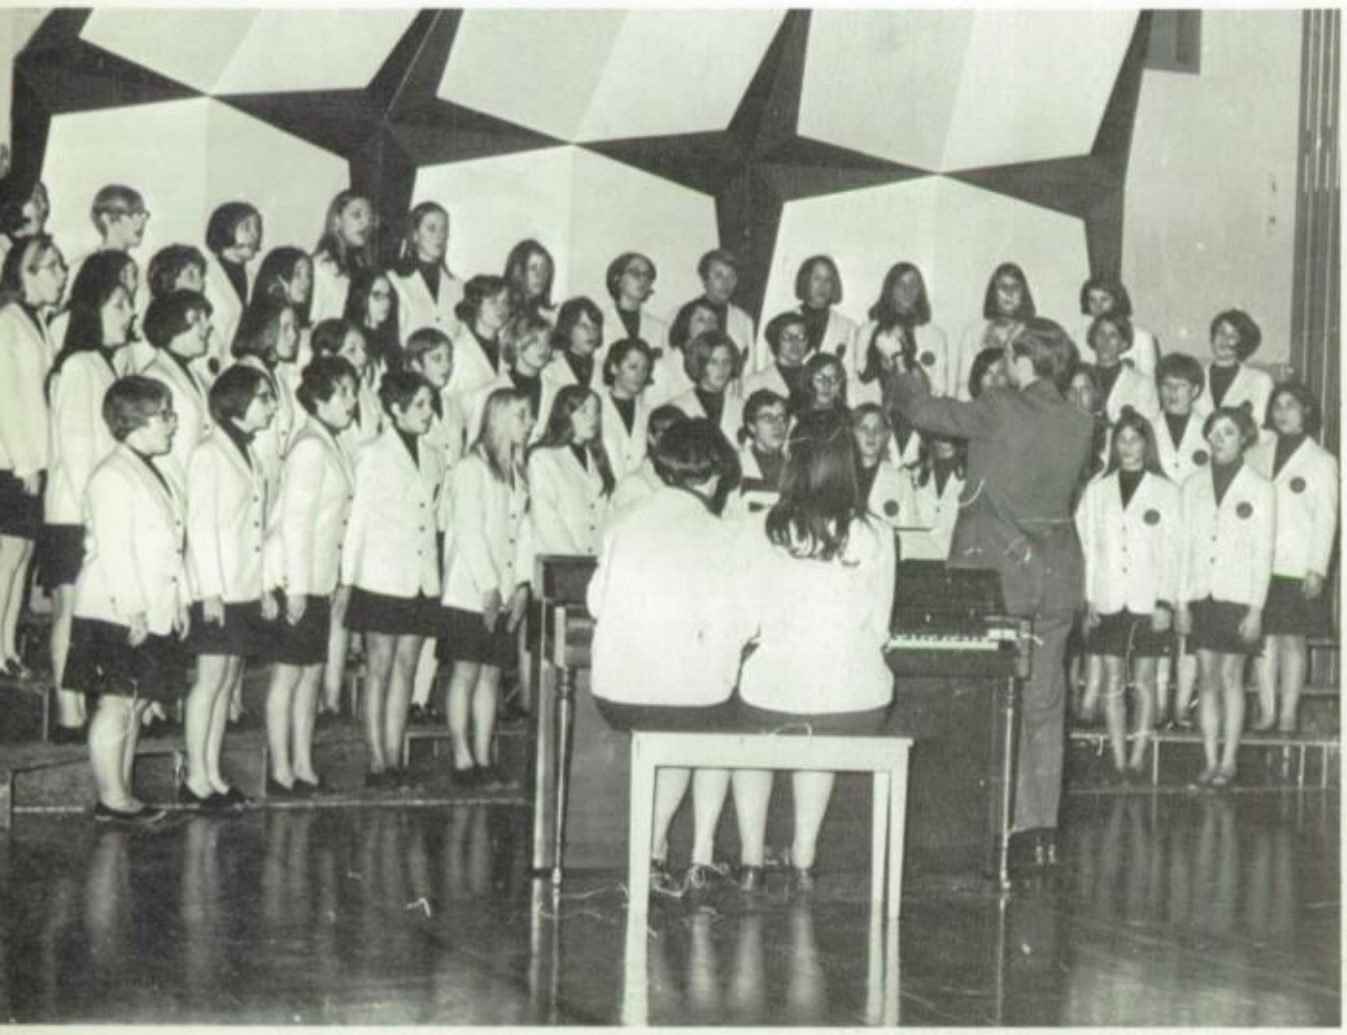
There were 180 students enrolled in co-op second semester, nearly all of them seniors. The majority of students worked in offices. The rest were employed in retail and service businesses, industrial jobs, and medical work.

Karen Blood worked as a nurse's aide at the Osteopathic Hospital in preparation for a career in medicine.

Co-op student Jean Rokos worked in the senior wing office. Senior girls staffed the other wing offices also.

Europe climaxes Choralaires' year

The 1969 High School Choir



Mr. David Parrish directed the girls' choir in its performance at the All-City Music Festival. The choir was composed chiefly of sophomores.

A two-week singing tour of Europe provided the culmination of the Choralaires' busy schedule. Sponsored by Youth For Understanding, the tour included visits to Holland, Denmark, Germany, and England. The Choralaires also performed at numerous local events, and presented a 30-minute program on local television.

The High School Choir, directed by Mr. Melvin Larimer, received a "1" rating at the District Vocal Music Festival in Manistee. As part of a choir exchange, the group traveled to Escanaba.

The High School Girls' Choir's performances included the All-City Music Festival and the district festival.

All singing groups receive "1" rating

Choralaires were, FRONT, Nancy Tanis, Dave Russell, Diane Hart, Bob Porter, Leslie Greene, Debbie Fitzgerald, Dave Amon, BACK, Steve Spencer, Debbie Christopher, Dan Stevens, Marilyn Downer, Dave Parsons, Penny McCain, Mark Williams, and Tafra Petter.

Instrumental

Under the direction of Mr. L. J. Bert, the fifteen piece TCHS Orchestra formed the nucleus of the first completely student-staffed orchestra in many years to play for the TCHS musical. The string group, augmented by wind players from the TCHS Band for some numbers, performed in Christmas and spring concerts, and played in the All-City Music Festival.

groups display students' talents

A "Spring Pops Festival", winter and spring concerts, and participation in the All-City Music Festival highlighted the Symphony Band's year. Mr. A. Thad Hegerberg directed the group, comprised of fifty-five of the more proficient band students. The band also produced a record and attended the State Festival at Lansing. Individual players performed at district and state solo and ensemble festivals.

The popular Trojan Brass performed at basketball games and pep assemblies, and appeared on nationwide television in the coverage of the festivities when the USS Allegheny came to Traverse City. The Marching Band performed at all home football games and at an away game at Alpena.

Mr. Robert Jackson directed the Stage Band, whose appearances included the "Spring Pops Festival" and the Bo-Gi Talent Show. Mr. Jackson also conducted the Concert Band in its varied performances, including playing at the Mass Band Festival in Kingsley.

The Trojan Brass entertained basketball fans during half-time.

'68 cross-country

Trojan Dave Chapman ran one step ahead of a Mt. Pleasant Oiler. The Trojan cindermen lost the meet 39—21.

First-year coach Joe Neihart led the Trojan cross-country team to a second place in the LMAC and eighth place in the regionals. Seniors Don Basch, Ben Lautner, and Rob Holt paced the team to a 2—6 season record. Bob Niswander, Joel Safronoff, and Dave Chapman will be the returning lettermen.

Don Basch, the team's most consistent runner, placed eighth in the two-mile event in the regionals with his best time of the season, 10:50.

In the LMAC, the Trojans placed behind Muskegon Catholic 49—32 with Don Basch coming in fourth, Ben Lautner in ninth, and Joel Safronoff in tenth.

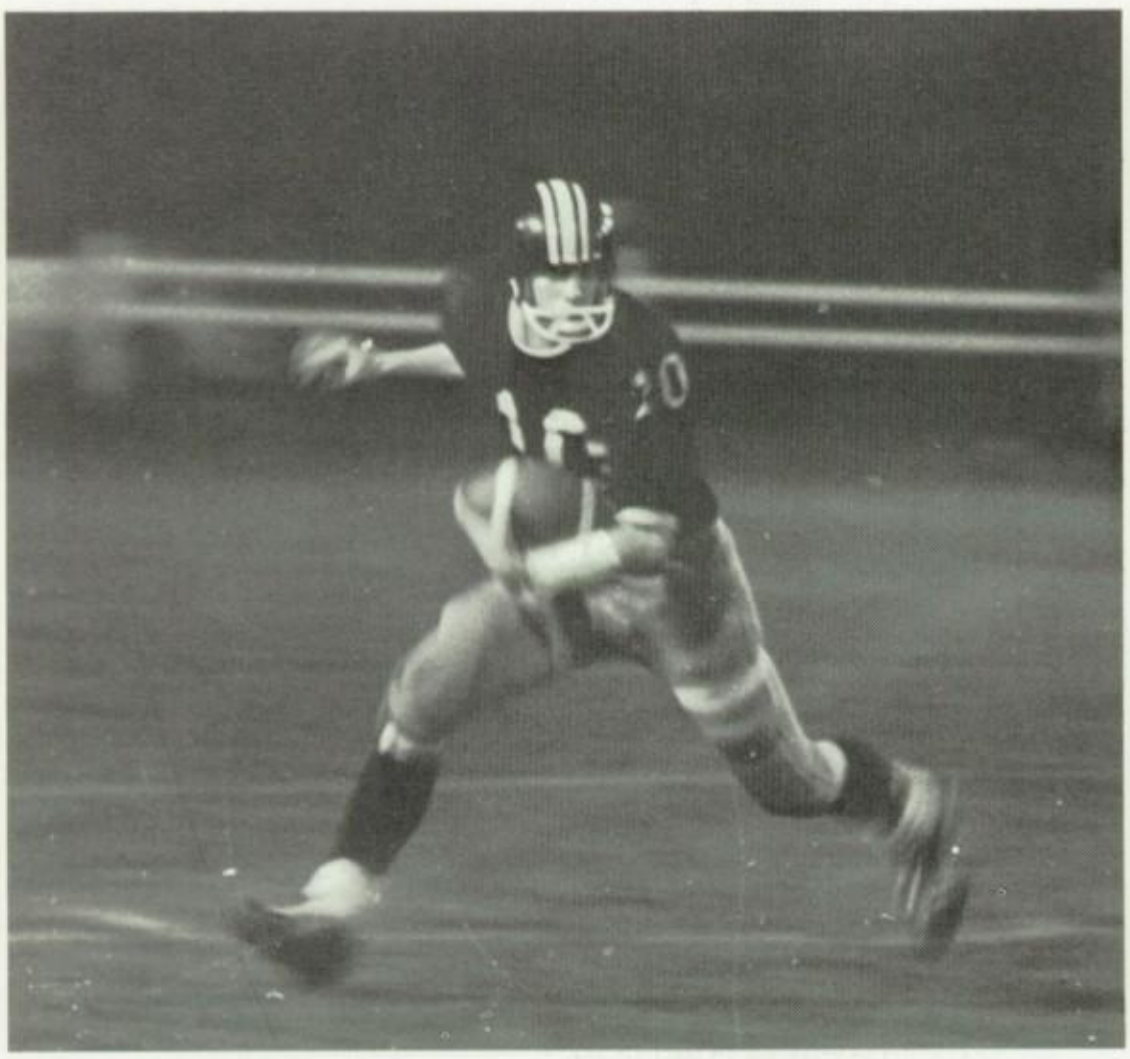
team maintains former LMAC ranking

The six cross-country letter winners, seniors Rob Holt, Ben Lautner, and Don Basch, and juniors Dave Chapman, Bob Niswander, and Joel Safronoff rested after a long run.

In this home meet with Mt. Pleasant, the Trojans lost by 18 points to the Oilers' 21. Don Basch followed Ben Lautner, the first Trojan finisher, who took third place.

Muskegon drove two yards here for their only touchdown. The extra point attempt failed, and the Trojans went on to win 7—6. Muskegon's coach commented after the game that Traverse City was the best team he had seen during the year.



Quarterback Walt Babcock passed for five touchdowns and over 500 yards while leading Traverse City to the conference championship.

Head coach Jim Ooley had a lot to cheer about again this year.

Trojans take fourth LMAC trophy

Traverse City continued to dominate LMAC football by taking its second championship in a row and its fourth in the conference's eight years of existence. The Trojans started off the campaign by squeezing their archrivals, the Muskegon Big Reds. The season was expected to be anticlimactic after that victory. But, several weeks later the Trojans found themselves down 7—0 in the fourth quarter at Kalamazoo Hackett. They finally got the touchdown and, after a penalty nullified the initial failure, the extra point, thereby salvaging a tie and averting a three-way tie for the conference championship.

Five Trojans were named to the All-LMAC teams. They were Vic Cole, who made both the offense and defense, Marty Easling, Bernie Lautner, Dean Mack, and Steve Wehr. Gary Klinglesmith, Rob Manigold, Steve Rollo, and Ty Thompson received honorable mentions.

Vic Cole was named to the UPI all-state team, with Steve Wehr, the Trojan's Most Valuable Player, selected for the all-state third team.

Trojans Bernie Lautner (62), Vic Cole (76) and Karl Koivisto (60) effectively shut off Muskegon's running attack, allowing them only 101 yards on the ground.

Traverse City posted a 7—1—1 record this year against some of the best competition in the state. UPI ranked the Trojans tenth in the state at the end of the season.

Traverse City was given little chance of winning more than a few games this year, but great coaching, hard work, and team spirit overcame most limitations. The 1968 Trojan football team was characterized by a tenacious defense, a spotty offense, and some very remarkable good and bad luck.

The Trojan defense rated among the best in the state, giving up only 34 points all season and posting four shutouts. In this game against Benton Harbor, the defense allowed no total yardage for the complete game.

Doug Denison took this fourth down pass against Benton Harbor from punter John Wuerful.

Against Muskegon, the Trojan offense's only big moment came when Dean Mack raced 59 yards for the winning touchdown. This rugged Muskegon defense gave up only 175 yards the rest of the game.

Marty Easling watched his team finally go down to defeat against Grand Rapids Catholic Central.

The basketball team began the season with high hopes and fine performances. They reached their peak performance in the Battle Creek Invitational, finally losing to top-ranked Battle Creek Central in the finals. From then on an impotent offense led them downhill to a last finish in the LMAC.

Tom Kozelko was voted the team's Most Valuable Player and repeated on the All-Conference team. The team named Walt Babcock the Most Improved Player. It will take great effort to improve this season's record in 1969-70 as the team's four top scorers graduate.

All-State center Tom Kozelko led Trojan scoring with 437 points and broke the all-time Trojan scoring record with over a thousand career points.

Enthusiastic fans join

The Varsity Cheerleaders began their season at a summer camp sponsored by the United States Cheerleading Association. Here, they received a ribbon for their cheer "Fight Loco". They used the cheers they learned at camp throughout the season. The girls and five Varsity Club boys formed a group called the "Terrific Ten". They performed mounts and pyramids during half-times.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders were elected in the fall. They appeared with the varsity squad several times to perform the school song. They journeyed to Cadillac for the final JV road game. Miss Maxine MacInnis coached both squads.

Barb White led cheers at one of the pep assemblies organized by the cheerleaders.

Both cheerleading squads directed the homecoming snake dance. Following the dance, Chris Walton and Nancy Braden conducted cheers at the bonfire.

cheerleaders in displaying Trojan pep

The 1969 Varsity Cheerleaders, Barb White, Roberta Maas, Nancy Braden, Janet Kratky, and Chris Walton, initiated precision mounts into their cheerleading style. They designed new uniforms for basketball season.

The Jay-Vee Cheerleaders, Nikki Pestolis, Cheri VanHorn, Rondi Wuerful, Barb Bell, and Marilyn Robbins practiced a variety of sideline cheers.

Members of the 1968-69 boys' ski team were Ken Core, Bill Hazelton, Rick Thirlby, Dan Kipley, Jim Babel, Chip Stulen, and Bob Werner. Kipley and Babel will be lost to next year's team through graduation.

Placing second in giant slalom and fourth in slalom, senior Barb Bohn led a young girls' team to a third place finish in the regionals. Barb was a three-year letter winner and twice an all-state selection.

Boys repeat as regional champions

TCHS boys' team posted another perfect record in spite of all-stater Tom Lindsay's failure to compete because of a broken ankle. The boys went undefeated and won the regionals for the second consecutive year. Superior depth accounted for their strong showing. Juniors Bill Hazelton, Chip Stulen, Rick Thirlby, and Bob Werner assure another great boys' team next season.

The girls lost two meets this year and placed third in the regionals with only one upperclassman, Barb Bohn, on the team. Lynn Hazelton, Tracey Long, and Shelley Thayer skied well throughout the season and will be the nucleus of a very promising 1969-70 squad.

Three Trojans were named to the all-state ski team. Senior Barb Bohn, repeated from the girls' team. Junior Rick Thirlby and senior Dan Kipley were named from the boys' team. Kipley also competed in the United States Ski Association junior nationals in Anchorage, Alaska.

Shelley Thayer was one of three fine junior girls who scored consistently well.

Members of the 1968-69 girls' team were Kathy Hayes, Lynn Hazelton, Shelley Thayer, Barb Bohn, Tracey Long, and Pat Nagy. Meredith Parsons was missing from the picture. Bohn is the only graduating letter winner.

Cindermen set records in many events

The track team posted a 4—3 record in dual meet competition. Because of the later spring, individual best performances came late in the season; in the LMAC meet 13 members turned in their best performances. The team only tied for fourth in the conference, although the last four teams finished within four points of one another.

In the regional meet Trojan scoring came on a third place finish in the quarter mile run and fifth place in the mile relay. Ben Lautner qualified to run in the state meet. The team was coached by Mr. Joe Neihardt, assisted by Mr. Neil Mullally and Mr. John Swire.

Denny Courturier broke his own broad jump record with 20' 3 1/2". He finished second in the conference broad jump.

Junior Dave Chapman excelled as a distance runner. He competed in the half mile.

Don Basch finished first in the conference high jump at 5'11" and was third in both high and low hurdles.

Stan Martindale played third base and scored the only run in the final game between Muskegon and Traverse City.

Trojans nipped in first title game

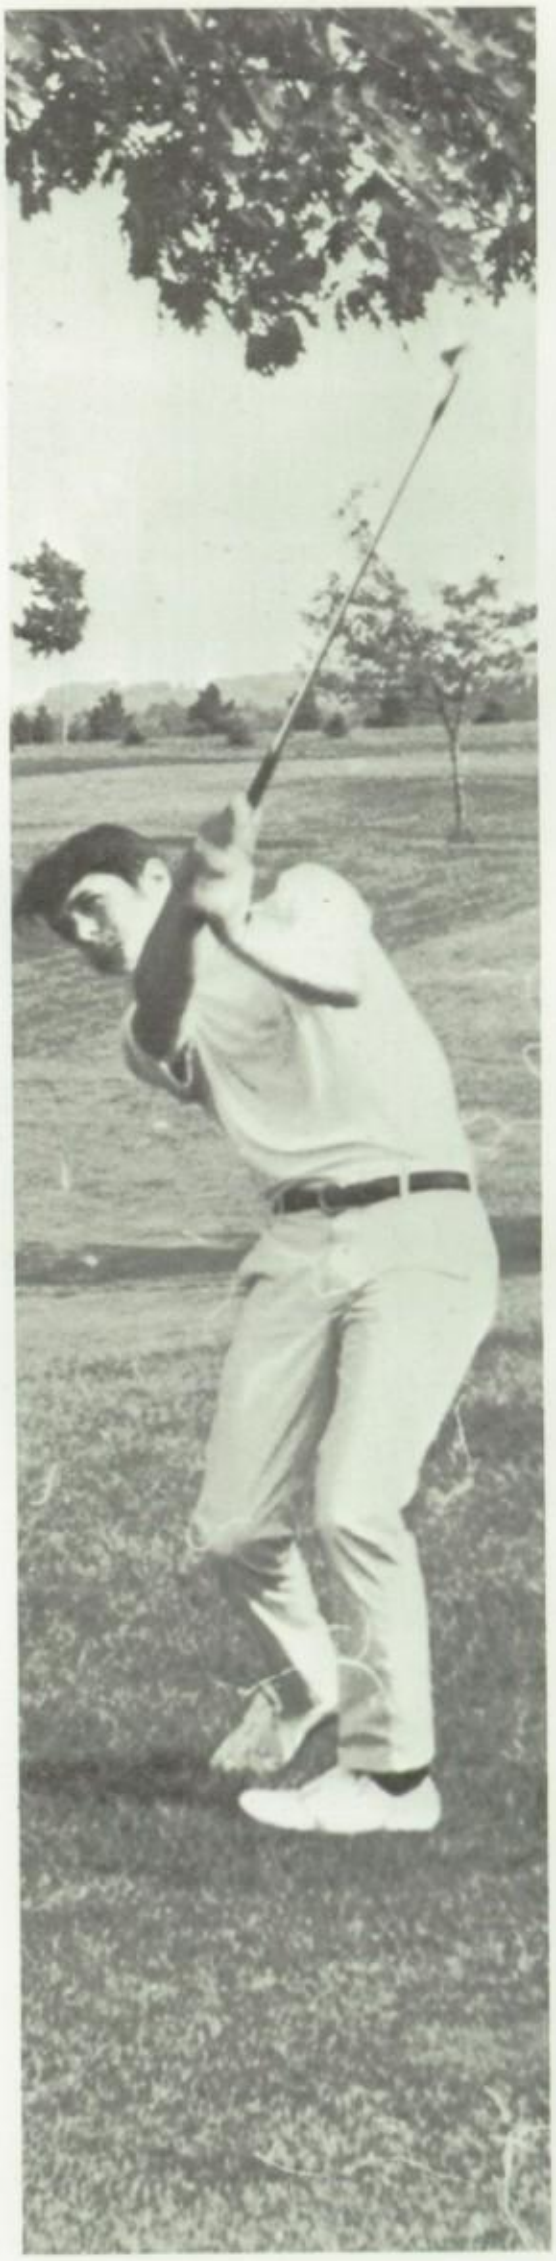
The Trojan nine went down to a 1—5 defeat in their first game of the season. Although pitcher Glenn Carlson allowed only four hits, his team made four errors on which Muskegon capitalized. The team then split a twin bill with Muskegon Catholic. Carlson won the first game 6—4, giving up five hits. Trojans John Brooks, Gary Klinglesmith, Tom Myers, and Mark Ribel each had two hits. In the second game starter Vic Cole was bombed for eight runs in three innings, losing 4—9. Traverse City ended the regular season by beating Cadillac 17—7. Three triples and homers by Jim Demin and Ribel paced the Trojan attack.

In the playoffs Carlson shut out both Muskegon Catholic and Muskegon 1—0 on the same afternoon, allowing only five hits and four walks in 14 innings. Ty Thompson pitched in Traverse City's first title game, because Carlson was suspended. Despite an airtight defense, Kalamazoo Hackett picked up enough runs to capture the title 3—2.

Jim Demin caught in all the team's games and drove in the winning run in the Trojan' 1—0 victory over Muskegon.

Veteran first baseman Mark Ribel scored the only run in the shutout against Muskegon Catholic. He was safe at first on an error and moved to second on a wild pitch. Glenn Carlson then singled him home.

Floyd Belyea supported the golfing squad in taking a successful season. He is one of three juniors who will lead next year's golf team.



Chuck Havill played regularly for his second year on the golf team.

Golfers lose championship status

TCHS golfers failed in their bid for a third consecutive conference championship, placing fourth, 38 strokes behind the leader and 133 ahead of the fifth place finisher.

The golf team finished the regular season with a 6—4 record. They averaged 82.8 strokes per man over an 18-hole course, while their opponents averaged 84.3 strokes. Junior Dean Mack finished well throughout the season. In the conference he finished fifth in individual scoring with a 27-hole total of 128 strokes.

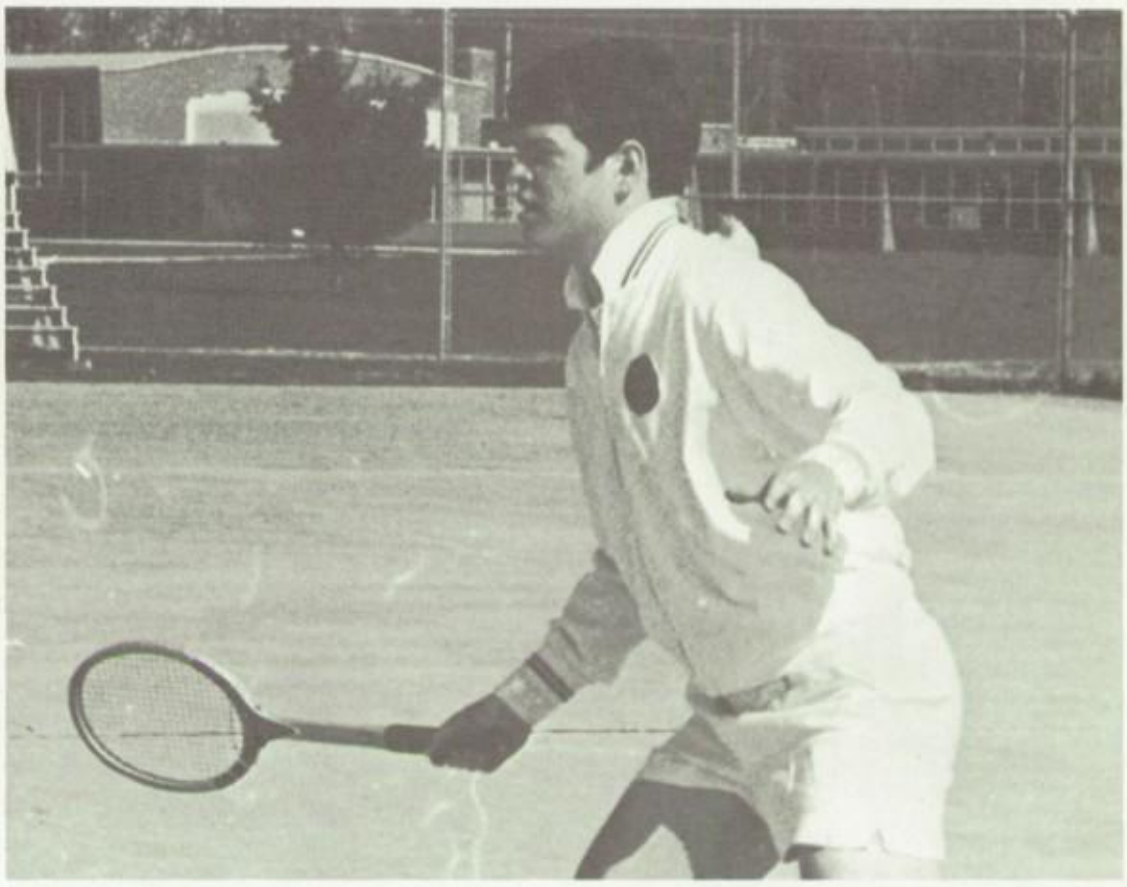
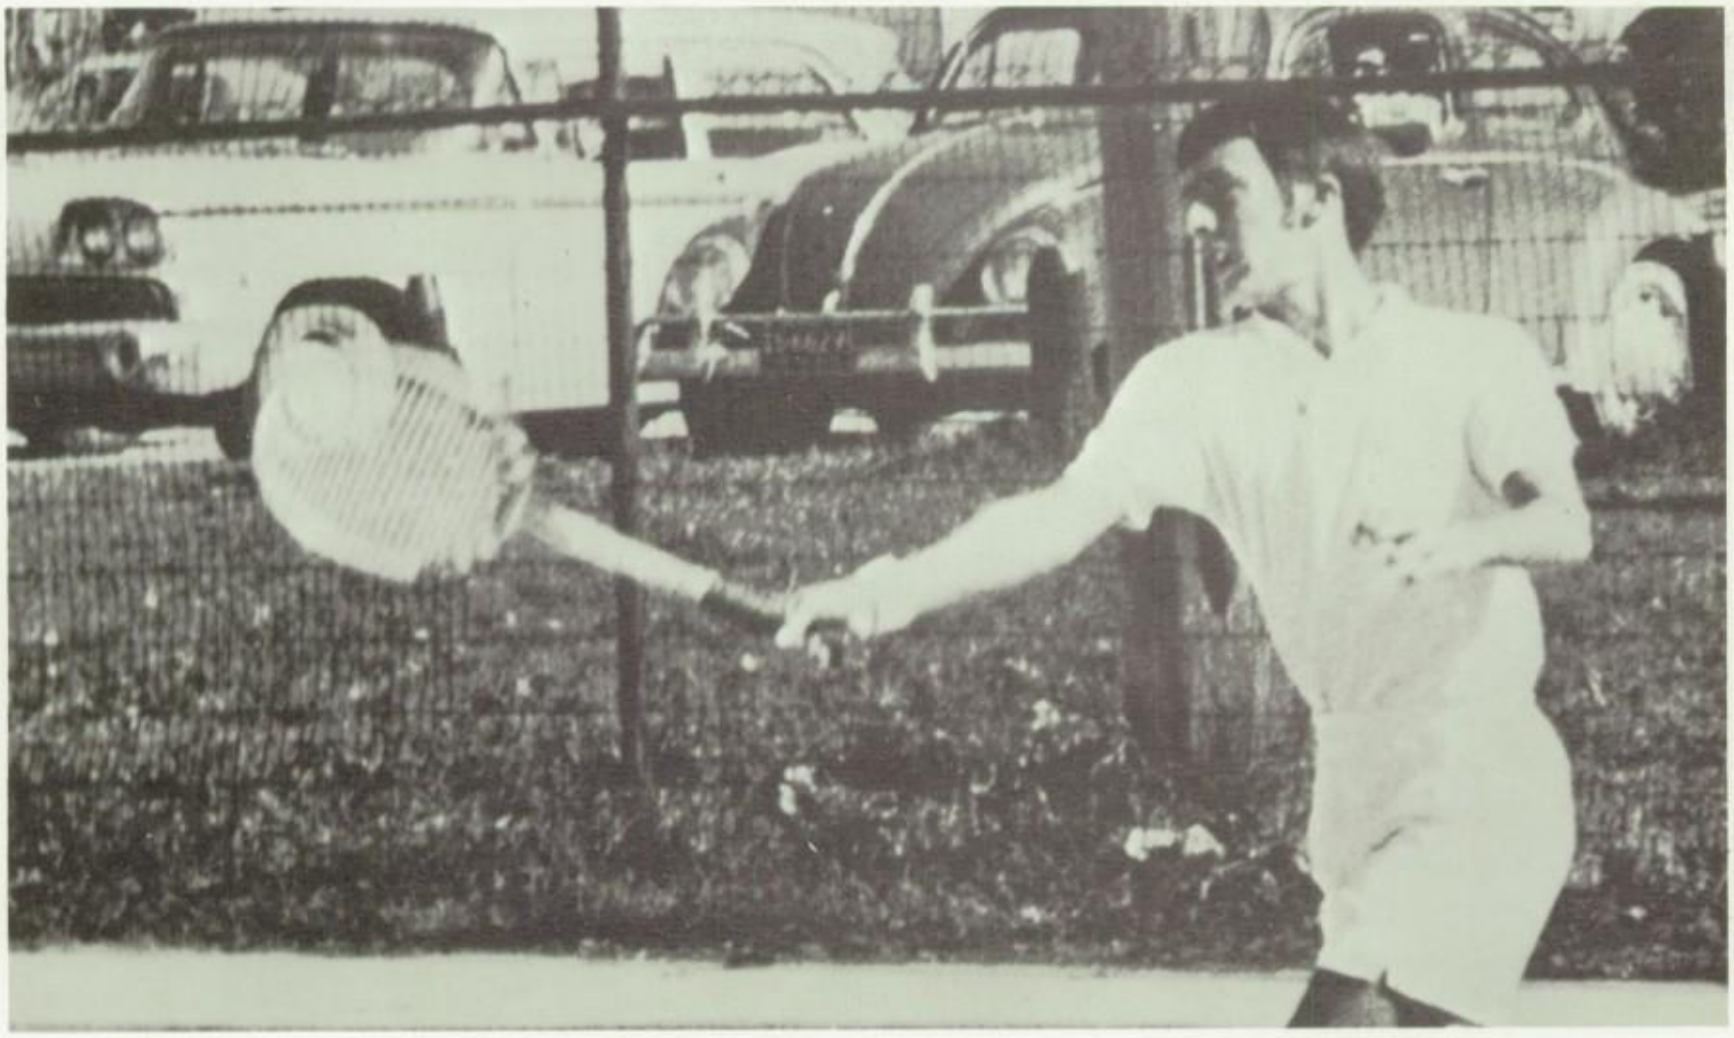
Netters place second in conference

The tennis team lost their first seven matches but finished strongly, winning their last three matches and taking runner-up position in the conference. Anchoring the team were six seniors: Steve Batdorff, Doug Morrison, Jeff Power, Scott Roach, Bob Smith, and Don Thibedeau. The team's strength lay in its depth, since there were no outstanding players. Juniors Gary Begley, Bill Hazelton, Dave Parsons, Mike Shea, and Chip Stulen will form the nucleus of next year's team.



Dave Parsons won both his matches in JV competition and played varsity doubles. He is a top prospect for next year's team.



Playing first singles, Bob Smith faced the toughest opposition throughout the season. His first victory came just before the conference meet, but in the conference he managed to take runner-up honors.

Girls benefit from athletics program

The Student Committee on Physical Education included fifteen junior and senior girls who assisted in teaching the girls' physical education classes. Aside from weekly meetings, the girls met for a fall picnic, a Christmas party, and a spring dinner where the seniors were recognized. The 1969-1970 members were initiated in the spring.

The Girls' Athletic Association provided an opportunity to participate in gymnastics, badminton, and volleyball. They sponsored GAA Night each Thursday evening. Here, the girls could improve their skills on various pieces of gymnastic equipment. The girls' volleyball team competed against Interlochen during the year.

SCOPE leader Chris Jankowiak instructed her classes in the rules and proper form for playing badminton.

Wendy Richardson participated in the spring shuffleboard tournaments held in girls' gym classes.

Kathy Nyland, Kimi Amor, and Sharon Arnold presented a demonstration on the uneven parallel bars at GAA Night. The Girls' Athletic Association worked on the other gymnastic equipment throughout the year.

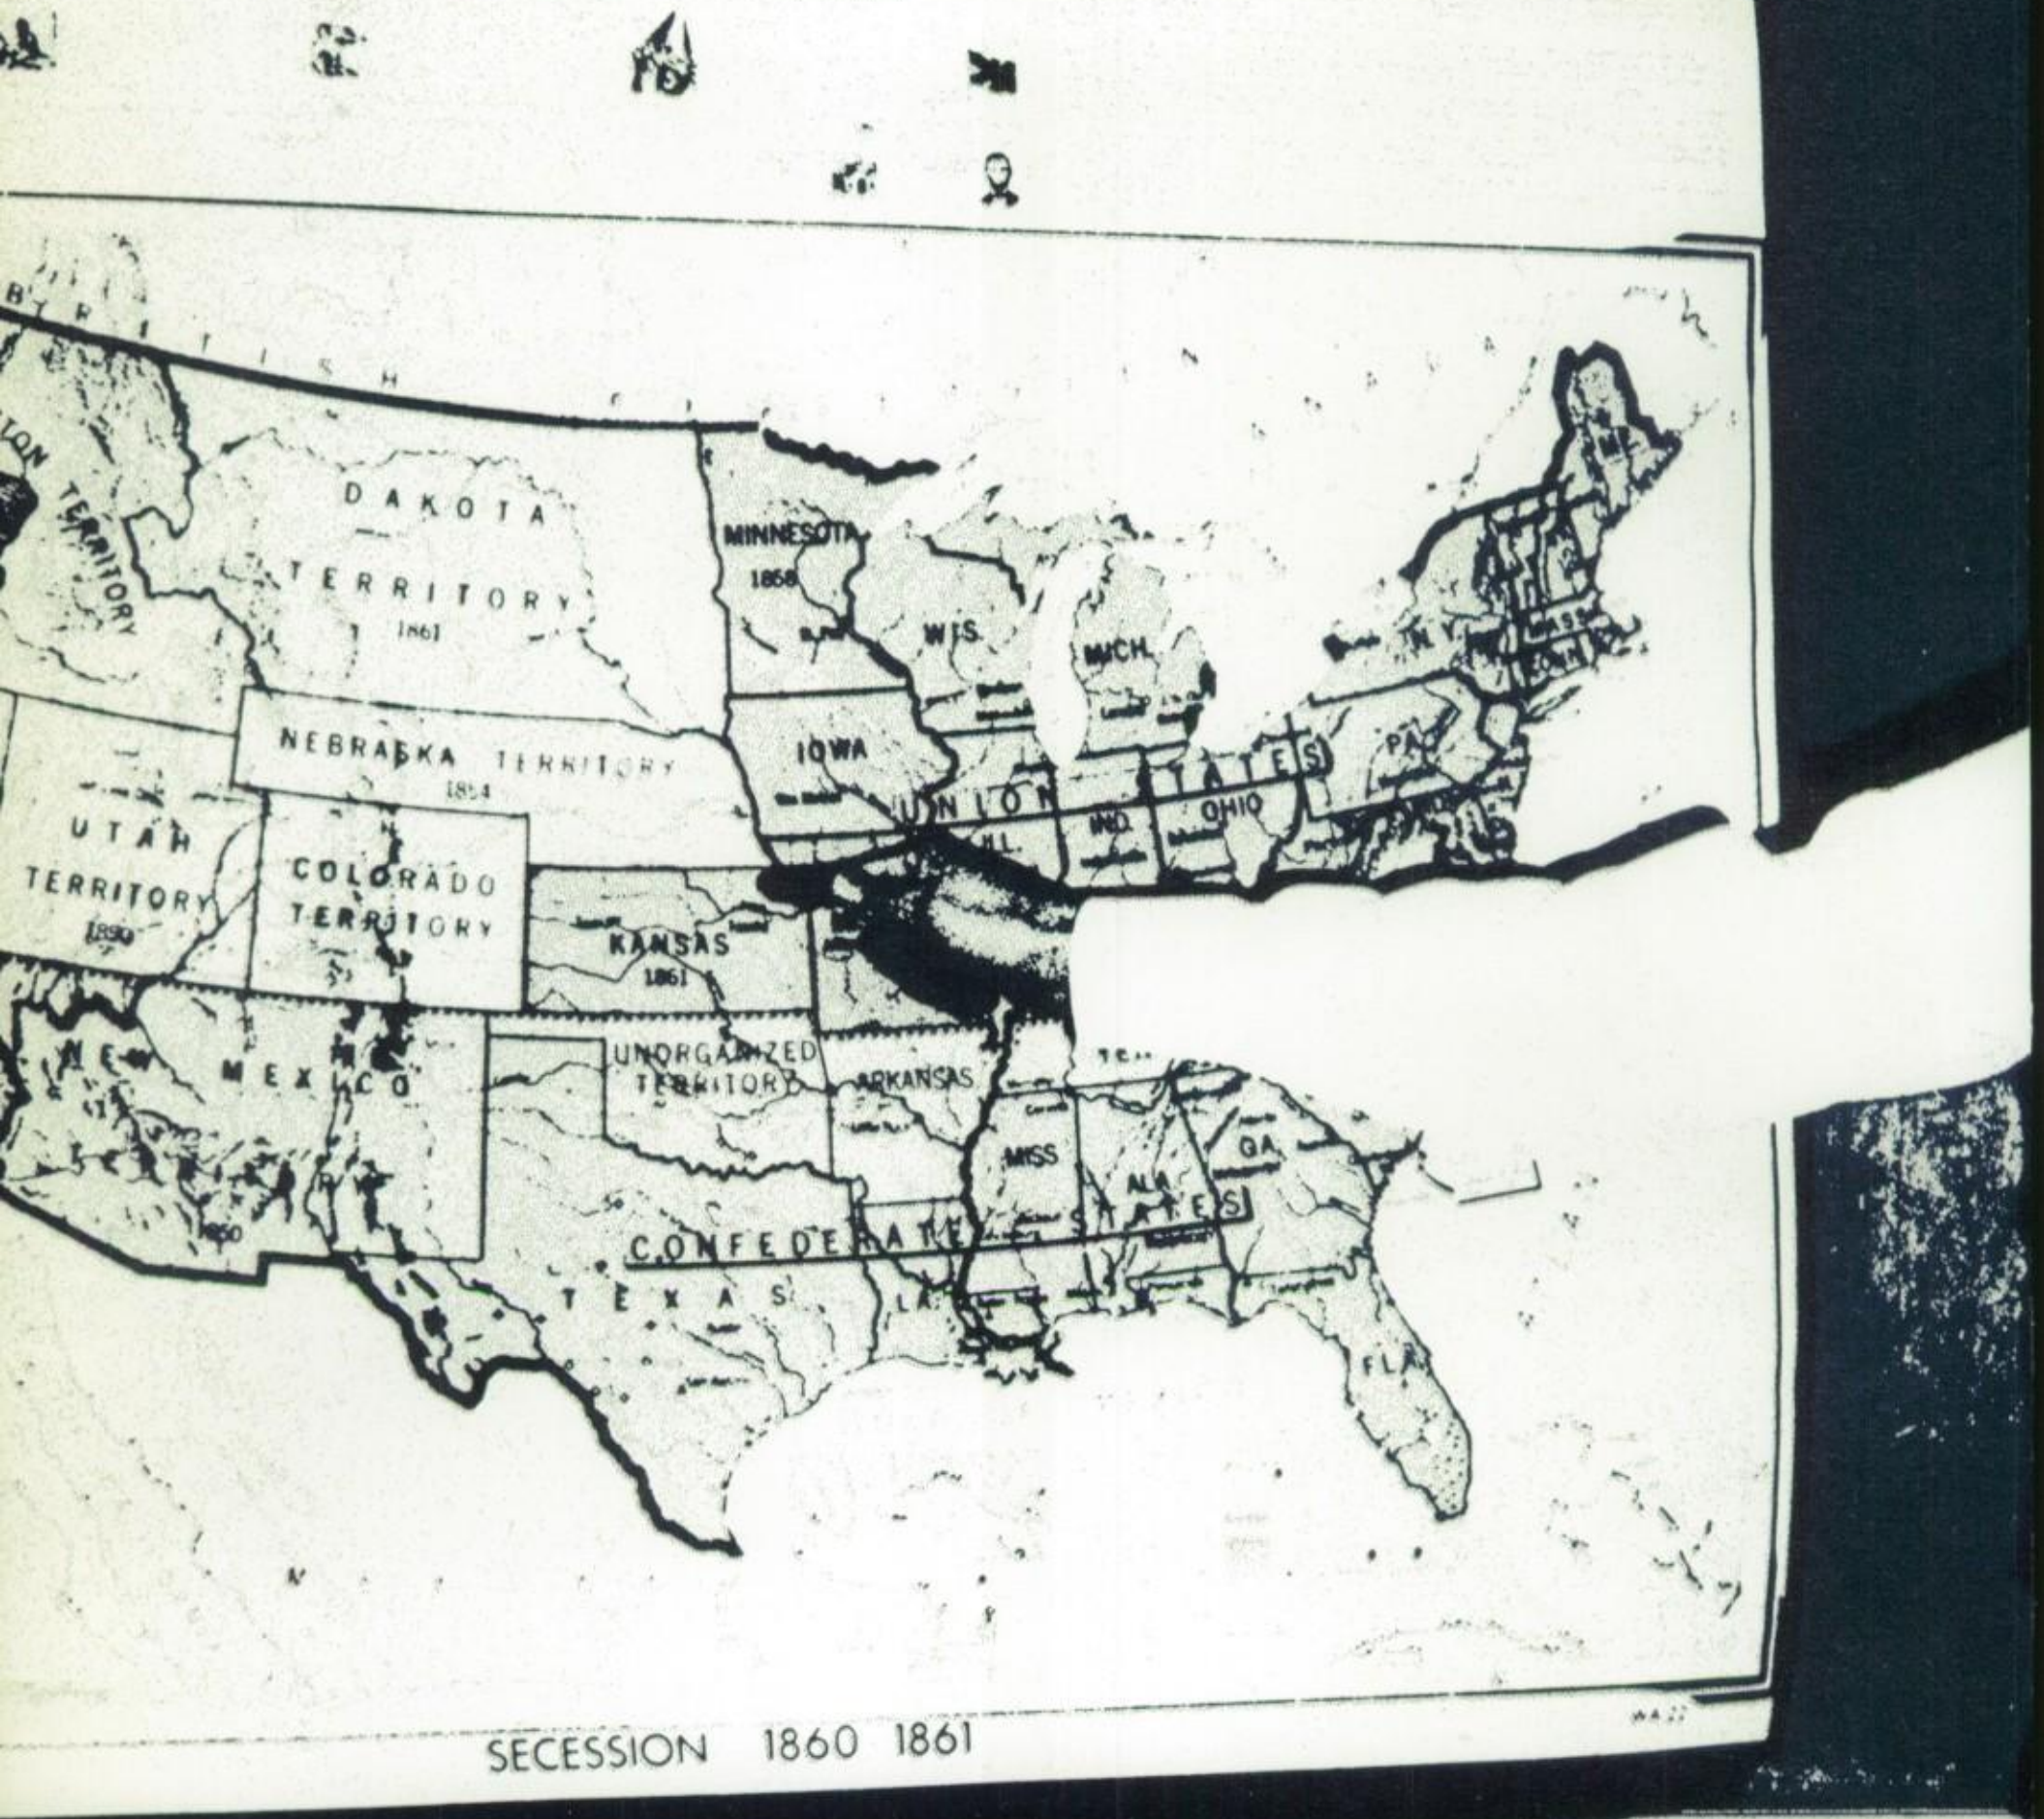
BACKGROUNDS AND DEVELOPMENT



SECESSION 1860 1861

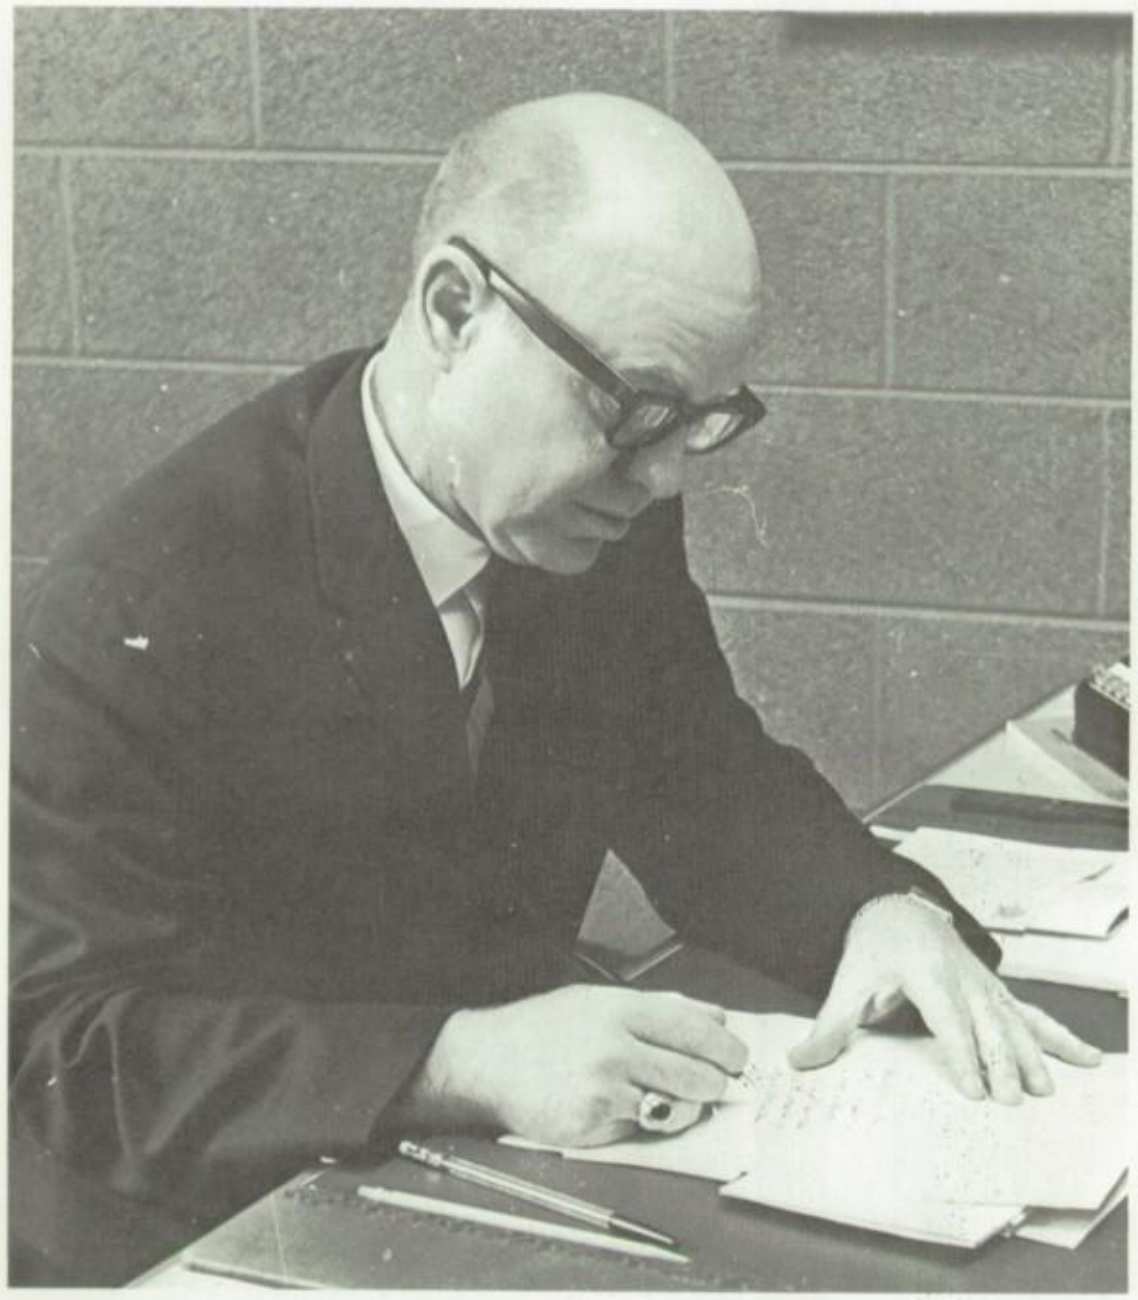
Administrators seek solutions to



Faced with the growing demands of a rapidly expanding student population and with renewed labor-management tensions, administrators appealed to the community for financial and moral support. They fought the threat of losing local control of public schools to a state-wide teachers' union in the courts and in community publications. To cope with the student population explosion, they successfully promoted passage of a building bond issue to finance construction of a new junior high and expansion of existing high school facilities.

As assistant superintendent for non-certified personnel, Mr. Garland House handled financial affairs. Mr. Walter Oberlin served as secondary curriculum co-ordinator.

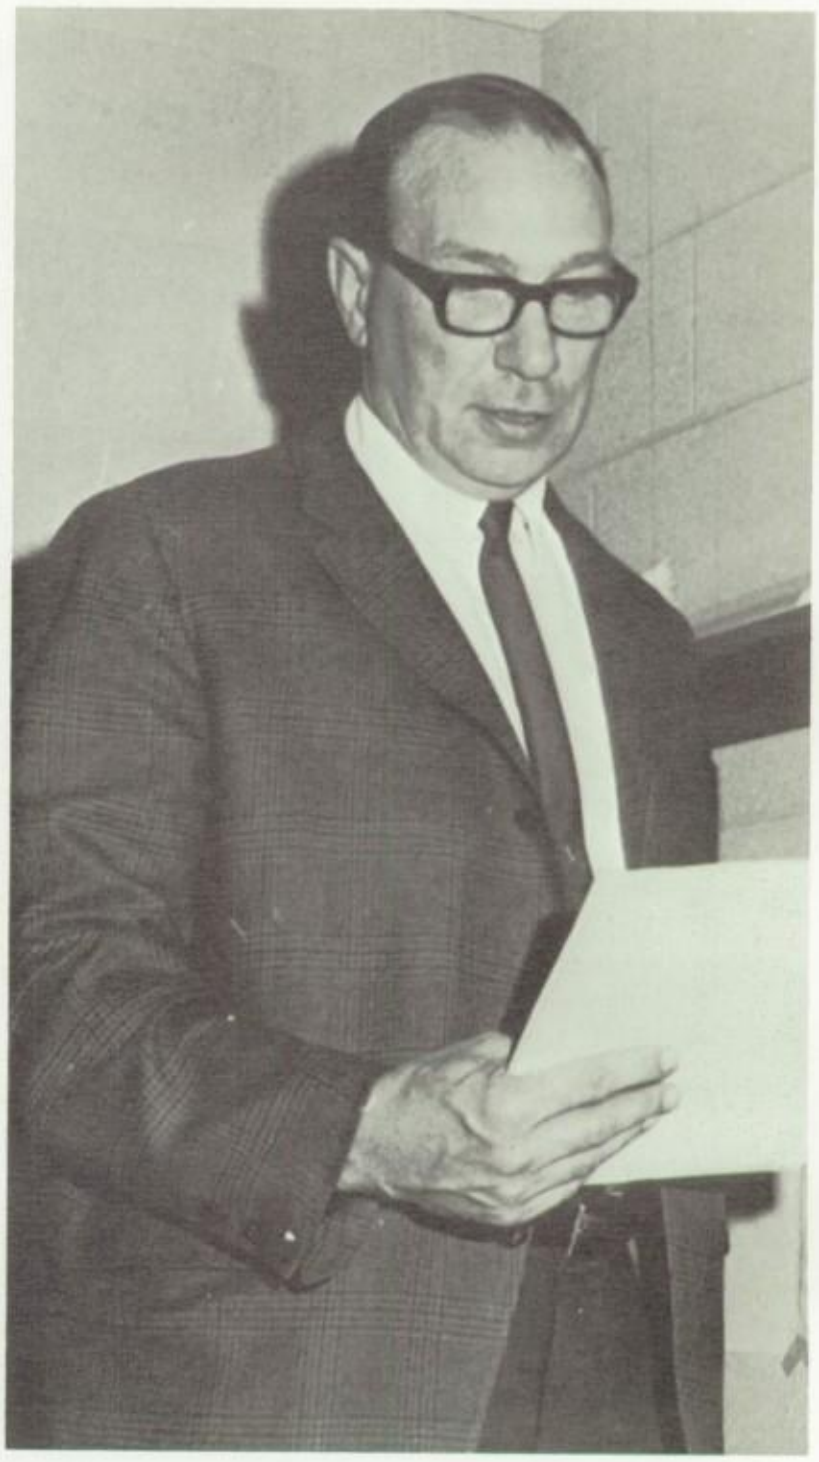
Superintendent Robert Johnston led the fight for maintenance of local control of Traverse City Public Schools.

Members of the Board of Education were Attorney Harry Running, Dr. Edward Stokes, President Julius Beers, Mr. Richard Harwood, Mr. Robert Dean, Mr. Bruce Graham, Mr. Bob Hilty, and Mr. Dale Wares.

pressing problems

Mr. Eugene Lawler, assistant superintendent, represented in the community all the public schools.

TCHS Principal Arthur Schubert presented scholastic award pins at the National Honor Society reception.



Mr. Ed Schuknecht co-ordinated athletics and tried to maintain a semblance of order, as assistant principal.

Mr. David Dye, who was a drivers' education instructor, served as the senior attendance officer. He was the advisor for the Pep Club also.

Mrs. Ellabeth Smethells, counselling director, aided seniors in post-high school plans.

Librarians

TCHS counselors helped the students in many ways. The students were given a chance to learn about themselves from test scores and information from permanent records. Throughout the years they may find the needed help and understanding from their counselors, who aid them in developing self-understanding.

Students also learned of the opportunities and requirements of the school. Then, in follow-up studies, they can evaluate the programs of TCHS.

With expanded facilities, the library, too, has aided the students. Four new study carrels, each containing a tape recorder and a film previewer, and many new books made learning easier. Existing facilities will be doubled in size when the construction program is completed.

Working out schedules for the Junior boys' next year took up much of Mr. Phil Krull's time. Mr. Krull was also the Junior attendance officer.

counselors offer students assistance

Many girls were helped out by Miss Maxine McInnis, sophomore and senior girls' advisor.

Mr. Paul Katsaros was the new head librarian this year. Mrs. Jean Maas, an assistant, and Miss Pearl Faist, the other librarian, helped him.

Many sophomore girls and all of the junior girls were called in at least once this year to talk over future plans with Mrs. Helen Burkholder.

Besides being sophomore attendance officer, Mr. Dugald Munro also advised sophomore boys.

Teachers expand English curriculum to Miss Mary-Kay Bewalda and Mr. John Wilson, sophomore English teachers, worked out their pilot program in team teaching.

Students were offered a wide range of subject matter in English courses at TCHS. Each student was able to choose the course which was of most interest to him and would be most helpful after graduation.

During the past decade, the English department has expanded to include a wider selection of materials, more expository writing, and a more intense study of the novel and short story.

Senior English students chose between a course in composition or English literature. In conjunction with their English study, literature students of Mrs. Elizabeth Parker and Mrs. Eleanor Stocking made a trip to the University of Michigan to see a production of The Misanthrope.

Mr. Terry Ebright instructed five sections of juniors' general English.

Mrs. Wynn Bade, department chairman and sophomore and junior honors English instructor, discussed new teaching techniques with sophomore English teacher, Mr. Wayne Piper.

further accommodate contemporary works

Mrs. Dorothy Dooley taught regular English to juniors and general English to sophomores during the second semester.

Mrs. Joan Panter helped develop basic skills and principles in her special education classes.

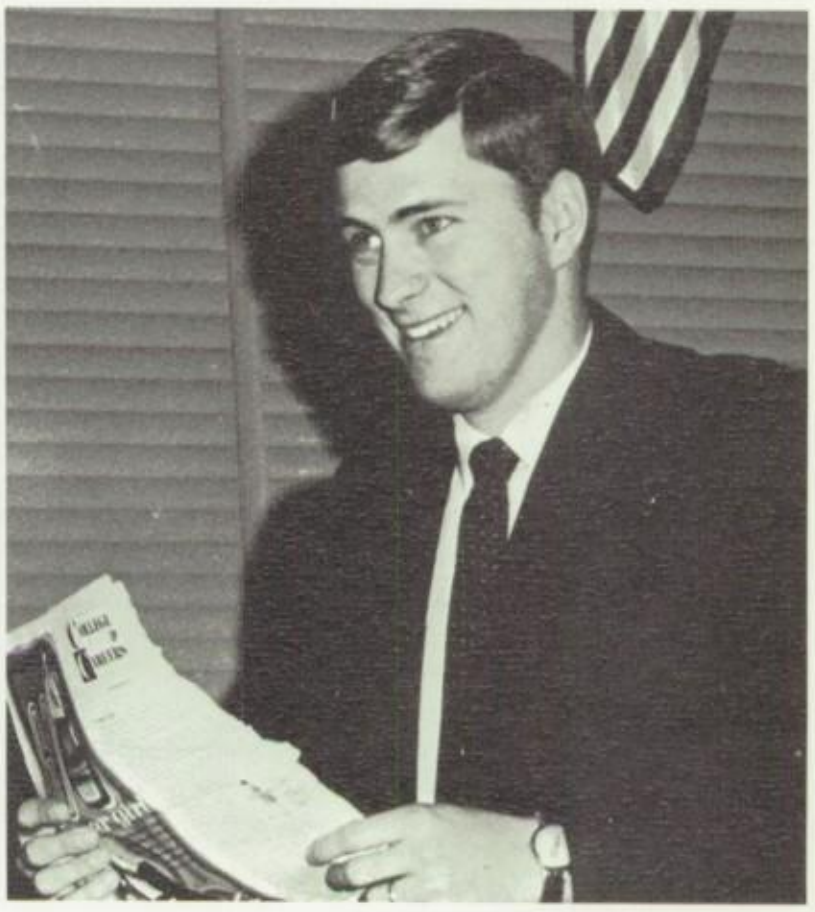
English teachers arrange field trip to Besides advising the Black and Gold and Press Club, Mr. A. V. Williams taught Juniors English.

As National Honor Society advisor, Senior English teacher Betty Parker oversaw all of its activities.

Senior Harvey Montgomery learned a greater appreciation for good writing from instructor Eleanor Stocking.

J of M for APA production

Mrs. Louise Williams found diversification in her daily routine by teaching both junior English and art.



JV basketball coach Larry Nykerk reflected his enjoyment of teaching English and Humanities.

Mr. Calvin Husby included studies of novels and authors in his senior English composition classes.

Study carrels aid language studies

The language department included all new teachers this year with the exception of Mrs. Gertrude Onker. Mr. John Galnares, Spanish instructor, became the department head.

The classes made much use of tapes and films. The study carrels, new in the library, were also valuable aids.

Mr. Neil Mullally formed a new class by combining French III and humanitites. The course included French art, music, literature, and customs.

The debate team coached by Mrs. Dianna Forster, won the Tip of the Mit debate league trophy this year for the first time.

TCHS's only Latin teacher, Mrs. Gertrude Onker, listened to students recite in a Latin I class.

Mrs. Dianna Forster was a speech and debate teacher. She was also active in local theatre productions.

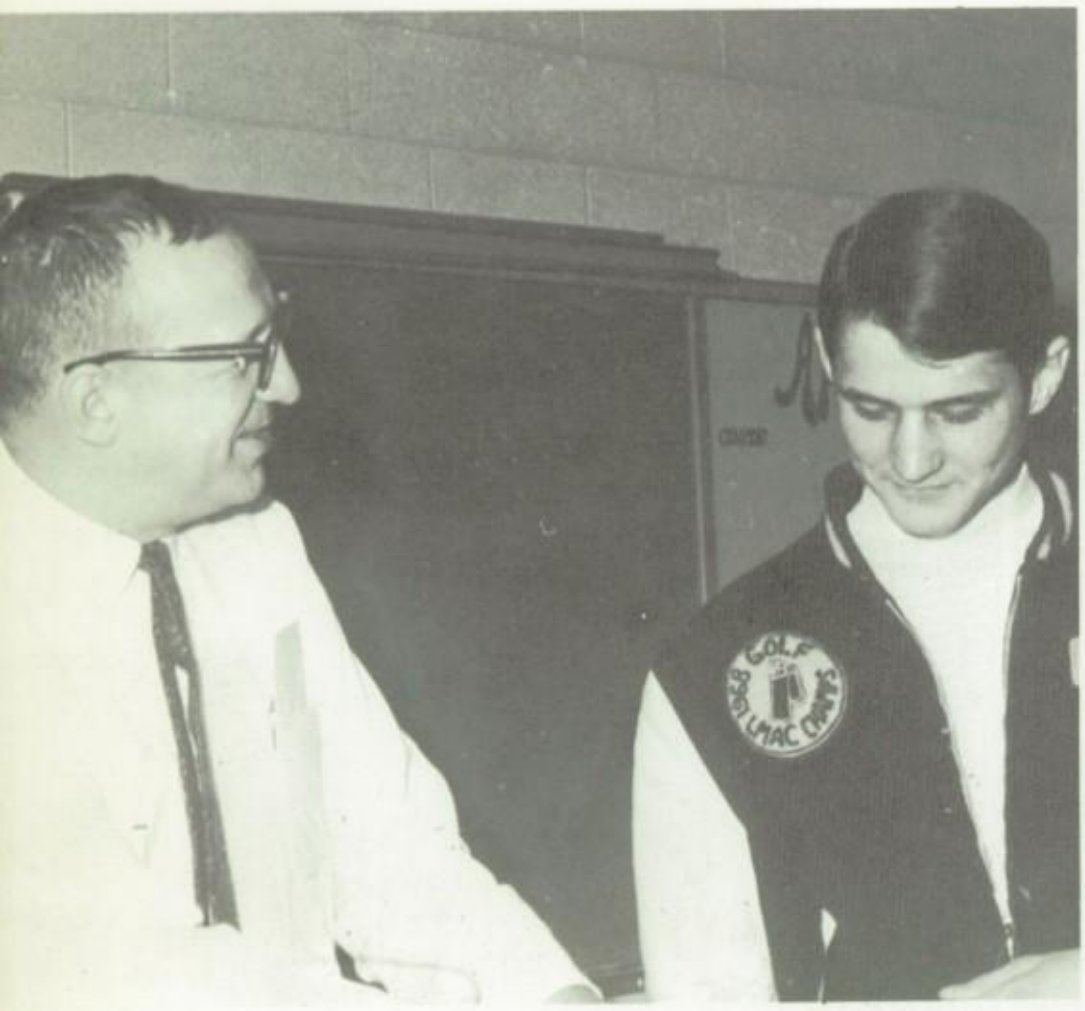
Mr. Neil Mullally, Pines staff advisor, and Mr. James Schmuckal were new French teachers. Mr. Schmuckal taught at both Junior and Senior High.

Mr. John Galnares, department head, strove to conduct his second year classes almost entirely in Spanish.

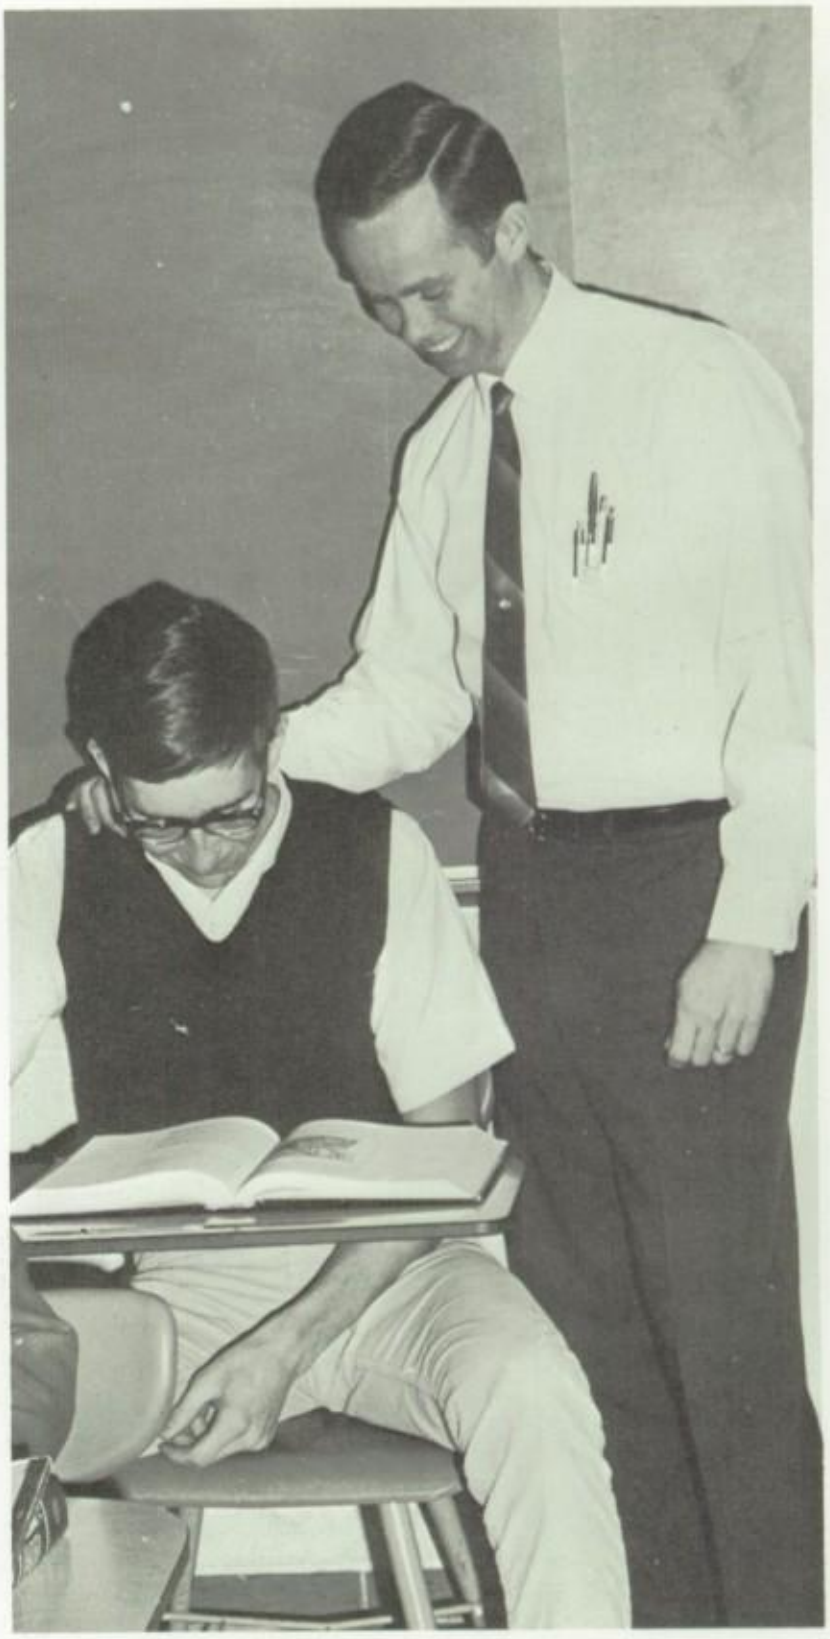
A native of Puerto Rico, Miss Merceditas Font came to TCHS this year. She taught Spanish I and III.

Miss Vicki Bush, a new teacher this year, lectured a Spanish I class. She also taught Government.

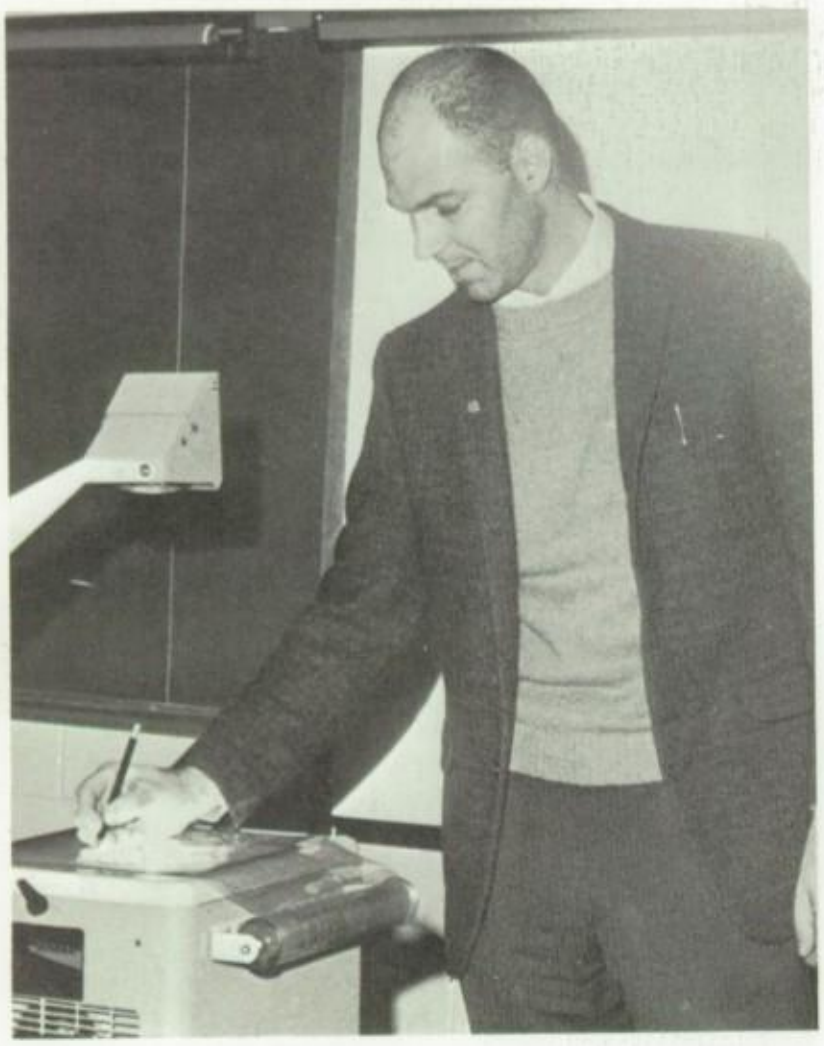
In addition to teaching speech and dramatics, Mr. Garwood Hanson directed many school plays.



In addition to his responsibilities as head of the history department, Mr. Richard Crampton taught both honors and regular American history.



Gary Epting and Mr. David Hardy collaborated to unravel an important concept of American history.

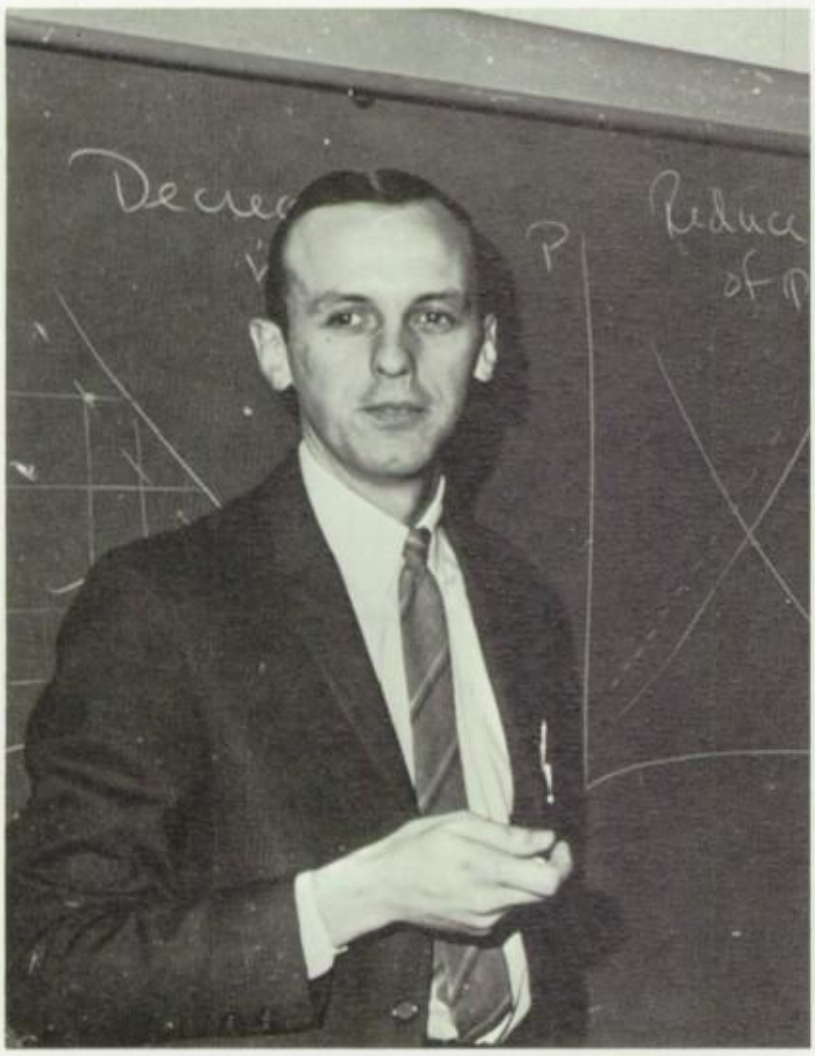


In his world history and sociology classes, Mr. Fred Curow often wrote lessons on the overhead projector.

Mr. Renzo Azzano used his Italian background to give his government and American history students interesting insights.

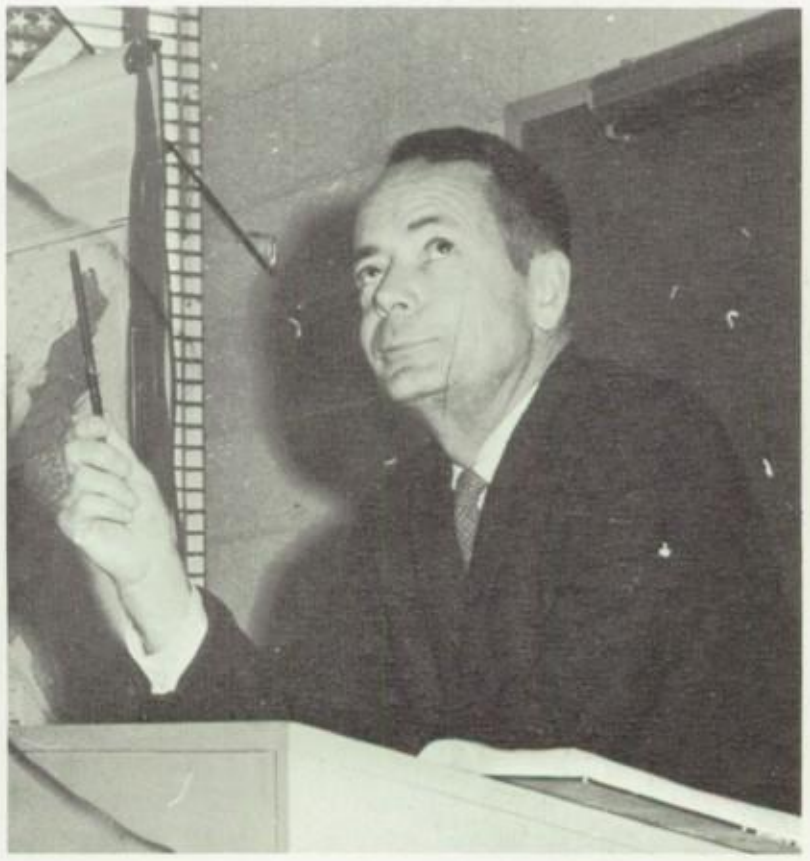
History classes emphasize induction

Mr. John Sonneman examined one of the many student creations in his world history classroom.



Mr. Jerry Urban, a first-year teacher, at TCHS, taught both government and economics.

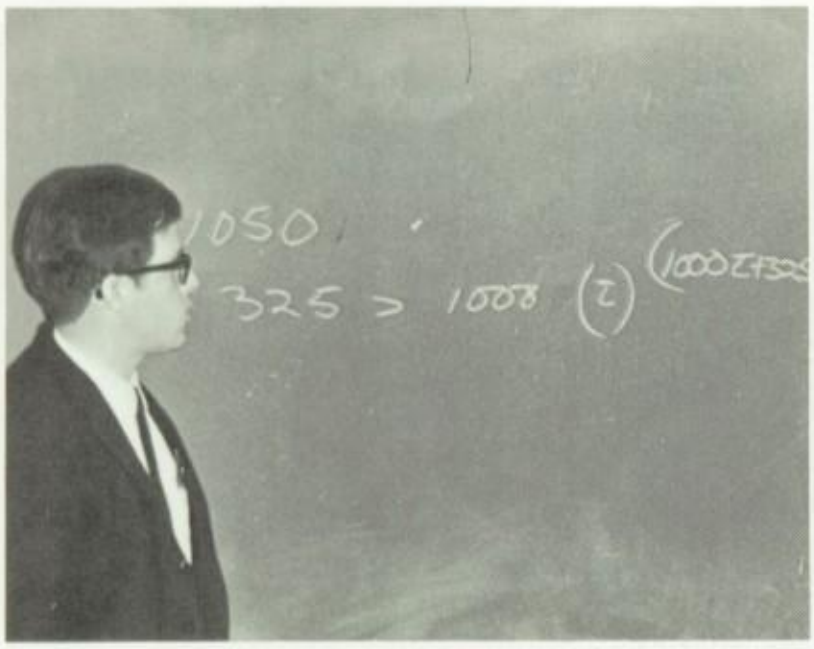
Instead of the narrative approach, history classes emphasized the inductive approach. The new American history books presented facts from both primary and secondary sources, speeches, documents, and newspaper articles, and the student drew his own conclusion from these materials. The many astonishing world events, national elections, and local issues provided the bases for many stimulating classroom discussions and debates. To make students more aware of their community, Mr. Richard Crampton's history classes wrote position papers on the proposed airport project.



Mr. Thomas Lynch taught five classes of American history. History teachers used a new text emphasizing the inductive approach.

In his only economics class, Mr. Donald Dunsmore helped Dan Kipley find facts on which to base conclusions.

Teachers work to



Mr. John Bearss's black board was free from past math explanations only after vacations.

Teaching mathematics, coupled with heading that department, made a full day for Mr. Joseph Thibedeau.

Humorous reactions could not always be avoided as students of Mr. John Swire innovated new math concepts.

make 'new math' less novel for students

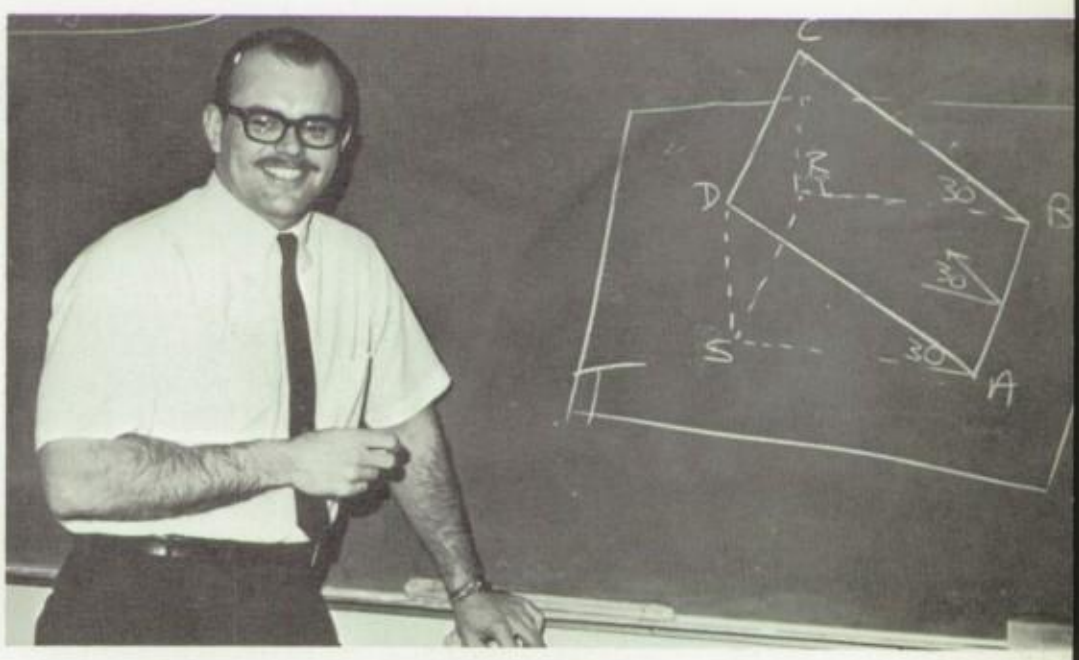
Two occurrences highlighted the math department's year. The annual Michigan Prize Competition, administered in the fall, gave students the opportunity to compete for scholarships. Of those tested at TCHS, sixteen qualified for the finals. Jeff Power, one semi-finalist, received $50 for ranking among the top 37 out of some 25,000 tested in Michigan.

Also, for the first time at TCHS, seniors and honors math students were offered the experience of teaching math classes during the absence of regular instructors.



Mr. George Boehm's artful illustrations made vague math concepts clearer to his Geometry students.

Some days even Mr. James Maas's enthusiasm failed to make Geometry easier for students.

Returned math tests prompted students like Denny Mack to ask additional aid from Mr. Robert Lewallen.

Mr. Thomas Woodward explained the use of the slide rule to both his chemistry and physical science classes.

Only Mr. Charles Ailsworth, science department head, was able to use the complicated control board in his physics room.

Mr. Ed Merchant, biology and physiology instructor, explained an error in Nikki Pestolis' and Jacque Larimer's lab drawing.

Biology students appreciated Mr. Frank Welling's assistance during their experiments in the lab.

Science department updates curriculum

Mr. Alan Garwold regarded films as important and interesting parts of his physics and chemistry classes.

There were two major changes in the science department. The chemistry curriculum was completely revised, with the honors and regular sections using new and different texts. Biology classes stressed laboratory works and, for the first time, all classes used the structural approach. Curriculum was arranged to further challenge the college-bound student.

The department also planned an all-day field trip to the Dow chemical plant in Midland.

Biology teacher Mr. Jim Ooley, known as "Coach" to the varsity football squad, delightedly accepted the LMAC football trophy.

Mr. Stupka made his chemistry classes both enjoyable and informative by using many outside sources.

Commercial classes guide

Mrs. Kirby and Miss Burns taught their students about the use of the gas range.

Miss Linda Murphy discussed a house plan with her students in her home management class.

Mr. Bernie Ackerman, typing instructor, assisted Barb Bell with her typing. His classes practised many timed exercises.

Miss Nellie Smith and Mrs. Geraldine Kinney quizzed their classes on the funda-students in preparing for occupations

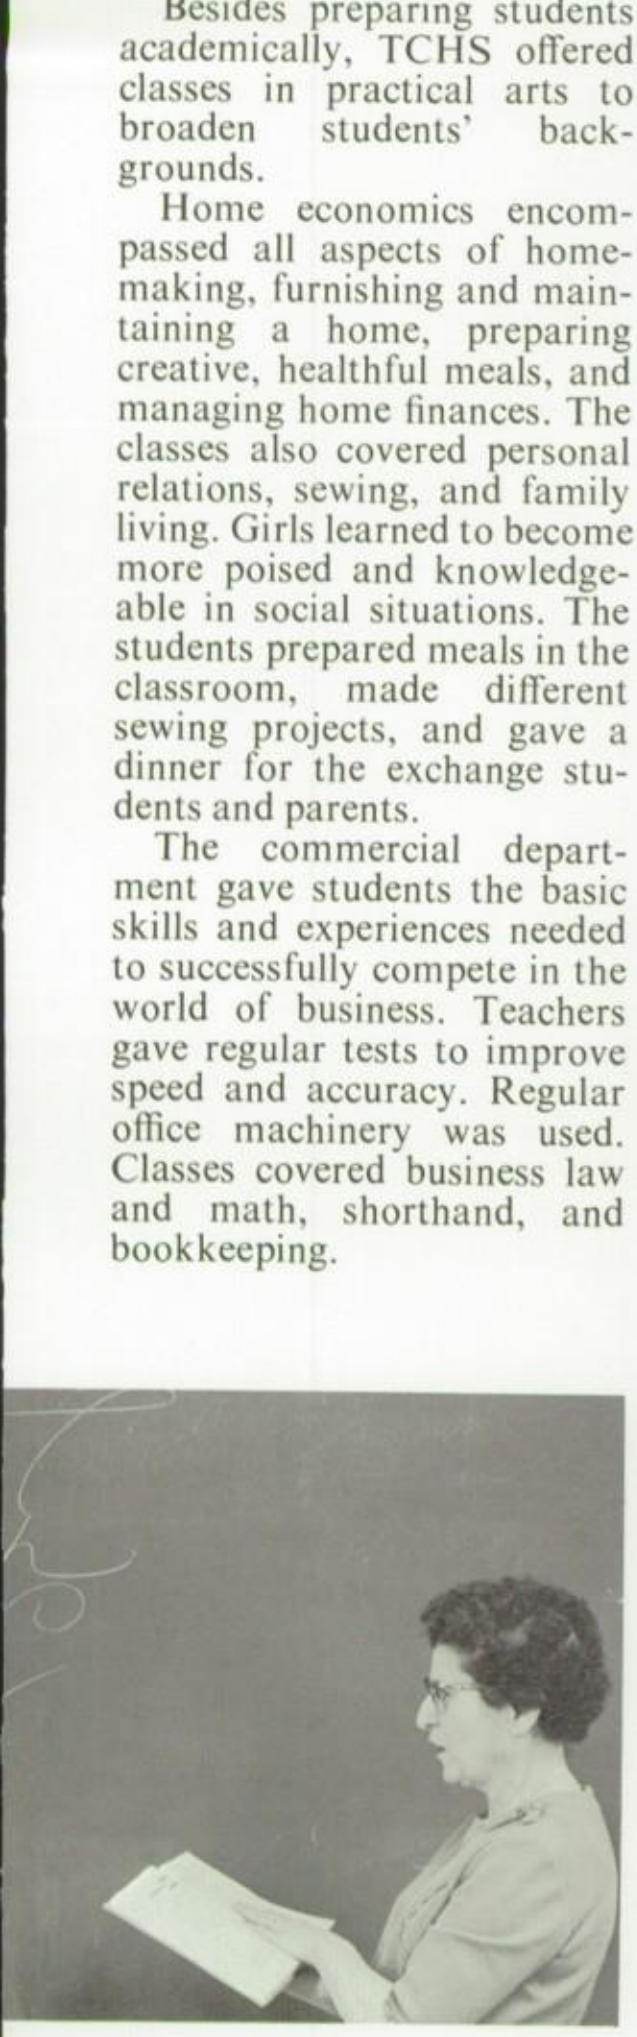
Besides preparing students academically, TCHS offered classes in practical arts to broaden students' backgrounds.

Home economics encompassed all aspects of homemaking, furnishing and maintaining a home, preparing creative, healthful meals, and managing home finances. The classes also covered personal relations, sewing, and family living. Girls learned to become more poised and knowledgeable in social situations. The students prepared meals in the classroom, made different sewing projects, and gave a dinner for the exchange students and parents.

The commercial department gave students the basic skills and experiences needed to successfully compete in the world of business. Teachers gave regular tests to improve speed and accuracy. Regular office machinery was used. Classes covered business law and math, shorthand, and bookkeeping.



mentals of shorthand. They prepared their students for secretarial careers.

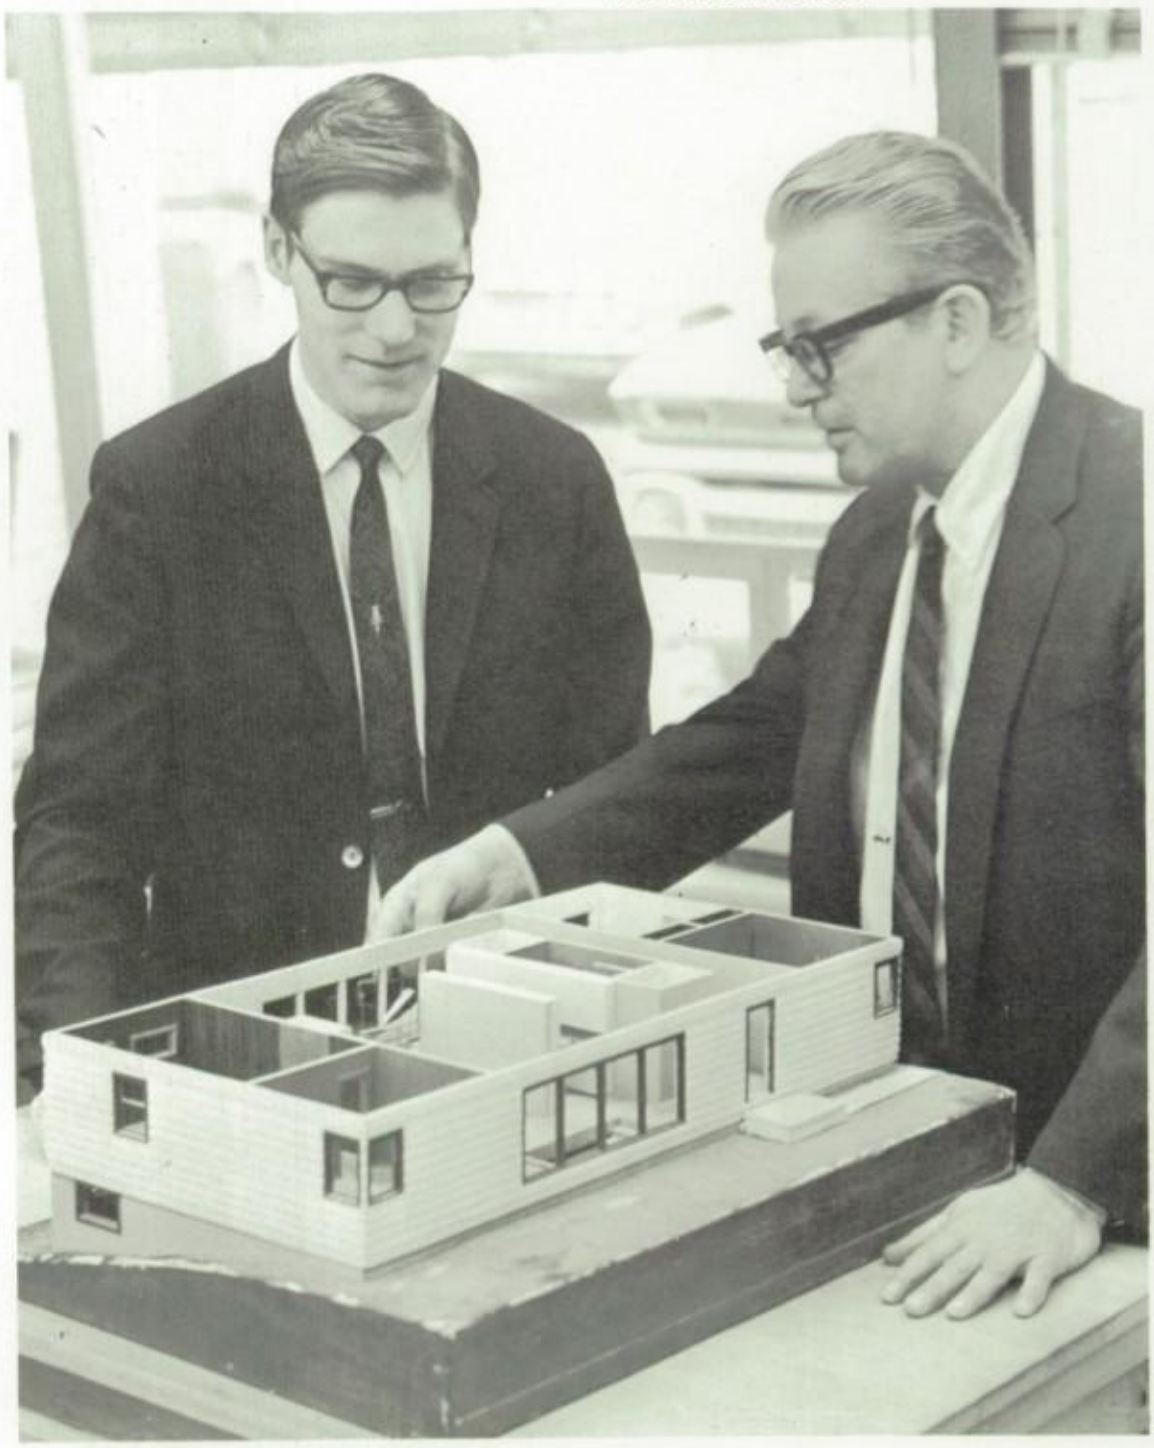
Mrs. Lucille Clawson taught bookkeeping and was also the bookkeeper for the Black and Gold.

Mr. George Kinsman, typing instructor, was also head of the commercial department.

The conservation classes of Mr. Al Lockman, Mr. Gordon Young, and Mr. Joe Neihardt prepared students for careers in forestry and conservation.

Mr. Richard Murphy experimented with the conservation of natural resources at the lab.

Mr. Wilbur McMath coordinated the activities of the vocational department.



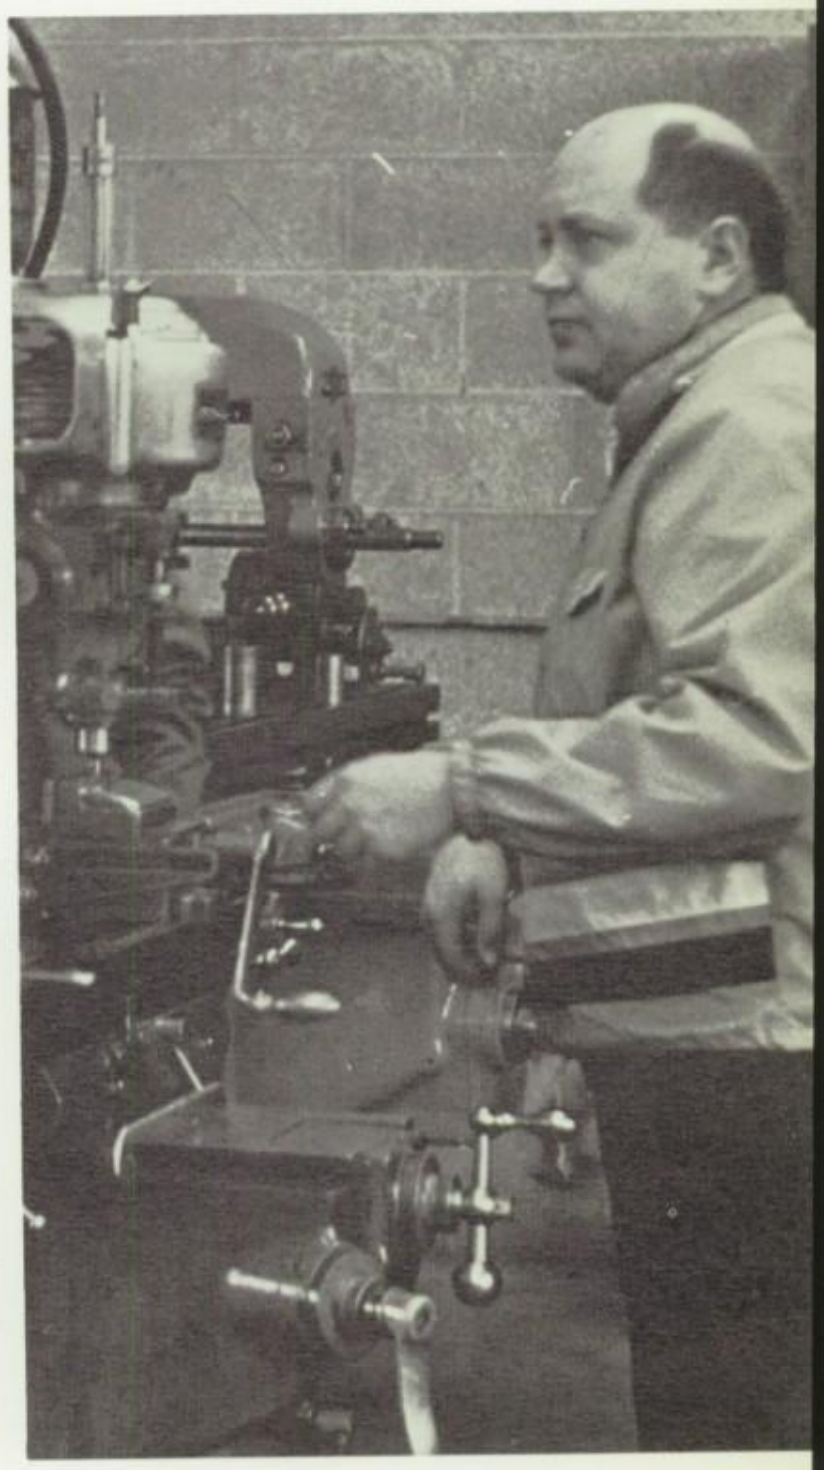
Mr. Dan Young and Mr. Bruce Withers inspected a model house constructed by one of the drafting students. The classes also drew blue-prints.

Students develop vocational abilities

The Vocational Department offered its aid to the rest of the school. Drafting classes prepared transparencies of school construction plans for student viewing. Woodshop students built picnic tables for the mall. Classes in machine shop made a trailer for the driver training program.

Mr. Norm Trahair lectured his classes on the integral parts of the automobile engine. His students learned the techniques of repairing their cars.

For one of their projects, the woodshop students, under the direction of Mr. Dwight Brown, constructed a puppet theatre for the grade schools.



Mr. Bert Comstock assisted his students in constructing machines in the machine shop.

Varied classes complement curriculum

Mr. John Connell, Mr. David Dye, and Mr. Jim Maas had the sometimes harrowing task of preparing young drivers for the difficulties of the road. An expanded driving range, a new pick-up truck, and a trailer made by the machine shop class provided wider variety of learning for the students.

Mr. Irving Menzel, Mrs. Bonnie Sonneman, and two new teachers, Mrs. Betty Carden and Mrs. Joan Laird, taught boys' and girls' physical education classes.

TCHS provided a special class in order to meet the needs of all the students. Mr. Martin Chirgwin spent most of the day with his pupils.

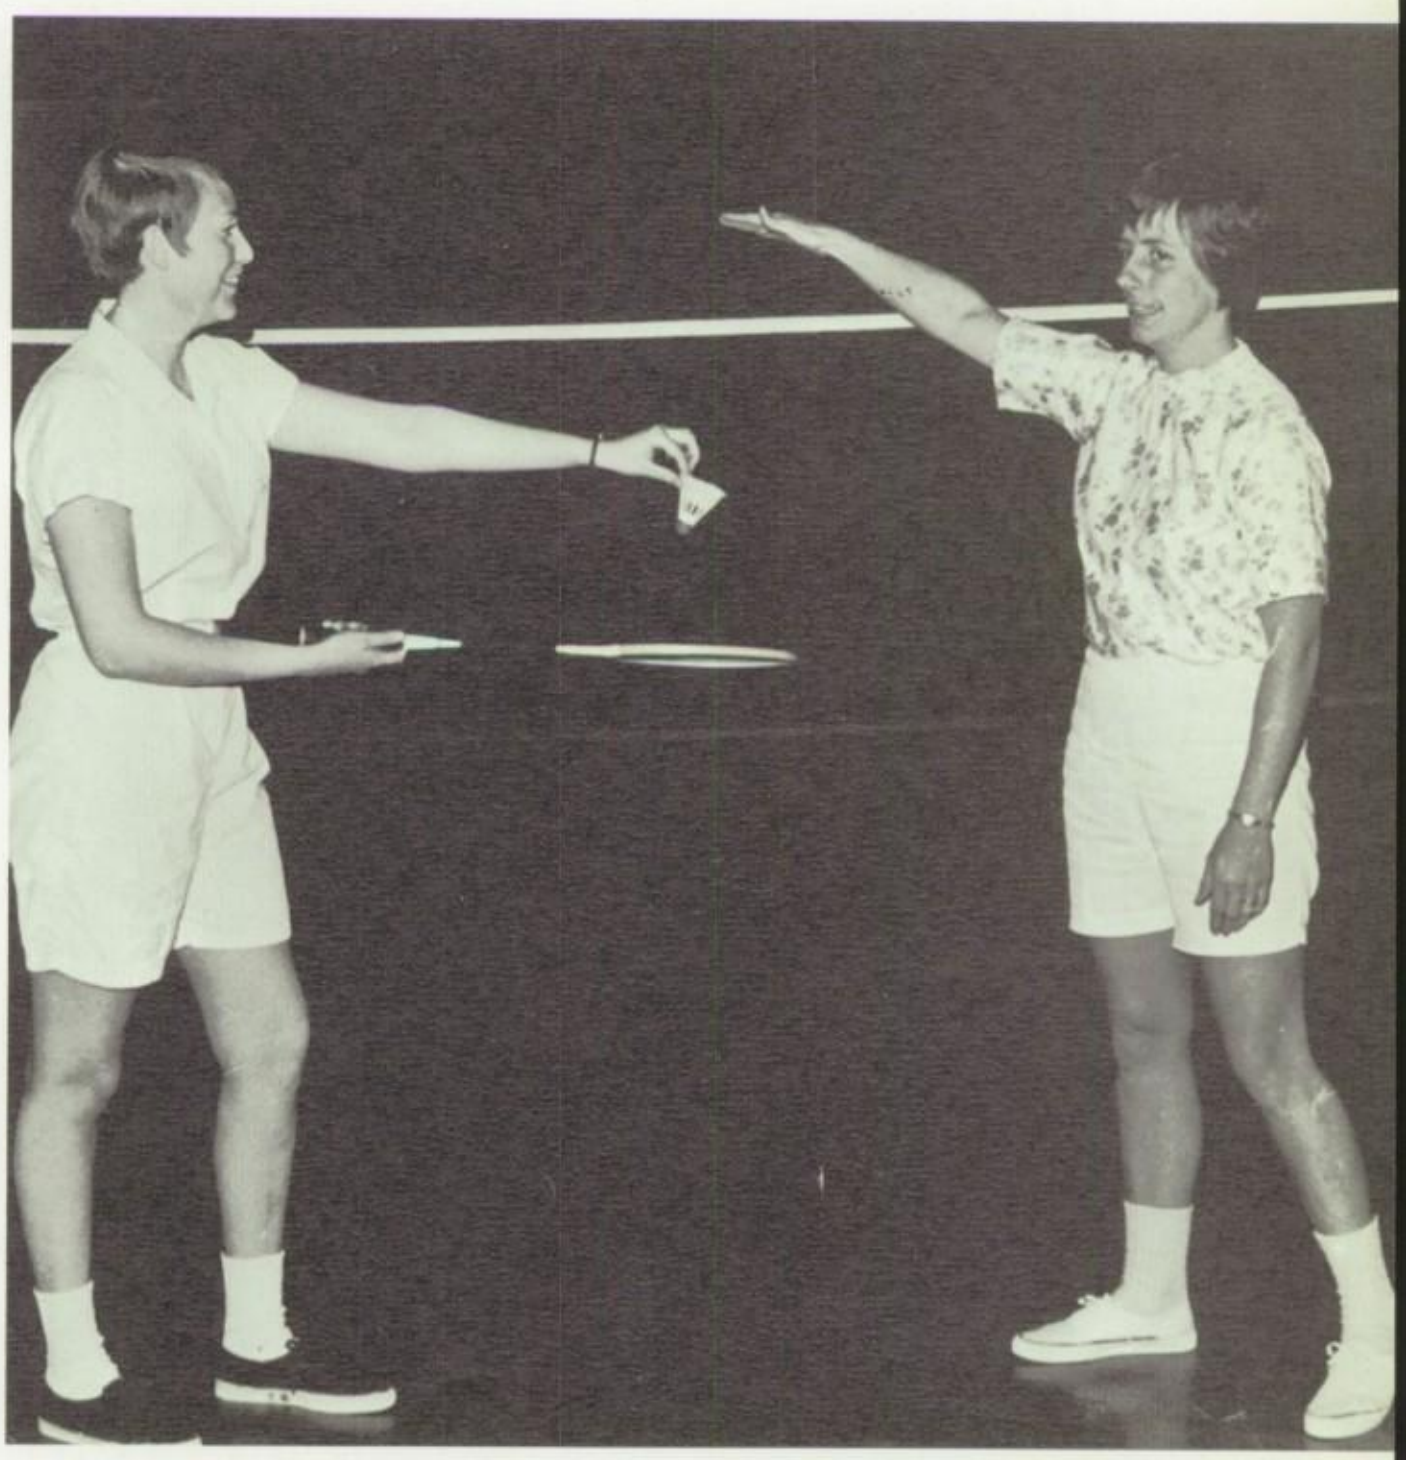
The responsibility of teaching special education class fell to Mr. Martin Chirgwin. Class was held each day during the entire length of the school day.

Mr. Irving Menzel worked to make the boys in his gym classes physically fit.

Mrs. Joan Laird instructed her two girls' classes in volleyball and other sports.

Four drivers' education classes a day were included in Mr. John Connell's schedule. He has helped hundreds of students become good drivers.

Shuffleboard was included in the physical education classes taught by Mrs. Betty Carden.



Mrs. Bonnie Sonneman taught badminton in her gym class. Such a competitive sport teaches not only coordination but also good sportsmanship.

Mr. Mel Larimer was the music supervisor for the spring musical "My Fair Lady" besides conducting the choir and choralaires.

Symphony band, marching band, and Trojan Brass director, Mr. Thad Hegerberg, assisted Barb Hults on one of the musical pieces for band.

Art instructor, Mr. John Koschara, gave critiques of his students' work. One of their projects this year was tissue overlay.

Art, music,

Fostering an appreciation for fine music through exposure and actual performance was a challenge for TCHS teachers. "My Fair Lady" helped to meet the challenge with some parts taken by choir members and the orchestra accompanying the musical under Conductor L. J. Bert. Besides helping with play scenery, art instructors encouraged students to use their abilities fully.

Humanities classes were exposed to a variety of philosophers, ranging from early Greeks to modern existentialists, under Mr. Lyndon Salathiel and Mr. John Haskins.

Pablo Picasso's 'Guerica' was one of the numerous subject matters discussed and humanities classes interest students

Mr. L. J. Bert's nightly orchestra rehearsals for "My Fair Lady" paid players dividends of satisfaction and many praises.

Art instructor Mrs. Ann Potes demonstrated the principal uses of India ink to senior Jill Lardie.

nalyzed in Mr. John Haskin's and Mr. yndon Salathiel's humanities classes.

After marching season, Mr. Robert Jackson reorganized Stage Band. He often played saxophone or cornet during numbers.

Sophomore Loralyn Light offered her solution to one school problem through the suggestion box placed in her wing by Gov. Amon. With the emphasis on earning money for various projects in their junior and senior years, the council headed the magazine drive which aimed at an unprecedented goal of $8,000. Other activities included organizing the sophomores' role in Pep-A-Rama, selling class rings, and assisting in the construction of the sophomore homecoming float.

Inhabitants of TCHS realized the expediency of the building program when over 600 sophomores were added to already overcrowded classrooms. For hungry students, an awareness of the new TCHS'ers was most felt while in a seemingly endless lunch line.

Pat Thomas and Pat Greaige crumpled napkins for the junior Pep-a-Rama wing decorations. Class council members Brenda Henry, Doug Denison, Marsha Figg, Debbie Klaasen, Joyce Pickard, Gary Epting, Mike McGlothlin, and Ron Hoth coordinated junior activities throughout the year. Class advisor Jim Maas supervised. President Tom Katana, Vice-President Scott Ribel, Secretary Karen Lautner, and Treasurer Bob Halachukas were the elected officers of the Class of '70.

The class began the year with an impressive Homecoming float that topped the competition. Over Christmas vacation class members visited patients at Solem Nursing Home and bought them presents from the class treasury.

Despite the valiant efforts of many middleclassmen, they were not victorious in Pep-a-Rama. Their Trojanhead snow sculpture earned them their only first place in the events of the week. Wing decorations placed third; class song, performed by the Jug Band, came in second; the skit, a take-off on "Mission Impossible", ranked second; the juniors were out-pulled by the seniors and sophomores in the tug-of-war.

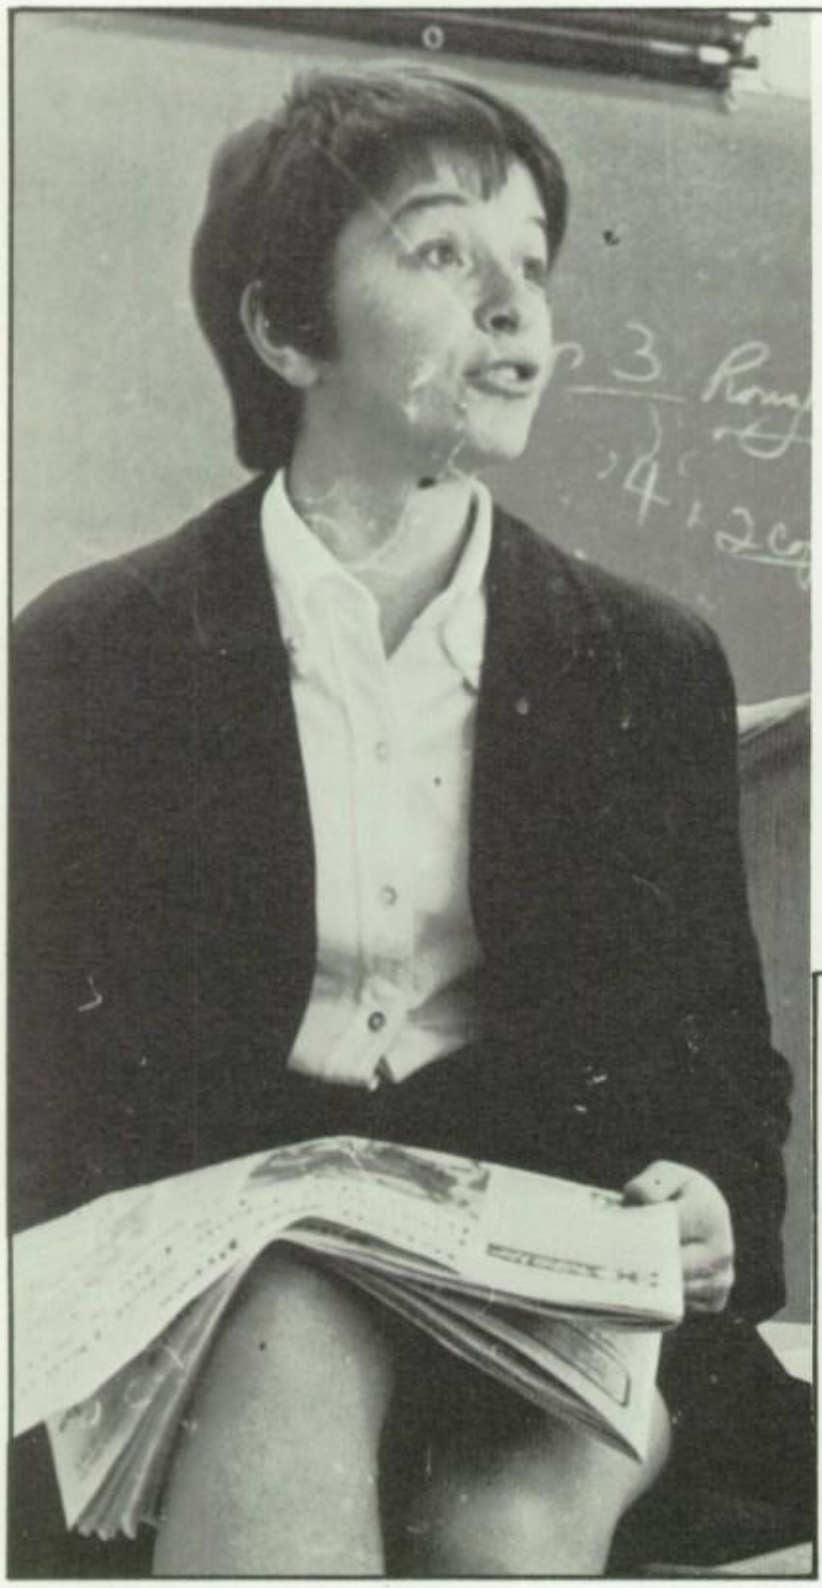
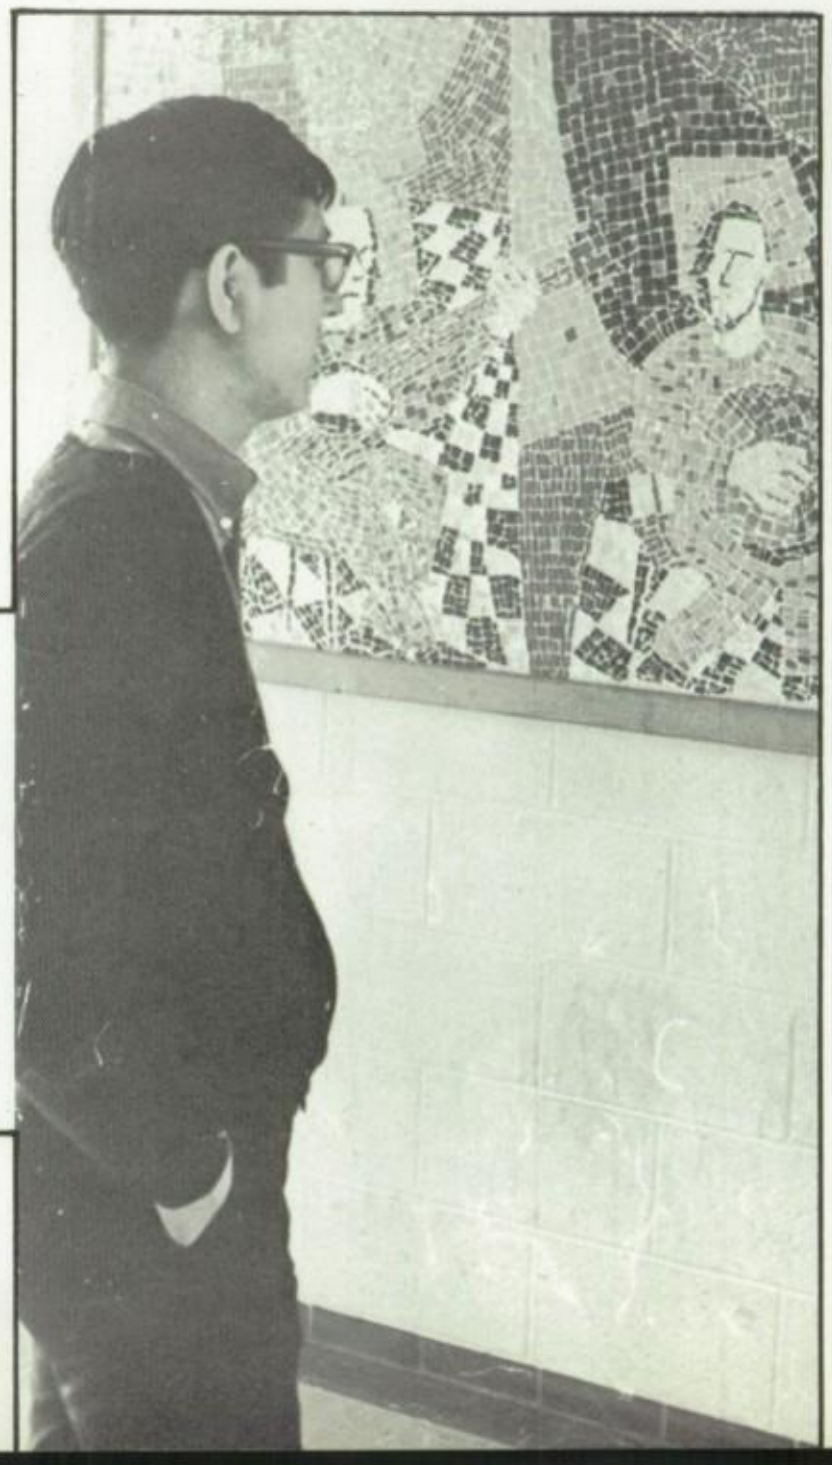
Traverse city visit impresses four



Duba Sambolec

As a citizen of such a small country as Yugoslavia coming as an exchange student to the United States, I have experienced your way of life which is much different from ours. It is not different on the whole, but in the little details: means of transportation, activities during free time, differences of schooling systems, interaction of people, and your views on life and its values. Having a different social environment at home, I have found it hard to adjust to your customs and, in particular, hard to understand your way of looking at foreign countries. However, I greatly appreciate the interest the people take in me and my country. This was evident in the number of programs which I gave to the community. I sincerely hope that the young people of the world come closer to each other which would make our future more promising.



Yuzo Yokota

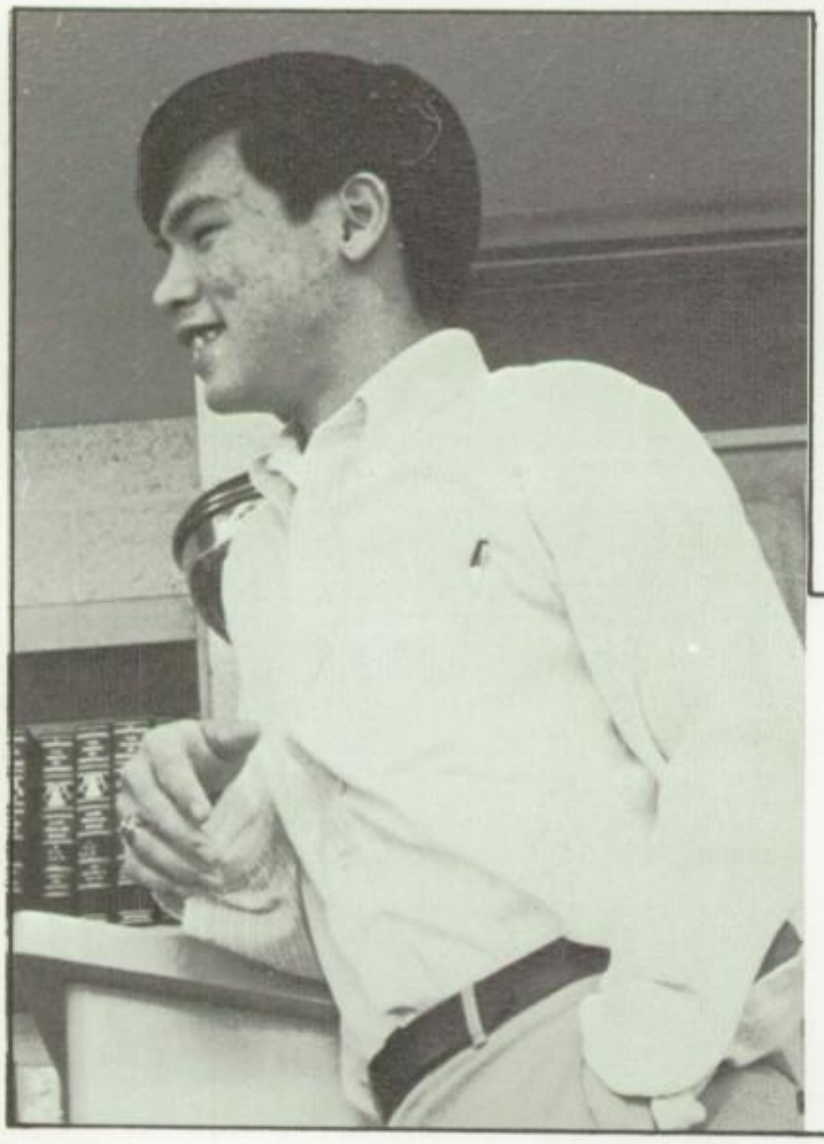
I come here as a YFU exchange student from Tokyo, Japan. I've had many wonderful experiences with my fine American family, the DesAutels. I am lucky since I was placed in one of the most beautiful cities in Michigan. I will never forget this year which has been the happiest year that I have ever had.

Sayonara to all of you who have been so nice to me. Yuzo.

exchange students

Sandy Neely

As an exchangee from Great Britain, I did not have too much difficulty understanding your idiosyncracies which are not too unlike those of Great Britain. Admittedly, the language has lost or gained a bit of meaning, having crossed the Atlantic, but I managed to grasp a knowledge of that difficult language, "The American English," as compared to "The Queen's English." However, I came over for the experience and that is what I'm getting, both in school and in family living. From grading systems to the small details like how the Americans think they won the Revolutionary War, I have gained insight into many things which I have thought had only one side. Thanks to my experience in Traverse City, I will be able to return home with some better understanding of people in other countries.



Bob De Leon

I am coming home with a TCHS class ring —that's great! I'm also taking home a Holiday ski patch, "I Like Traverse City" pins, and a Trojan beanie. But most of all—memories. I won't forget how cool and refreshing spring was here—maybe it's because we don't have spring in the Philippines. And there are so many friendly faces. My experience here has given me a better sense of responsibility which I hope to show when I return home.

Bogi Hall of Fame honors 13 seniors

Thirteen TCHS seniors were selected by the faculty and Bogi Council members and supervisors for the 1969 Bogi Hall of Fame. They were chosen as outstanding seniors in various activities, including both curricular and extracurricular. Their election was announced in the spring preceding graduation in order to include all activities during their senior year.

As a fitting award, each had his name and picture installed in the Bogi Youth Center building. The pictures will hang for a period of one year. The formal portraits were taken by Bud Moyer Studio.

Students from St. Francis High School were also honored in this way. This was the seventeenth annual Hall of Fame conducted by the schools. Photographer Bud Moyer originated the honor in 1952.
